ZEP RIDES PACIFIC STORM

Today

Like Beating China.
Migrating Industry.
Railroads Buy Bus Lines.
Hanging a Woman.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE French have a saying, "Comme on battrait la Chine," "Like beating China," to describe anything easy.

Perhaps Russia had heard that, and about Japan's easy victory over China not long ago, when Russian guns, "reds" and flying machines were sent to China's border.

A Japanese news agency, Rengo, reports from Tokio that a force of 40,000 Russian Soviet troops are easily driving the Chinese before them.

WHEN Charles E. Mitchell, head of the National City Bank, and his organization financed the bringing of Germany's great dye industry to the United States, they did a good thing for this country and for German stockholders.

AN AMERICAN traveler, just returned, who understands business and has some millions of his own to prove it, attaches great importance to the establishment of the German dye industry here.

In addition to giving work to many Americans, including highly educated chemists, it will be recognized as a first step in Germany's exportation of money making enterprises.

"THE idea," says the traveling observer, "is to transplant German profits beyond the reach of the war debt taxes that marks, earned at home, may not be changed into francs and paid to the Allies."

GERMANY'S dye industry in the United States will supply North and South America, Japan, and probably Great Britain.

Other German industries will emigrate to this country, where capital is abundant, and profits are not attached by the Allies. Here they will develop and employ American labor inside American tariff walls.

A GREAT chain of factories, more than 40, are included in the German Farben Gesellschaft, an industry on a really gigantic scale.

The company employs 1,900 chemists of high ability. Its factory for the production of nitrogen is more than three miles long. That is a business with importance.

BRITISH railroads are buying motor bus lines, to repair diminishing profits.

Some American railroads also are doing that, not so much to make profit from buses as to check their competing activities.

A WISER step would be to build the right kind of "buses," small separate units, run them on steel rails at high speed, no stops, each an express, little wear and tear, economical Diesel engines supplying power.

That would take some thought and planning—not very much.

MRS. MARY VIAU, 43 years old, mother of eight children, will be hanged in Canada today for murdering her husband.

The "super-sensitive" will suggest that civilization might have found some way of punishing Mrs. Viau without sentencing eight innocent children to life-long shame.

HOWEVER, you always find improvement if you look for it.

We haven't, at present, any Puritan preachers telling us that the eight little children will sit up in Heaven, later, their bliss greatly augmented by looking down upon those burning in Hell, including their mother, and we no longer burn criminals alive legally, as was once done in New York and New Jersey.

THE International Physiological Congress at Harvard learns that a man running at top speed uses, in chemical energy, 13-horse power.

Overcoming gravitation uses only one-tenth of a horse power. Swinging the arms as you run wastes about half a horse power. Chance there to lower the 100-yard dash record.

ANOTHER learned gentleman discovers that one hour of physical exercise every day for five or six weeks increases enormously the capacity of the lungs, and their ability to transfer oxygen to the blood. If you stop at exercising after six weeks, the body retains part of the benefit for several months.

BIG business grows bigger and bigger.

Minneapolis reports that 34 savings banks have been gathered into one merger to be known as the First Bank Stock Corporation. Seattle has recently announced another very important bank consolidation.

The bigger the better, if the people have any intelligence. It is much easier to watch one big thing, than to watch 100 small things.

MAYORS, police commissioners and plain citizens will be interested in the plan of Commissioner Whalen, New York City. He will equip police cars with radio receiving machines, not for the amusement of drivers, but for receiving police news.

The set will be fastened permanently on one wave, receiving nothing but police news broadcast from headquarters in code.

THERE will probably also be broadcasting in plain English when it is desired to concentrate all police guards within reach on some particular man hunt, quickly.

A preliminary code signal or "radio password" would guarantee the genuineness of the message from headquarters.

BUYING WAVE SKYROCKETS STOCKS

Westinghouse and Steel Lead Upward Climb—Both Go To New High Records

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Stocks swept ahead spiritedly in a heavy bull market today, a dozen or more issues soaring to new high ground. From time to time profit-taking set in but such offerings were quickly absorbed and renewed buying kept prices up close to their best levels of the day.

Leading industrials featured the forward march of prices. Oils were also very active. Coppers lagged throughout most of the day, but motors, after a dull forenoon, came into prominence early in the afternoon.

STEEL AT NEW HIGH

United States Steel, hitting a new high of 259, was one of the star performers of the day. This was a gain of 9¼ points over last night's close. The advance in U. S. Steel had a stimulating effect on the entire industrial group.

Westinghouse Electric also set a new high at 292⅝, up 15⅝.

New highs were recorded by the following: Bethlehem Steel at 137⅞, up 4⅞; Dupont 217, up 11 points; Air Reduction 199⅞, up 15; International Telephone and Telegraph 137½, up 6⅞; Eastman Kodak 218½, up 6⅝; American Tobacco 197¾, up 4¼; Woolworth 100⅜, up 3⅜ Hershey 126¼, up 2¼; Republic Iron and Steel 118¼, up 7½, and Crucible Steel 114⅝, up 2⅝ points.

MARKET OPENS STRONG

The market opened with a bang, a list of new highs being registered at the outset. Along toward noon there was some profit-taking, but not sufficient to disturb the upward movement. Early in the afternoon the market was as brisk as ever with leading stocks still in demand at their highest levels of the day.

Motors came into the spotlight late in the third hour. General Motors advanced 2¼ to 75; Chrysler rose 1½ to 74½, and Mack Truck gained 4⅞ to 101.

Traders apparently ignored the report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showing an increase of $133,000,000 in brokers' loans for the week ended August 21. This brought the total of such loans up to $6,085,000,000, a new high mark for all time.

Lindy's Bride Makes First Solo Flight

HICKSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, the former Anne Spencer Morrow, is a full-fledged flyer now.

For the first time in her life she made a solo flight at the Aviation Country Club here today.

While her famous husband, who has been instructing her, stood on the ground, Mrs. Lindbergh took a Fledgling training plane aloft and after flying about for a few minutes made a successful landing. Mrs. Lindbergh had spent nine hours in the air with her husband in preparation for today's flight.

LITTLE CAESAR

By W. R. BURNETT

Sam Vettori, Gangster, Drafts Plan For Holdup of Casa Alvarado, A High Class Night Club

CHAPTER I.

SAM VETTORI sat staring down into Halsted street. He was a big man, fat as a hog, with a dark, oily complexion, kinky black hair and a fat acquiline face. In repose he had an air of lethargic good-nature, due entirely to his bulk; for in reality he was sullen, bad-tempered and cunning. From time to time he dragged out a huge gold watch and looked at it with raised eyebrows and pursed lips.

Near him at a round table sat Otero, called The Greek, Tony Pasa, and Sam Vettori's lieutenant, Rico, playing stud for small stakes. Under the green-shaded lamp Otero's dark face looked livid and cavernous. He sat immobile and said nothing, win or lose. Tony, robust and rosy, scarcely twenty years old, watched each turn of the cards intently, shouting with joy when his luck was good, cursing when it was bad, more out of excitement than interest in the stakes. Rico sat with his hat tilted over his eyes, his pale, thin face slightly drawn, his fingers tapping. Rico always played to win.

Vettori, puffing, pulled himself to his feet and began to walk up and down.

"Where you suppose he is?" he asked the ceiling. "I told him eight o'clock. It is half-past."

"Joe never knows what time it is," said Tony.

"Joe's no good," said Rico without taking his eyes off the cards, "he's soft."

"Well," said Vettori, stopping to watch the game out of boredom, "maybe so. But we can't do without him, Rico. I tell you, Rico, he can go anywhere. A front is what he's got. Swell hotels? What does it mean to that boy? He says to the clerk, I would like please a suite. A suite! You see, Rico. We can't do without him."

Rico tapped on the table, flushing slightly.

"All right, Sam," he said, "some day he'll turn yellow. Hear what I say. He's not right. What's all this dancing? A man don't dance for money."

Sam laughed.

"Oh, Rico! You don't know Joe."

Tony stared at Rico.

"Rico," he said, "Joe's right. I know what I'm saying. All that dancing is a front. He's smart. Have they ever got him once?"

Rico slammed down his cards. He hated Joe and he knew that Tony and Vettori knew it.

"All right," he said, "hear what I say. He'll turn yellow some day. A man don't take money for dancing."

"I win," said Otero.

Rico pushed the money toward him and got to his feet.

"Well, if he don't show up in 10 minutes I'll take the air," said Rico.

"You stay where you are," said Vettori, his face hardening.

Tony watched the two of them intently. Otero counted his money. One day Vettori said to Rico, "Rico, you are

Martha Norelius Leading $15,000 Lake Swim

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Martha Norelius, former world amateur champion, glided swiftly into the lead as 45 women distance swimmers dove from the starting line at 12:15 p. m. today in the annual 10-mile Wrigley marathon in Lake Ontario. Ethel Hertle, defending champion, followed her by a few yards in the chase for the $15,000 prize money.

Miss Norelius held a lead of 10 yards over Ruth C. Tower, of Toronto, at the end of the first mile. Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong, of Detroit, was third and Miss Hertle fourth, 75 to 100 yards behind the leader. Leah Riley, of Keansburg, N. J., was fifth.

Officials announced at the start that the temperature of the water was 64 degrees.

MOTHER OF 8, ACCOMPLICE HANGED

Woman Calm, Man Shaken As They Await Death Walk; Trapper Asks Forgiveness

International News Service.

HULL, Quebec, August 23.—For the murder of her husband, Marie Viau, 42, and the mother of eight children, went to the gallows today. In a drenching rain, the first woman to be hanged in the dominion in more than 30 years, and the sixth in Canadian history, went calmly to her death.

Sixteen minutes before the trap was sprung beneath her, Philip LeFebvre, the 32-year-old trapper from the Gatineau hills, paid the same penalty for the same crime.

POISON IN SOUP

The pair were convicted of poisoning Zephyr Viau, after they had discovered love. His death, the trial revealed, was accomplished by the simple expedient of placing strychnine in his soup.

Hundreds of persons milled about the walls of the jail hoping to see the two hanged on a special scaffold in the jail yard.

2 REDS ORDERED ARRESTED

Two speakers at a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting held despite police objection at Union avenue and East Ohio street, last night will be arrested today. Warrants charging violation of a city ordinance, were issued by Magistrate E. M. Hough.

Freda Truhar, 18, of 2503 Arlington avenue, and John Karpec, 1525 Hunter street, Wilkinsburg, were the speakers and police today were ordered to serve warrants on them.

Patrick Devine, district Communist organizer, announced yesterday that the meeting would be held despite police orders. After the two speakers had addressed about 200 persons who had collected, the meeting was adjourned to Workers' Hall, 805 James street, where four other speakers made addresses.

Lieut. John J. Callaghan and Patrolman John Greeney, who attended the meeting, made no effort to stop it. They took notes and reported that one of the speakers had urged "the young blood of America should turn the guns on their respective bosses and shoot them down instead of shooting defenseless workers."

Rain Prevents Second Pirate-Giant Battle

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The second game of the series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants, scheduled here this afternoon, was called off on account of rain.

TRIO HOLDS UP JEWELRY SHOP

Two armed Negroes walked into the jewelry and repair shop of Israel Bihnstock, 38, 2021 Center avenue, this afternoon, hit Bihnstock on the head, dragged him to a rear room, where they bound him. They then ransacked the store and fled with a companion who had been left on guard. The store is close to the Center Avenue Police Station.

Fifteen minutes after the attack, Bihnstock regained consciousness and hammered on a rear door to attract attention. Neighbors heard his rappings.

Bihnstock suffered from cuts on the head where he was struck by the revolvers.

LIGHTNING PERILS GRAF SPEEDING TOWARDS LOS ANGELES

(Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.)
Via Radio to International News Service.

ON BOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Aug. 23.—The Graf Zeppelin, en route from Kasumigaura flying field to Los Angeles, on the third leg of its round-the-world flight, today successfully passed through the worst storm in the history of its air travels.

The airship struck the storm within 300 miles after the start from Kasumigaura, at 3:12 p. m. (2:12 a. m. Pittsburgh daylight time).

Lightning Perils Ship

The storm was of greater intensity than that which the Graf encountered over the Atlantic last October during the first flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, and was far more dangerous.

This storm furnished the passengers aboard the Graf, and Dr. Eckener and his officers, their first experience with an electric storm while in flight.

For several minutes, which seemed like hours to those in the control cabin, the vivid flashes of the deadly lightning played about the great silver hulk of the airship. Any one of those brilliant bolts, the concussion of which sounded like the rending of the universe, would have blown the great air liner and its human cargo to bits, had a direct hit been registered on one of the gas bags.

Lady Hay Remains Calm

During this time Dr. Eckener and his navigating officers literally played tag with wholesale death in the skies, but the Graf rode magnificently through the ordeal. The roaring motors never once faltered, and not once did the great silver hull fail to respond smoothly and unerringly to the movement of her rudder or stabilizers.

All on board, from Dr. Eckener down to the airship's dimunitive cabin boy, realized the danger, but one and all remained calm.

Lady Grace Drummond Hay, the only woman passenger on board, was the coolest and apparently the least concerned of the passengers, just as she was the heroine of the incident in the main cabin when the Graf so nearly plunged into the sea east of Bermuda last October on the first Lakehurst flight. Her magnificent behavior had a most beneficial effect on the other passengers.

Storm Fails to Delay Zep

The storm was not actually of long duration, nor did its wildly twisting air currents and deadly lightning flashes seriously delay the progress of the air liner.

Almost as soon as the main cabin ceased to heave and roll as the navigating officers hurled it this way and that, seeking the least dangerous areas of the storm, the passengers gathered around the dining table for dinner.

The meal was finished at 9 p. m. (8 a. m. eastern daylight time), without further incident.

As this dispatch was filed, soon after dinner, the Graf was running smoothly, making about 81 land miles per hour. The airship's position was then more than 300 miles northeast of Kasumigaura air field.

Now that the experience of the storm is past, both passengers and officers of the Zeppelin are delighted with the performance of the ship in time of such dire stress. The experience has added confidence to the already complete assurance felt on all hands, of the Graf's ability to weather almost any kind of a storm which may beset the air. Everyone aboard congratulated themselves and one another on the airship's behavior. All were happy, too, over the splendid progress the ship is making toward Los Angeles.

TOKIO, Aug. 23.—The Graf Zeppelin, bound from Tokio to Los Angeles on the third leg of its round-the-world flight, crossed the Japanese coast line to the Pacific Ocean this evening and at 9 o'clock (8 a. m. Pittsburgh daylight saving time), was approximately 420 miles east by northeast of Tokio.

At 11 a. m. the dirigible radioed Tokio that she was approximately 600 miles northeast of here.

Just four hours after Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of

Com. Eckener, guiding the great Graf Zep on the third leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin world flight from Japan to Southern California, hopes to land at Los Angeles next Tuesday.

The distance is 5,000 miles. An average speed of 60 miles per hour, much less than the Graf is capable of doing, will put the ship off the Pacific Coast on scheduled time.

The third leg of the world flight is the longest sustained flight over water ever attempted by aircraft.

the round-the-world airship, gave the order "Let's go!" at Kasumigaura air field, near here, to begin the third leg of the world-circling flight, the airship was sighted passing over Sanohe, Oomuri prefecture, 343 miles northeast of Tokio.

Two hours previously word had reached Tokio that the Zeppelin had passed over Taira, approximately 125 miles northeast of the capital.

Good Flying Weather

Both reports of the liner's progress indicated that Dr. Eckener had chosen excellent flying weather for the start of the Pacific leg of his trip.

It was not known here whether the Graf's commander was following the practice established on the trans-Siberian journey of using but three or four of the Zeppelin's five motors to conserve fuel, or whether all five motors were being used to develop full speed.

The reports from Taira and Senohe indicated Dr. Eckener was following the course tentatively announced before the start from Kasumigaura via Hakkaido, the Kurile Islands, the Aleutian Islands and down the Pacific coast to Los Angeles.

Longest Water Flight

Starting out on the longest sustained flight over water ever attempted by aircraft, the Graf Zeppelin left the Kasumiguara Aid Field at 3:12 p. m. today (2:12 a. m., Pittsburgh daylight saving time).

The "jinx" which had held the giant air liner captive at this airport for 36 hours beyond the time at which she was scheduled to start fled with the slackening of crosswinds which had swept the field all during the morning, and under the expert direction of Com. Eckener, the huge craft started on the third lap of its epochal journey without difficulty.

The dirigible lost no time getting into an 85-mile-an-hour stride, for 14 minutes after the takeoff the Graf was reported over Mito City, 65 miles north of Tokio and more than 20 miles from the aerodrome.

Multitude Cheers Start

As the probable time of the start had been announced several hours previously, a mammoth crowd had assembled at the aerodrome to bid the aerial monarch farewell. It was estimated that several hundred thousand persons, including German and other foreign residents, as well as Japanese, were on the field when the Zeppelin soared majestically into the sky.

The Graf had been ready since midnight to start on the long trans-Pacific flight. At that time, repairs to the rear motor gondola, damaged when the ship was being walked out of its hangar for the takeoff early yesterday, had been completed, and the passengers had assembled for the start.

But a crosswind of sharp velocity was blowing across the field, and Dr. Eckener decided it would be risky to attempt to take the ship from its hangar until the breeze subsided.

Ground Crew Atones

About noon it was seen that the wind was decreasing in velocity, and Dr. Eckener again ordered all made ready for the start. The ground crew of 500 Japanese soldiers, sailors and marines was reassembled, and the passengers took their places in the main gondola.

There was some delay while Dr. Eckener bid farewell to a number of Japanese dignitaries and government officials who had come to the airport to see the Graf start, and shortly before 3 o'clock Dr. Eckener gave the order for the ship to be removed from its hangar.

Extreme care was used by the ground crew to prevent a repetition of Thursday's accident, when the gondola housing the rear motor caught on a door jamb, bending the struts and duralumin supports and necessitating the first 24 hours' delay.

The Kasumigaura hangar was built for ships of much more modest dimensions than the giant Graf, and there was only 18 inches of clearance space between the top of the dirigible and the roof of the shed.

But the ground crew, obviously anxious to atone for the mishap which delayed the take-off and caused the Graf to sustain the first setback its time-table schedule had suffered since the start of the flight, eased the ship from the hangar without so much as scraping her silver sides.

Enthusiastic cheers rose from the throats of the thousands of spectators as the Graf slowly lifted itself from the earth, the afternoon sun gleaming on its glistening sides. The cheers echoed and re-echoed as the ship drew further away, mounting ever higher, while in the main gondola the passengers, their faces pressed close against the glass, waved hands and handkerchiefs in an aerial adieu to the flowery kingdom.

When half a mile from the field, the Zeppelin turned back to describe a majestic circle over the hangar, and then, with its engines roaring in deeper pitch as the throttles were opened wider, the great ship headed out toward the east, away from the sun and toward the vast expanses of the Pacific.

Ocean Ships on Lookout For Speeding Zeppelin

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Numerous ships, including those of the Dollar Line, were traveling along the customary lanes—the Great Circle route, and the more direct route via Honolulu—today as the Graf Zeppelin was roaring over the Pacific toward the United States.

All Dollar liners have been ordered to be on the lookout for the Zeppelin and their masters instructed to render every possible assistance to the dirigible.

LOST MIND IN FIGHT—1 HELD

A produce yard fight last July 9, which, it is said, robbed Myles T. Schall, 42, of Allerton, Armstrong County, of his memory, today resulted in Andrew (Jack) Ungele, 24, Etna produce dealer, being held for court charged with aggravated assault and battery.

Testimony before Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court indicated that Schall drove to the Pennsylvania produce yards and was attacked by Ungele. Roy Silvis, friend of Schall, testified Schall was knocked down and suffered a fractured skull. Released from the hospital, it is said, Schall has suffered loss of memory and is confined to his home. He was unable to attend the hearing. Ungelle claimed Schall received his injuries when he slipped on a watermelon.

Sun-Telegraph Mayor Poll Now Covers Seven Wards

Thousands of ballots are in the mail today as the mayoralty straw vote poll of Pittsburgh conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is extended to five additional city wards.

Registered voters of two Pittsburgh wards are in receipt of ballots mailed yesterday, the initial distribution in the canvass of the 31 wards of the city to ascertain sentiment in the important mayoralty campaign now on in earnest.

An increased staff engaged in the distribution of ballots has speeded up the work of preparing and mailing the double postcards. More than 30,000 ballots, one to every fifth voter on the registry lists, will be distributed in the 31 wards of the city.

A widespread interest in the poll has been reported to the Sun-Telegraph from all parts of the city. Adherents of James F. Malone, Richard W. Martin and Charles H. Kline, candidates for the Republican nomination, have given evidence of their desire to register their choice in the straw vote poll.

The first returns are expected to be received tomorrow, but the ballots will not arrive in volume until next week, when the daily standing of the candidates will be announced.

DOG LEADS WAY TO SUICIDE

AMHERST, Mass., Aug. 23.—A hunting dog that strayed from its master led to a discovery which solved the mystery surrounding another of Western Massachusetts' missing student puzzles.

Lying beneath a pine tree in an isolated clump of woods skirting a pasture in an outlying section of the town, the body of Frederick McCann, Jr., 20, of Short Hills, N. J., missing Amherst College sophomore, was found.

A weather-worn rope which had been broken, probably by the weight of the body, hung from a limb of the tree, convincing investigators that the young college man had committed suicide after he disappeared on May 3 last, presumably deranged by overstudy.

REESE MOURNED IN DEATH BY TOWNSHIP

Mining Engineer Was Civil War Veteran; Came Here From Wales in Boyhood

Harrison Township mourns today the last of its Civil War veterans, William S. Reese, mining engineer and metallurgist and former general manager of the Pennsylvania Salt Company's smelting department.

Mr. Reese died Monday at his home in Natrona. He was buried yesterday in Prospect Cemetery, Tarentum. A native of Swansea, Wales, Mr. Reese came to this country in his boyhood and aided many of the pioneer copper enterprises in New Mexico, Nevada and Montana. He leaves two children, Mrs. Edward E. Armstrong and Leonard D. T. Reese.

HUSBANDS MEAN TROUBLES

Mrs. Hazel Horne Smith, 17, learned today that two can get into twice as much trouble as one.

Two years ago Mrs. Smith was paroled after she had testified against Ephrian Humbert and his sister, Mrs. Maude Zavil, who were sentenced to federal prisons on counterfeiting charges. Mrs. Smith believed herself then to be the wife of Humbert, but discovered her error when a Mrs. Humbert, whose claim antedated hers, appeared at the trial.

On Tuesday the girl, who had since married Andrew J. Smith, of Easton, was arested in Dubois, Pa., for violation of her parole. Judge R. M. Gibson today extended her parole period six months.

As the Smiths left the Federal Court room City Detective James Swearingen arrested the husband on a suspicious person charge. He is wanted, Swearinger alleged, in Easton for failing to return a drive-yourself auto.

WOMAN KILLED IN FARM FEUD

MARION, Ill., Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Ora Howard was slain and her husband and 13-year-old son, Lloyd, were wounded seriously today in a shotgun battle which climaxed a feud between the Howard family and that of Loyce Kimmell.

Kimmell, 35, is in county jail here charged with the shooting. The families lived on neighboring farms.

The quarrel arose over a boundary fence and waxed into bitter hatred when the two men met at the line dividing their farms this morning with shotguns.

Mrs. Howard was shot through the heart. Howard, shot in the face and chest, is not believed fatally hurt. The boy is less seriously injured.

Talks by Watson Only Business In Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, has been the sole speaker in the two sessions of the Senate since the Summer recess ended on Monday.

Yesterday, as on Monday, at the conclusion of the opening prayer, Senator Watson addressed Vice President Curtis. Upon recognition he moved adjournment for three days and the meeting was over. The Senate adjourned until Monday and will continue the three-day recesses until September 4, when the tariff bill is to be taken up.

executive council of Canada refused to intervene.

WIFE GAVE POTION

The pair, according to evidence introduced at the trial, had plotted the slaying for a considerable time. The strychnine was purchased by Lefebvre and administered by the wife, who placed enough of the poison in her husband's broth to kill six men.

The children of Mrs. Viau, the youngest of whom is 3 and the eldest 19, are being cared for by a farmer in the Gatineau district. Efforts have been made to spare them details of the sordid tragedy.

Although wooden screens and curtains had been placed about the scarlet scaffold to hide it from the curious, a large crowd milled about the walls of the jail yard during the double execution.

Two masses were said for the condemned before they were led to the scaffold.

WOMAN CALM

Mrs. Viau was the more composed of the two as they waited in their cells. While she sat stern and unmoved Lefebvre sobbed and fretted.

Although Mrs. Viau had expressed a desire to see him before they went to their deaths, he expressed no such wish. One of his last acts was to write a letter to his father asking forgiveness for what he had done.

At their trial last spring, neither made any attempt to deny the charges.

No newspaper men were permitted to witness the execution, due to a ruling made at the last hanging in Canada, when the Quebec government was flooded with applications from all parts of the country.

Efforts were made to obtain intervention for Mrs. Viau on the grounds her health was failing, but the council remained adamant.

Many women have been sentenced to hang in Quebec province during the last decade, but all received commutation to life imprisonment.

GRID STAR GETS LONG TERM

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—George "Rush" Meadows, former University of California football star, attorney and ex-convict, yesterday was sentenced in Superior Court to 7 to 20 years in Folsom prison. He was convicted on 11 counts of grand theft of $31,000 from the family of John Osborne, allegedly obtained on representations that he could obtain a pardon for Osborne, a prisoner at Leavenworth (Kan.) penitentiary.

Meadows was sentenced to Folsom because of his previous imprisonment at Leavenworth penitentiary following conviction for possession of Liberty bonds stolen from a Nebraska bank in 1925. It was there he met Osborne, a fellow convict, whose pardon he assured Osborne's family he could obtain because of his "influence."

J. E. Osborne, father of the prisoner, who was the principal trial witness against Meadows, testified that Meadows impressed him with letters and documents signed with the names of President Coolidge and later of President Hoover. The signatures were declared forgeries.

Second Soldier Hurt In Stampede Dies

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Nat F. Peterson, 20, of Little Falls, Minn., died in the Fort D. A. Russell Hospital yesterday, the second victim of the stampede of artillery horses Monday at the Pole Mountain maneuver and target reservation, 30 miles northwest of Cheyenne. Walter C. Brunson, of Indianapolis, was killed in the stampede. The condition of the nine other troopers receiving hospital attention was reported satisfactory.

Cumberland Fair Opens on Monday

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 23.—The twelfth annual Cumberland Fair will open Monday with every prospect of record-breaking attendance. Everything is ready for one of the most complete agricultural, livestock and allied exhibits in Western Maryland. The fair will continue until Saturday night. Seven running races will be held five afternoons, starting Tuesday. There will be drills by Troop F, Third United States Cavalry, from Fort Meyer, Va.

Admits Forgeries, Goes to Workhouse

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Pleading guilty to passing 17 forged checks in Washington and Claysville, a total of $306, Herbert McGilton, alias Herbert Smith, formerly of Elizabeth, W. Va., was sentenced to from three to six years in the Allegheny County Workhouse by Judge Edwin Cummins.

POLICE FREE IN 2 DRY KILLINGS

Victims Die as Officers Fire Into Car With Shotgun; Say Suspects Shot First

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Aug. 22.—(AP.)—Police Chief LeRoy Sisk and Patrolman George Nipper were exonerated by a coroner's jury here in the killing of Earl Kreiger and Albert McDonald, alleged bootleggers, in the downtown section, when the officers sought to search their car for liquor.

Sisk testified at the inquest he fired three shots from a shotgun into the car occupied by Kreiger and McDonald after the men fired a pistol at the police automobile in which he and Nipper were riding. A small amount of whisky in two pint bottles and a pistol were taken from the car, Sheriff Pritchard said.

SHOOTS INTO CAR

James P. Sutton, former police officer, who was near the scene, testified he heard shotgun fire before a pistol sounded.

The killing occurred within a half block of Kreiger's lunch room, which has been under police surveillance.

As the cars met in an alley Nipper called a halt and Sisk dropped from the running board on the opposite side and ran around the police machine, approaching the Kreiger car from the front. Sisk and Nipper agreed that as both cars stopped, Kreiger, the driver, opened fire on the police car with an automatic pistol. Chief Sisk fired through the windshield and doors. The two died almost instantly.

The officer summoned an ambulance and reported the killings to the sheriff.

UNARMED, WIFE SAYS

Kreiger served a federal sentence at Danville, Ill., several years ago. He was convicted through efforts of the late S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux Klan dry raider. McDonald, a coal mine employe, came here to attend the funeral of his estranged wife, who committed suicide in Gary, Ind.

Mrs. Kreiger, who was in the Kreiger establishment and heard the shooting, said neither man had been armed when they left her.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—G. A. Demoss, United States deputy marshal here, faced a murder charge for the killing of Charles Jenkins, north of Tahlequah, Okla., last Tuesday. Jenkins, father of five children, had been sought for two years on a federal indictment charging prohibition law violations. He was shot to death attempting to run away.

Willis Thompson, Cherokee County sheriff, who accompanied the federal officer to the Jenkins home, also is charged with murder in connection with the slaying.

'MINOR' HURTS KILL 2 MEN

Infection from seemingly minor injuries caused the death of two men in the Pittsburgh district today.

William Weller, 65, of Washington avenue, Harrison Township, stepped on a rusty nail three days ago. He died in the Allegheny Valley Hospital today of heart failure, caused by infection from the wound.

Jacob McIntye, 52, of 661 Irwin avenue, Hays, suffered a crushed thumb while working in the Pittsburgh Steel and Foundry Company's plant August 14. Infection caused his death in the Mercy Hospital today.

Italy's Speed Ace Killed in Flight

ROME, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Italy's hopes for victory in the Schneider Cup seaplane races to be held off the Isle of Wight, England, next month received another severe setback today. Capt. Giuseppe Motta, a member of the Italian Schneider Cup team, was killed when his plane plunged into the lake at Desenzano during a trial flight. The plane, built especially for the races, was destroyed.

Only a few weeks ago another Italian Schneider Cup plane met a similar fate at the same spot, but the pilot escaped with minor injuries.

Croker Widow Gets $2,000,000 for Land

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 23.—(INS.)—The long letigation between Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of the Tammany Hall chief, and J. D. McDonald, local realty man, ended today. Judge E. C. Chillingsworth gave title to the huge tract of ocean front land to McDonald, who, however, must pay Mrs. Croker $2,000,000 under an old contract by which he held an option to buy the property at that price. The land involved is now valued at approximately $7,000,000.

Johnstown W.-J. Alumni Organizes

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Washington and Jefferson alumni from Cambria, Somerset and Westmoreland counties gathered here and voted to form a permanent alumni association. Organization will be effected at a banquet to be held in three weeks. Speakers urged support of athletics at the Washington, Pa., institution, especially with reference to the approaching football season.

Lucky Bucks—New Money for Old

By LUCKY BUCK

In Sewickley, folks, there's a copper by the name of John Crothers. And that bird's a sleuth, what I mean. Anyhow, Sewickleyites are so confident of Crother's ability that they leave their bathnig suits out on the clotheslines without insurance.

And Crothers, folks, has so much stuff on the ball that he gets what he wants when he wants it. A couple of days ago he found out that I'd left a Lucky Buck at the Sewickley Valley Shoe Hospital. Well, Crothers figures that that Benevolent Bean, by rights, was his'n, on account of he wanted it.

So when the coast was clear, Crothers sidles into the hospital and asks in mild and guileless tone for some shoe strings, for which he tenders one fin, exactly. Sibilant Smacker No. E90385737A was forthcoming. Too bad I wasn't in—I'd 'a' liked to see him about that quiet zone in front of the shoe hospital.

ONE FOR INGRAM

Mrs. Justin Fierst, 11 Smilex street, Ingram, received Succulent Suskin No. A22728180E from her lesser half, who runs a barber shop in the Oliver Building. And now Fierst wants half of it. Try that on your harmonica, folks, and tell me what happens.

Anyhow, I'll bet the big moment of that kid in the drug store at 430 South Main street, West End, will give him the deuce when she finds that he passed on Lucky Buck No. Z50298626D to some member of the vox populi. Tempus fugits, folks, or I would have announced it in time for him to grab it off. Not having done so, I'll bet the poor chap fumbled it.

Of course, either the bakery, or some of its customers, or some of the firemen around it at Virginia and Shiloh streets, Mt. Washington, are due for a big thrill when they uncover Benevolent Bean No. T82873000D in their shekels.

Another one lies confidently in the till of the tea room at Craig and Bayard streets, while, blushing with concealed embarrassment at the undue publicity I'm according it, Lucky Buck No. M382919118D waits patiently for the time when the poor little dear will return to my pocket.

IN CORAOPOLIS

It'll probably have a thrilling ride before it reaches me again, however, for the Arlington confectionery, 2433 Arlington avenue, didn't welcome me or it especially vociferously—good word, that—so I don't think they knew what they were getting.

Coraopolis is the proud home of the gasoline station at 314 Fourth avenue, according to latest reports. At least I hear they're proud. But will they remain that way, when they find that Lucky Buck No. A83190057D passed through their mits? I wonder.

Bradford Invites Police Convention

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Association of Chiefs of Police will be invited to hold their 1930 convention in Bradford, it was made known today by city officials. The invitation will be sent to the executive committee of the association, which recently held its 1929 meeting at Bethlehem. The invitation, it was expected, would be accepted.

For Friday, August 23, 1929

These 37 Lucky Bucks are worth $750:

A BEVY OF FEMININE FLIERS AS THEY LINED UP FOR START OF CROSS-COUNTRY AIR RACES

Fair feminine fliers examine the prize trophies just before they take off from Santa Monica in the greatest woman's air race of the year. The group includes Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden (extreme left), of Pittsburgh, helping to set the pace in the heavy-plane race.

THEA RASCHE

Thea Rasche, whose forced landing on first day of race brought investigation of "dirty gasoline."

THADEN LEADING GIRL FLIERS

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 23.—(A.P.)—Louise McPhetridge Thaden, of Pittsburgh, maintained her lead in the national women's air derby by landing first at Tulsa municipal airport today at 10:46:16 a. m. from Fort Worth. She was followed immediately by Thea Rasche, of Germany. Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y., landed third at 10:55.

May Haizlip, of Tulsa, and Vera Dawn Walker, of Los Angeles, were the only participants of the women's air derby to land before 11:30 a. m. today at Wewoka, designated as an alternative fueling stop. Mrs. Haizlip landed at 10:45 a. m. and Miss Walker at 10:53. Both took off for Wichita, the night control stop, about 20 minutes later.

Florence Lowe Barnes, of San Marino, Cal., reduced the number of fliers to 16 when she decided to withdraw after a thorough inspection of her damaged plane at Peco, Tex., showed it could not be repaired in time for her to overtake her competitors.

When the women reach Cleveland one of them will be awarded $1,000 for the fastest time in yesterday's lap, the biggest lap prize of the derby. Officials would not say whether Mrs. Thaden, first arrival, or Amelia Earhart, of Boston, had covered the El Paso-Fort Worth lap in the shortest time. Mrs. Thaden flew the 160 miles from Abilene in one hour and four minutes.

Heavy planes—Louise McPhetridge Thaden, Pittsburgh, 11:04:30; Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., 11:25:52; Amelia Earhart, Boston, 11:46:52; Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., 11:51:08; May Haizlip, Kansas City, 12:24:06; Ruth Elder, Los Angeles, 13:35:03; Mary Elizabeth Von Mack, Detroit, 15:12:32; Neva Paris, Great Neck, L. I., 15:55:10; Opal Kunz, New York, 18:44:27; Vera Dawn Walker, Los Angeles, 21:30:15.

Light planes—Phoebe Omlie, Memphis, Tenn., 13:28:20; Thea Rasche, Germany, 16:29:31; Mrs. Keith Miller, Australia, 24:56:15.

MRS. MARX SUES FOR HER BABY

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Helen Von Tilzer Marx, who married the fifth Marx brother, claims she has lost her baby through a technicality and brought suit today to recover it.

Mrs. Marx recently married Milton Marx, wealthy dress manufacturer.

She had previously been the wife of R. Russel Von Tilzer, son of Jack Von Tilzer, millionaire music publisher and moving picture man. Young Von Tilzer died shortly after the birth of their baby, Karlyn Olgo, who is now 19 months old.

The elder Von Tilzers have the child in their Larchmont home. They refuse to surrender it, according to Mrs. Marx.

The plaintiff mother today asked Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler to order the grandparents to return the child. She charges she was induced to consent to adoption of the child through misrepresentation.

One of Fourteen Will Give Blood

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 23.—Grover Shaffer was selected from a group of 14 for a blood transfusion for Herbert Orrd, Coraopolis. The operation will take place Saturday morning at the Presbyterian Hospital, Pittsburgh.

CHECK SUSPECT TAKEN WEST

H. M. Weaver, alias Lindley, alias H. S. Watson, started this morning in custody of Deputy United States Marshall J. F. Austin, for Los Angeles, Cal., to answer an indictment in the Federal Court there of fraudulently representing himself to be a naval officer. Under such alleged misrepresentation to A. N. Billingham, a jeweler, in Fresno, Cal., he purchased a diamond ring, for which he was said to have given a worthless check.

The prisoner's rightful name, according to the federal authorities here, is E. H. J. Matson. At the time of the alleged purchase of the ring he was said to have told the jeweler he was a lieutenant commander in the Navy on furlough. He was recently released from serving a six-month sentence in the Lawrence County jail for forgery.

U. S. Legionnaires Welcomed in Rome

ROME, Aug. 23. — (AP.) — Thirty members of the American Legion, led by National Commander Paul McNutt, arrived here from Genoa and were given an enthusiastic welcome by representatives of Italian veterans and by Commander Julia Wheelock, head of the local post. The formal program of the visit begins today when a wreath will be received by Governor of Rome Prince Boncompagni Ludovisi.

Promises Visit To Ohio's First Settlement

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Aug. 23.—Albert Tobias, Bothwell, Ontario, descendant of the original Christian Indian inhabitants of Schoenbrunn, Ohio's first town, will visit the site of the village in September, the Rev. Joseph E. Weinland, Dover, president of the Tuscarawas County Historical Society, announced.

Tobias, who will be accompanied by his daughter, lives at the abandoned Fairfield mission of the Moravian Church at Bothwell. They will spend a month there.

HOOVER PARTY TO GO TO CAMP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—President Hoover has invited a dozen guests to accompany him today on his usual week-end trip to his camp at the headwaters of the Rapidan in Virginia.

Those invited are Secretary Adams, J. R. Nutt, of Cleveland, treasurer of the Republican National Committee; Maj. Gen. Neville, commandant of the Marine Corps; Mr. and Mrs. Straus, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woolly, of New York; Roy Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vernon, of Washington.

WOOED, WON AT PROM

Lieut. Hill, West Point graduate, and Ann Ruth Kinsella, Columbia University graduate, whom he met and wooed at a moonlight prom. After a brief engagement they were married at the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City. Hill is the son of Hiram H. Hill, Oakland (Cal.) architect. His wife is a New York girl.

SKID INTO CANAL KILLS 5 IN CAR

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Five tourists drowned here today after their closed motor car struck a Pittsburgher's automobile on the Montreal-Toronto highway, 38 miles from here, and plunged into the Soulanges Canal.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Chudds and their daughter, Elizabeth, of West Chester, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dale, of Cochraneville, Pa.

The Chudds' car was traveling toward Montreal along a stretch where the highway is separated from the waterway by only a narrow strip of level ground. The road was wet.

As the car met another, driven by Jacob Zielbauer, of 1906 Brownsville road, Pittsburgh, there was a slight collision, amounting only to a scraping of wheels. The Chudds' car skidded and went into the canal, disappearing beneath the surface.

Many motorists stopped and stood helplessly on the bank. Sometime after the accident the superintendent of the canal arrived with a diver, and the bodies were recovered.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Following receipt of word of the drowning of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Chudds, their daughter, Elizabeth, and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dale arrangements were made to have their bodies returned here for burial.

Chudds, who was 45, was manager of the Bonny Blink farm, near here. Miss Chudds, 22, during the past year taught school at Spring City. Dale, 61, brother of Mrs. Chudds, was a rural mail carrier.

Sudden Heat Wave Grips Middle West

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—A sudden heat wave which swept over the Middle West from the South and southwest sent temperatures soaring and left this section of the country gasping for breath today.

Chicago, with 93 degrees, experienced the warmest weather of the summer and the hottest August 22 in the history of the United States Weather Bureau. The rise was freakishly sudden and abrupt, the mercury being sent up 11 degrees in two hours in the afternoon. Two persons died here after being overcome by the heat, and three were drowned.

BATTLE LOOMS IN RUSS MOVE

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Rapidly increasing military activity on the Sino-Russian Manchurian frontier was held in certain quarters today to represent a more serious situation, one possibly portending actual hostilities.

Import troop movements were in progress. Chinese sources maintained they had information of an impending Russian advance in strength, with the plan of battle given as advance on Pogranichnaya from two sides, after which Harbin would be taken, with Soviet gunboats advancing down the Sungari River, to aid in the fighting.

The Soviet organization was reported to be completed, with Gen. Blucher taking command of the Army of the Far East with Gen. Budenny, famous cavalry leader, his chief subordinate.

The Nanking central government was said to have offered even more reinforcements after the Manchurian government's request. This request was said to have been worded:

"The time has come for the Nationalist government to send heavy reinforcements to Manchuria as there are indications that serious developments are impending."

It was signed by Chang Hseuh Liang, governor of the three provinces.

Club Entertainer Sues Manufacturer

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Two damage suits totalling $350,000, have been filed in Superior Court by Miss June McAllister, 24-year-old entertainer of the Club Algiers, against Harry E. Stebbings, of the Lake Shore Athletic Club.

Stebbings, president of the West Wood Working Company, was sued last January for separate maintenance. The suit is pending. It was not revealed on what grounds she sought damages.

Actress, War Flier Married Mile in Air

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug 23.—(AP.)—Gladys Walton, actress, has been married on the ground and a mile in the air. After a church ceremony she and Clifford Parliman, war aviator, flew up and in the clouds, the aviator placed the ring on his bride's finger.

Boy Now Best Pole Sitter, Beats 'Shipwreck' Mark

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Wee Willie Wentworth today wears the crown of king of all the pole sitters of the universe. Already holding the juvenile record, shortly before midnight he surpassed the adult and professional record of "Shipwreck" Kelly, who recently established a record of 23 days, seven hours and five minutes in a local amusement park, which started the epidemic of pole squatting among juvenile Baltimoreans.

There is some dispute as to the main record, some saying 22 days, and the 23-day mark having its supporters. But Willie took no chances. He surpassed the 23 days and some odd hours and minutes before claiming the championship of the world, and then went on to establish one of his own for Mr. Kelly and the rest of the world to shoot at.

Avon Foreman, the first to reach a record, in fact, the father of the pole-sitting fad, had his girl friend on hand when he came down from his perch after his 10-day and a few hours' record, and Willie's best girl, Agnes Miller, 12, was on hand for the celebration when he passed Kelly's mark.

But Willie still has his troubles. He has to stay up on top of his pole as a matter of manly principle, for Dot Staylor, who is seeking the sitting honors of her sex, is close to his mark, and should he descend, it would not be long before his title would pass into the hands of one of the weaker sex. So up he will stay.

Invades 'Blind Pig' With Gun to Save Son

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. — (AP.) — Henry M. Walker, former municipal judge, armed with a pistol, entered the Town Hall Police Station last night and told police that unless they closed a certain speakeasy he would do it himself.

"I spent $100,000 putting my 23-year-old son and namesak through school," he told Lieut. Patrick O'Connor, "and I'm not going to let the speakeasies ruin him."

He said he had inadvertently intercepted a message from the blind pig owner intended for his son. He got his gun, he said, and went to the place, but could not find the proprietor.

TENER RELAPSE DENIED

Reports late last night that former Gov. John K. Tener had suffered a relapse in the West Penn Hospital, where he is suffering from pneumonia, were denied at the hospital early today. Although his condition is regarded as serious, it was said that he had spent a restful night.

Mr. Tener was taken to the hospital from his home at 1431 Beechwood boulevard, August 17.

McMechen Pastor Going to Grafton

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The Rev. E. N. Oakes, pastor of the McMechen Christian Church, near here, has resigned to accept a call to the Christian Church at Grafton, where he will take charge September 1.

BABY WINS FREEDOM

MRS. KATE LENIC WITH BABY

Mrs. Lenic, of Manor street, South Side, with baby as she left the county jail where she had spent the night with her child. Mrs. Lenic was jailed by Justice of the Peace Betrice K. Popp when she failed to pay a $25 fine on charges of assault and battery brought by a neighbor. She was released by Judge Ambrose B. Reid when the jurist learned that she had her baby with her in jail.

QUITS CLERGY, FLAYS BISHOP

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—The calm surface of the ecclesiastical sea was little ruffled today by the sensational action of the Rev. Dr. James Empringham, erstwhile anti-vice crusader and superintendent of the Church Temperance and Health Education Societies, in resigning from the Protestant Episcopal clergy and launching a bitter attack upon the tenets of religion adhered to by Bishop William T. Manning.

Dr. Empringham, whose activities in connection with the Health Education Society were recently subjected to criticism and censure, is understood to be in New York. Bishop Manning, who is vacationing in Maine, has made no reply to Dr. Empringham's charges that the former's interpretation of Christianity was a "lie and a curse to humanity."

In a letter written on August 17 from Fontana, Cal., where Empringham has been staying, he asks to be relieved of his clerical commission, frankly admitting his loss of faith in the church's creed. Simultaneously, he sent copies of the letter for publication here.

Charges against him, said to be supported by complaints of young women parishioners, grew out of his administration as national superintendent of the now defunct Health Educational Society.

"As, for example, your un-Christian stand against the divorce and remarriage of mismated couples."

Dr. Empringham's marriage last June at Ensenada, Mex., to Mrs. Vancliff Safron, following a divorce from his wife at Reno, recently was disclosed.

After charging Bishop Manning with misinterpreting Christianity, he asserted:

"There seems no probability of my regaining faith in the church creed which I lost 15 years ago. Brother priests have long pleaded with me not to make this public confession because of the harm it might do the faithful."

Pythians Install Officers, Adjourn

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias held the closing session of the sixty-second annual state convention yesterday with the installation of the new grand officers. A communication was sent to the Pythian sisters that the knights had decided to hold next year's convention at New Castle and invited them to meet there also and the invitation was accepted. The knights voted to give past chancellors of subordinate lodges a voice in the grand lodge and mileage to the state conventions, but no per diem allowance. The sisters also installed officers.

LADY HAY, COMPANIONS EAGERLY ANTICIPATE SEA HOP

Mishap Fails to Shake Faith of Passengers

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY,

Only Woman Passenger on Hearst-Zeppelin-Round-the-World Flight.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, Kasumigaura Air Station, Aug. 23.—We are all sitting in the saloon of the Zeppelin, ready for departure. But there is a crosswind at the hangar. When that dies down a bit, we go out and up into the welcoming air, off on our conquest of the Pacific.

The Graf Zeppelin is no worse for its slight mishap, and there is not the slightest trace of nervousness among the passengers. Japanese naval circles are grateful to Dr. Eckener and Capt. Lehmann, who officially accepted any blame for this morning's contretemps, exonerating the Japanese entirely.

Lady Hay

If anything, the accident brought the Graf's personnel and the Japanese closer together in understanding and mutual sympathy than any other thing that has happened in the last two days.

Sharply contrasting with the crowd of 500,000 and the atmosphere of excitement, festivity, music, champagne and the party offered Dr. Eckener and his crew in the airdock by the minister of communications in a jubilant and somewhat noisy farewell, 10 o'clock finds Kasumigaura air field as outwardly calm and unemotional as Friedrichshafen, where departures have now become a matter of course.

Suspense Apparent

All the same, there is something suppressed in the air. Smart, white-uniformed Japanese sailors are standing rigidly at attention. Silence is prevailing instead of animation.

With Commander Rosendahl, I just walked across the grass end of the trolley docking rails, and found Dr. Eckener "snigging the air" in his inimitable way. Lightning flashing in the distance did not disconcert him. He said:

"Lightning's no good for the Zeppelin; we must fly southerly at first to avoid the storm area. We are hoping for a strong southwest wind to push us along at a great rate."

Although he would not say so, Dr. Eckener is undoubtedly "snigging" for a new record ahead for the Zeppelin. It is strange how quickly all idea of risk and insecurity on the impending trans-Pacific voyage is giving way to the sporting prospect of record-making on these pioneer flights.

Capts. Fleming, Lehmann and Von Schiller are cheerful and smiling as they await the news that the crosswind is dying, and the passengers are chatting and laughing and hoping for an early start.

Just a Mishap

TOKIO, Aug. 22.—(Delayed.)—It was a mishap, not an accident to the Zeppelin, that sent the passengers scuttling back to Tokio from Kasumigaura air station early this morning.

We were disappointed, but not discouraged. We still expect to leave for Los Angeles tomorrow or Saturday at the latest.

Our temporary disappointment pales beside that of the immense throngs which the Japan Times estimates at 500,000, many of them residents of distant villages who, having read spectacular accounts of the great silver airship, determined to see it for themselves. Walking two and three days over the hills, they waited patiently for their sight of the Zeppelin.

They were the unlucky ones this morning when the Graf slid out full length along the ground, only to be coaxed back again.

The roads were massed with pedestrians and bicyclists. Women were carrying kiddies on their shoulders, and children, in turn, carrying the babies. The general stampede to the station for the first train saw a seething, swaying ocean of good-tempered, exemplary, polite humanity.

There is nothing to worry about on the Zeppelin. It is no graver than if a steamer sustained minor damages in trying to leave a dock without releasing the last mooring line.

Man Failure

Our Zeppelin is all right. The mishap was due to fallibility of human element, not to structural weakness.

Consternation is prevailing in all quarters in Japan, proving general sympathy. No one realizes better than we do the splendid efforts and achievements of their navy department in receiving the mighty Zeppelin. As I walked out of the airdock, I saw the Zeppelin crew and the Japanese sailors already busy, mending the damage. We feel more genuinely sorry for the Japanese force at the air station than we do for ourselves.

Our mishap, of course, had to be a let-down after the highest peak had been reached in the entertainment accorded us by the Japanese.

Following closely upon the German embassy reception came a big dinner, tendered us by the Mitsudishi Company, the second greatest industrial concern of Japan in the Tokio restaurant quarter.

Seventy-five tables, with an equal number of gorgeously gowned Geisha girls, musicians and singers. Nothing was spared to celebrate with lavish generosity. Tokio turned itself inside out to entertain the Zeppelin's travelers.

Hectic Enthusiasm

Readers may think I am inclined to overdraw the picture of the reception in Tokio, but I can assure them nothing written or recounted can adequately describe the feverish Japanese enthusiasm, national and individual. Unprecedented scenes ruled last night as we departed on the special train at midnight bound for Kasumigaura. Tremendous crowds streamed to the station, besieging many special trains already overflowing.

We of the Graf had a special coach, re-echoing with the tap-tapping of our typewriters. We arrived at Kasumigaura and found a perfect carnival in progress.

The miles of long roads were lined with booths and restaurants and closely packed with picturesque bicycles of every description. Tens of thousands of people had been traveling to the Graf since morning, sacrificing sleep, rest and a whole day's wages just for a sight of our silver airship.

Mrs. Byas, wife of the editor of the Japanese Advertiser, admitted she wept at the sight of the Graf flying between the setting sun and the rising moon when it arrived. Many others admitted the same. The Japanese press reported many weeping with emotion at a sight so beautiful as to be almost unearthly.

The strictest guard was kept of the Zeppelin, with remarkably few passes given to outsiders for the airdock itself. The passengers meeting again were like old friends—the whole subject of talk being the impending arrival in Los Angeles.

Dynamite Fails To Explode as Man Is Hit

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 23.—Glenn Sponaugle, 39, the first victim to be treated at the New Memorial Hospital, was carrying 18 sticks of dynamite and a box of caps when struck by an automobile driven by the Rev. J. B. Umberger, of Huntingdon, Pa.

Sponaugle suffered a fractured shoulder and possible fracture of the skull. He was employed by the Cumberland Contracting Company on road work near Flintstone. He was knocked down but the explosive did not let go.

State Insurance Agents in Session

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The seventh annual convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Fire and Casualty Agents opened here yesterday with more than 300 delegates registered.

Col. Matthew Taggart, state insurance commissioner, and Clyde B. Smith, of Lansing, Mich., chairman of the executive committee of the National Association, were the principal speakers at an executive session in the afternoon.

Farmer Sees Well 'Shot'; Falls Dead

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—John E. Dougherty, 62, of New Bern, N. C., one of 60 persons traveling by bus from North Carolina to Niagara Falls, N. Y., died suddenly here after having watched the "shooting" of an oil well. It was believed the exertion occasioned by a climb to the site of the well brought on a heart attack. He was accompanied by his wife and sister, who will take the body back to New Bern. The tour is being made by agriculturists from Craven county, North Carolina.

Good Will Plane Inspects Airports

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Aug. 23.—One of the six planes of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce good will trip which passed over this city yesterday afternoon carrying H. E. Barber, Cincinnati, president of the Continental Air Lines, landed at Schoenbrunn airport, two miles east of here, to inquire about air conditions.

He resumed his trip from Portsmouth to Alliance. Another ship that lost its way turned at Midvale and went back to Portsmouth.

Barber Released In Death of Girl

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Gabriel Portiello, a local barber, who had been arrested in connection with the death of his sweetheart, Dorothy Knox, believed to be of Vancouver, B. C., has been absolved of all suspicion. After an investigation which disclosed that Portiello, 40, had been in his shop at the time of the death of Miss Knox, who was found in her room with a bullet through her heart, and a revolver at her side, County Attorney Walter Capley, Jr., ordered the man's release.

Nab Four Travelers As Robbery Suspects

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Four persons traveling in a car bearing Ohio license plates were arrested here as suspects in the daylight robbery of the Community Savings and Loan Company at Charlestown, Wednesday.

They gave the names of Albert Stapleton, 48; W. T. Hampton, 30; John McCoy, 19, and Mrs. Mildred Thompson, 28, who said they came here from a Huntington on a business trip. An unloaded revolver was found in the car.

Graf Sails as Typhoon Moderates

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
World-renowned newspaper correspondent, who crossed the Atlantic aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its first trans-Atlantic cruise, and who is writing the story of the Hearst-Zeppelin Round-the-World Flight.

KASUMIGAURA AIR STATION, TOKIO, Aug. 23.—The Graf Zeppelin was walked out of the hangar here at 3 o'clock this afternoon (2 a. m. Easter Daylight Time). Even before the huge ship rose from the ground, at exactly 3:12 p. m., the passengers were confident that this time Dr. Eckener, dubbed by them the "Storm King," had conquered the elements.

Karl Von Wiegand

As our huge ship rose majestically above the assembled multitude their confidence was justified and elation at once more being "in the air" spread over every face aboard the Graf.

It was not until the last moment that we had been certain of taking off on this, the third leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin Round-the-World Flight.

All last night and most of today a typoon-like storm, with lightning, blew across the hangar, holding the Zeppelin captive.

Until after midnight and into the early hours of today, Dr. Eckener sat in a chair out in the field, and only went to bed for a brief rest when he became certain that conditions would be worse by morning.

That prediction proved true, for the wind is blowing worse now than at any time since evening. There was a moment around 10 o'clock and again between 2 and 3 this morning when, with an experienced crew which understands orders, it would have been possible for the Zeppelin to slip out of the dock quietly and make a getaway. But in view of the difficulty of making the Japanese crew of naval men, inexperienced in such work at the best, understand orders, Eckener considered it unwise to attempt it.

At Friedrichshafen or Lakehurst there would have been no hesitation.

Regrets Delay

"It is unfortunate that the jammed trolley carriage prevented us from getting away," said Dr. Eckener to me. Pointing to a layer of clouds that were hanging over the moon, he continued:

"If we had gotten away with that 40-mile southwest wind up there, we would have probably established a trans-Pacific record similar to our last Atlantic flight. But with only a few inches of clearance at the top of the hangar and the difficulty of making our inexperienced ground crew understand orders when quick action is necessary, it would not be wise. We have to consider the cross-hangar wind also. It would be as unfair to the Japanese as it would be to the ship."

Early this morning Capt. Lehmann came in from the field with the declaration:

"With this typhoon-like storm and lightning in the early morning hours, I see little hope of getting out of the dock now before possibly the hour of sunset, even if we can then."

Threatening weather delaying our departure kept all the passengers aboard the Zeppelin all night, as we had been ordered aboard in the evening, when Dr. Eckener had expected the wind to die down enough to permit taking off by midnight. Just as Friday began for us, while it was 11 a. m. Thursday, Eastern Daylight Time, we were gathered about in the cabin, ourselves the victims of rumors of our own starting time. Just before midnight, Dr. Eckener definitely postponed the starting time, saying he would announce it only a half-hour before the Graf's departure.

Weather Threatens

Weather conditions along the coast of Japan, however, could not be called the best. Several low-depression areas held us back, and there was rain over Sendai, a city to the north on our route, and strong winds further up the main island of Hondu, Japan, with a 15-mile-an-hour wind sweeping across the landing field, and Dr. Eckener said he would not take the Graf out of the hangar before the wind dies. Meanwhile, we waited.

The "blame" for the mishap to the rear motor gondola which delayed our departure yesterday was officially "placed" when an official naval commission from the ministry of the navy appeared at the airship dock shortly after the accident.

Commander Eckener was sleeping, and Flight Commander Capt. Ernest Lehmann made an official declaration exonerating fully the Japanese forces at the air station and particularly Lieut. Commander Fujiyoshi and Admiral Araki. Capt. Lehmann said:

"No blame whatever, for neglect or lack of precaution, attaches to them, and no one would regret more than Dr. Eckener, myself and the officers and crew of the Zeppelin if such an impression has been created."

Capt. Lehmann added that it was something that had happened before and was in no wise serious. Later, Dr. Eckener asked Ambassador Voretszch to call upon Premier Hamaguchi and express gratitude for the Japanese co-operation and also to impress upon the premier that the Japanese forces were not to blame for the untoward bumping of the Graf's gondola.

Three Miss Train

Most of us spent yesterday in Tokio, with the exception of Leeds, Rickard and Lieut. Richardson, who visited in Yokohama and missed the train back to the landing field when we were called at twilight and ordered back to Kasumigaura. But the three put in an appearance at the minute scheduled for the Zeppelin's nocturnal hop-off—only to be disappointed when the start was postponed.

This accident only brought to our minds more forcibly the fact that this is still pioneering, with all the adventure, glamor and romance that surrounds the first step in development of any kind.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, KASUMIGAURA AIR STATION, Japan, Aug. 22.—(Delayed)—This morning we had our first bad luck since the beginning of the great Hearst-Zeppelin Round-the-World Flight.

Graf Off as Storm Abates

uled hour for the start of the flight across the unconquered Pacific on the third leg of the tour, the Graf began to slide out of the giant airship dock. Fifteen minutes later, it was back again, with the start for Los Angeles delayed until Friday morning.

The jamming of a trolley carriage on the dock rails caused the moving Leviathan of the air to be given such a sudden jerk and halt that it forced the rear engine gondola onto the ground with such force that two struts and two wires which fasten and support the gondola to the ship's structure were broken.

The damage, as far as has been established at this moment, is not serious.

Close Clearance

The hangar here is a close fit for the Graf, being only of 80 inches clearance at the top and bottom when the ship is housed. When I was here in July to inspect landing facilities, I told the Ministry of Marine it would be almost impossible to dock the Graf here unless docking rails were laid, to which the ship might be fastened with trolleys, in order that it would not come in contact with the hangar roof when taken in and out.

My opinion was supported by Admiral Araki, commandant of the Kasumigaura airdrome, and two other naval officers whom Admiral Okada, then minister of marine, had sent to the air station with me in that spirit of splendid co-operation which has characterized the Japanese navy in connection with the Hearst-Zeppelin flight.

The rails were laid and used to walk the Graf into the dock on our arrival here from Germany.

This morning the ship was fastened down to these rails by mooring lines, fastened to small carriages running on the docking rail trolleys. The Japanese officers of the air station had, at the last moment, given Dr. Eckener and the Graf's officers a farewell party at a small table in the corner of the dock.

The clink of glasses came to us in the ship as they toasted the Commodore and gave him three cheers and three "Banzias." Japanese and German national anthems were played by the band.

Starts to Music

With the band playing and marching to the field, the Graf started to move slowly, softly and as silently as a feather out of the hangar to the stirring music. Huge searchlights played upon the giant craft. It was a beautiful and most impressive picture just before dawn—a "sight for the gods," I heard Leeds exclaim. It was that. All of the passengers were at the windows and the corners of the lounge were filled with great wreaths of flowers and bouquets from German and Japanese friends and admirers of Dr. Eckener.

There was a slight shock and a shiver shook the ship. I wondered whether we had hit the top of the hangar entrance, but I saw the stern had just cleared. The band abruptly ceased. The Japanese officers hoarsely shouted commands.

Then slowly we began to move again—backward into the dock. A moment later Dr. Eckener came into the lounge and told us what had happened.

"I think the damage is not serious, and I hape we can repair it within 24 hours. But I won't be able to say definitely until we have made a further examination," said the commander.

He expressed regret at the inconvenience caused the passengers and also that we did not get away when conditions were most favorable.

Carriage Sticks

It developed that, in walking the ship out of the hangar, one of the carriages running on the docking rail had not been closely watched and was not kept moving with the ship. It stuck suddenly.

The Japanese naval landing crew nearby didn't comprehend quickly what to do or how important it was to keep the carriages moving with the ship.

Capt. Von Schiller, the officer who was on the ground, dashed to the carriage to set it again in motion but was too late. The Graf was brought up with a short jerk that set the rear gondola on the ground so hard the two struts which fasten the powercar to the ship buckled and the two main supporting wires snapped. American Consul L. D. Sturgeon, standing nearby, saw the entire mishap.

As soon as the ship was back in the dock, the passengers left the airdrome, returning to Tokio, which was made difficult by the tremendous jam of Japanese who had come to see the departure.

Keen as was their own disappointment, Dr. Eckener and the officers thought first of how badly the Japanese naval officials at the air station must feel. Dr. Eckener said:

Expresses Sympathy

"The Japanese have been so truly splendid that while if it affects us directly, we sympathize deeply with them, for we know how badly they must feel about the accident."

Within an hour, rumors were circulating that Admiral Araki, commandant of the Airship Division of the Japanese Navy, would immediately tender his resignation. An extra edition of the Japan Times stated there was consernation in many quarters that anything like this should have happened while the Graf was in Japan. It is understood a full report will have to be made to Emperor Hirohito.

It would be a pity, indeed, if Admiral Araki, a splendid officer and one who has done more than anyone here to make the Graf's landing possible, should have to bear the responsibility. In connection with the mishap, it s worthy of note that new Zeppelins will have no motor gondola beneath the hull of the ship.

FOREST LOVE — By Hazel Livingston

Nancy Begins Wild Trip To Roger After Reading About Accident

CHAPTER LIV.

NANCY held the crackling paper in her ice cold hands. The black letters blurred, seemed to grow very big, then very small. To run into one another, so that she couldn't read. Just one thing was clear. Jack Beamer was dead.

Her heart ached for him. He'd be so disappointed. . . dying before he. . .before they. . .Poor Jack. But she couldn't help being relieved to think that it was all over. . . that she wouldn't have to go on with it. But supposed they found her letters. . .or a letter he was writing to her. . .

She mustn't think of that . . . it was too contemptible! Thinking of your own letters, wanting to save your own skin, while someone who has loved you lies dead . . . Oh, Nancy, Nancy, you are a bad one . . . you're not even a good sport any more . . . not even good enough for Jack!

Angrily she winked back a tear, gripped the paper again, went on reading . . . Turn to page five, column two . . . Why don't they have it all on one page?

"It is thought that the millionaire clubman, who was sojourning in the Sierras with Mrs. Beamer, was riding for help when the fatal accident occurred. The adventurous pair had ridden over the dangerous Three Lakes Trail which had been closed for more than a year.

"Employes at the High Sierra camp, where the Beamers were guests, state positively that danger signs had been posted and that Beamer, who had made inquiries about it, had been specifically warned against it.

"Mrs. Beamer, who has been removed to the hospital at Merced, narrowly missed death when she fell higher on the trail. She is in a hysterical condition and cannot be interviewed at the present time.

"R. E. Decatur, a ranger coming in from Gales Flat, was the only witness to the dual tragedy. Decatur, in an attempt to rescue Mrs. Beamer, lost his footing and was critically injured.

"The triple rescue was affected by J. J. MacKimmons, Decatur's assistant at the Gales Flat Station.

"Beamer's body was removed early this morning. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made. Mrs. Beamer's father, Virgil Shalor, millionaire steel magnate of Pittsburgh, is hurrying to his daughter's bedside."

Nancy read it through to the end.

Read it again . . . R. E. Decatur, a ranger . . . critically injured . . . R. E. . . . not even Roger . . . they had not troubled to find that his name was Roger . . .

As if from a great distance she heard the chatter of the family. Mamma's voice. . . "Have everything finished before Louise and Mat get back. . .a really select home tea. . .match the Minton china. . ."

Papa talking about interest. . .grandma talking . . . everybody wrapped up in themselves, and Roger. . . oh, why didn't they say his whole name? It would have helped. . .a little . . .

In a small, unnatural voice she said, "Did you see . . . the paper?"

Out of the fog of their family chatter mamma's voice detached itself, floated to her as if from a megaphone:

"About Jack Beamer? Killed, and his wife hurt, too. I meant to speak of it. It just goes to show that you can't be too careful—"

"Jack Beamer? Well!" Papa was interested. "Jack Beamer!" He looked at Nancy's small, pinched face, and looked hastily away again. He was frightfully embarrassed. . .why, why, she must have loved the beggar! She ought to. . .to cover her face. . .her mother would see. . .

"Guess I'd better go to bed," he said weakly. He felt suddenly tired and sick. "About all the excitement I can stand for one night."

Nancy picked up the paper again, then let it drop despairingly.

"Well, I'm sure I wouldn't worry about him," mamma said briskly. "From all I hear he had it coming. But his poor wife—"

Nancy looked at them all with large, stricken eyes. "But you don't understand," she said patiently. "It's my husband."

"Your what?"

"Roger. It says R. E. Decatur here, but it's Roger. He's my husband. He . . . he may die."

"Your—husband."

"Nancy, you've lost your mind! I never heard of such a thing. What are you talking about? . . . Nancy . . . you . . . you didn't marry that . . . that Gates Flat person . . . Oooch . . . just when everything was coming out right for us! . . . Nancy . . . tell mamma . . . When?"

Even grandma tried to talk. "But, dear, I thought—"

Nancy flung her arms wide. "Oh, I know . . . I know—I don't blame you. Mamma's right. I've been crazy . . . but I'm not now. I know . . . oh, dear God keep him for me . . . let me make up . . . let me make up . . ."

She had flung an old coat over her shoulders, grabbed the purse mamma had left on a chair. "I'm going . . . oh, don't try to keep me . . . please let me go . . . don't you see it's my last chance?"

"Nancy, listen to mamma! I never heard of such nonsense! You can't go out like that . . . without, without . . ."

The heavy front door slammed.

Mamma put her head in her hands and wept. Nancy had gone.

Papa was having trouble wheeling himself back over the door sill, but finally he made it. The sounds of the commotion had brought him back. "What's the matter?" All the old worry lines were back in his face. He wasn't a big business man any more, he was just papa . . . worried . . . oh, so worried about about his girl . . . "Kitty . . . what . . . what happened?" But she wouldn't tell him.

Down the garden steps, through the dahlias and the wild strawberry vines that caught on her long, flapping skirts, Grandma ran with Nancy's little red hat. "Nancy, wait! You forgot your hat. . .wait! Wait for Grandma!"

But the wild eyed girl already boarding a street car at the corner heard nothing but the panting and sobbing of her own heart. She did not know she was bare headed. If she had known she wouldn't have cared.

"Nothing matters but us, Roger!" she had told him once. "Nothing matters but love!" She had felt brave and reckless saying it, safe within the comfort of his arms.

And now, alone and afraid and conscious that through her own fault she had lost it, perhaps forever, she realized more poignantly than she had ever realized anything in all her 20 years, that is was true.

Money, family, friends. . . even threatened disgrace. . . nothing really mattered but the love she had lost.

The Piedmont car brought her into the heart of Oakland. "Can you tell me where I can get a train for Merced?" she asked in a drugstore.

"Fortieth and San Pablo, Santa Fe," the clerk told her glibly.

But at the station the ticket agent shook his head. "No, Miss. Nothing till ten fifteen."

"But I can't—I can't wait that long!"

"Sorry." He looked at the hatless, white faced girl curiously.

She had opened mamma's purse, and was feverishly counting the money.

Ships Like Vestris Still in Use, Expert Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(A.P.)—Capt. Earl Jessop, U. S. N., retired, American technical advisor at United States Attorney Charles Tuttle's inquiry last winter into the sinking of the British ship Vestris with loss of more than 100 lives, told the Rotary Club yesterday that ships as unseaworthy as the Vestris are still putting to sea.

He suggested a commission of marine experts be appointed to make recommendations for remedial legislation to Congress.

Capt. Jessop accused the British Board of Trade, which conducted an investigation after the American inquiries, of evading the fact that the Vestris sank because of low stability and leaking coal bunkers rather than because of overloading.

History Repeats!

It was only natural for us to expect big crowds at our stores last Saturday, when TAUBMAN'S announced the greatest achievement of any retail organization in the country—the opening of TEN STORES at ONE TIME in ONE district.

But—now—we can appreciate how Col. Lindbergh must have felt when he first got back to New York. We KNEW we'd get a rousing welcome—but we hardly expected to be actually swept off our feet.

Overnight, TAUBMAN'S earned a reputation! By Monday, the word had been passed along throughout the entire country—by THOUSANDS of people—there's "More Power to Your Dollar" at TAUBMAN'S!

We want to thank you people of Pittsburgh and of Western Pennsylvania for this glorious welcome! We assure you that the reputation we've earned overnight will be sustained PERMANENTLY—by our continual offering of highest quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices.

Again we urge you to visit our stores—and to see for yourself how well you can save here. And any suggestion that you may have for bettering our service, will be eagerly accepted.

RICHMOND STATION CELEBRATION RADIO HIGHLIGHT

Units Here Also List Big Features for Tonight

By DARREL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

IF YOU have done much "fishing" at the dials lately you no doubt have picked up WRVA at Richmond, Va., with its new 5,000 watt transmitter. We had them with KDKA volume on an excellent test program the other evening and this leads us to recommend their 17-hour inaugural celebration as one of the day's best bets. Starting at 8 o'clock, you will hear them on 270 meters or 1110 kilocycles.

At home we will have good entertainment, too. When the curtain goes up on the Philco Hour, KDKA at 9:30, we will hear the last act of "Blossom Time." WJAS at 10 will present a new feature, "Bremer Tully Time," with a variety program keyed to "feel" the public desire in entertainment.

"I've Been Working on the Railroad" and "We Were Sailing Along on Moonlight Bay," two songs that are as American as baseball and just about as enduring, will be sung by the Five Gay Young Blades through KDKA at 8:30.

WCAE has a much better program than our box score would indicate. "Family Goes Abroad" at 10:30 will see the Jones folks and Mr. Blake of Pittsburgh aboard a boat bound for the good old United States.

10 BEST BETS

We Now Present

KDKA announcers are in the fourth day of an endurance test to see how long they can wear "loud clothes" without causing a riot in the William Penn lobby. Can you picture Frederick G. Rodgers, program director for Westinghouse stations, sporting a black and white checkered vest? That's what he wore yesterday to hold the lead for about an hour until young Robert Saudek came on the scene with blood red tie, white shirt and white oxfords with black toe. Glenn L. Riggs, started the fad with a trick English vest, the combination of which was lost after he once got in it, causing more than a social stir in the dignified environment of the world's pioneer.

Louis Kaufman has refrained from the contest thus far, but he became the victim of another endurance trial last night when a group of out of town visitors besieged him for his autograph. Signing books, letters, bank checks and other substitutes for writing paper, Louis dropped a remark about losing more than a dozen pens at this sort of pasttime.

One lad, George Ziders, 15, of Donora, presented a notebook containing the signatures of many radio notables. George is a real radio fan, a devout reader of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and a booster for the "Real Folks." George was brought into the studio by his grandmother, Mrs. Peter Zilk, of Curtin avenue, North Side, whom he is visiting. George expressed a desire to look at all the Pittsburgh stations before going home and promised to look us up at the Radio Show at Duquesne Garden in October.

Paradoxical as it may seem, Frances Doherr met a gentleman at CNRO with the same name as Burt McMurtrie, for a long time manager of WCAE. Spelled the same and pronounced the same. There's one for "Believe It or Not!"

Around the world three times but never "shanghaied" has been the experience of W. H. Alexander, radio operator at WJAS. Alexander served six years with the merchant marine. His last post was chief radio operator on the U. S. "Steelmaker." He has pedagogic experience, too, having taught two years at Washington and Jefferson College.

WJAS—Mary and Bob.
Entertained at Norfolk.
Just before their vessel steams out of Norfolk harbor en route to the Panama Canal and the Pacific Coast, Mary and Bob are invited to a soiree given in their honor by one of the "F. F. V. S."
After the musical entertainment provided for Mary and Bob, they hear a different story from those which have so far been told them—the story of a strange young siren. The souls of men were her toys to gloat over and destroy, and it was this siren which lay behind the note of an honest young man, a note which brought him to the brink of disaster in a mad effort to save his brother. A wild sequence of dramatic moments is provided in the story, "For His Brother's Honor."
WCAE—Whispering Tables.
Murphy "Plays Square."
This story tells how Murphy, the cop, refuses the offer of a bootlegger, who tries to bribe him to silence. Instead, Murphy tips off and protects Mike Tracy, proprietor of the cafe. Mike has often balked Murphy and yet has as often given him valuable clews. The plot is complicated by the presence of Park avenue slummers, who soon decide that the unexpected thrills of the New World Cafe justify a precipitate departure for home.

Results of Radio Poll in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph

Who won the Radio Favorites Poll? Did Charles W. Hamp maintain his lead over Graham McNamee, or did the cute little Jessica Dragonette pass them both in final balloting? These questions will be answered Sunday in the Radio Section of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Detailed results of the poll will be published, as well as names of 200 fans who submitted the best lists. To prepare every radio fan for a genuine shock, the results were really surprising!

Steel Plant Thrills Briton

ALFRED P. PERRY is a young English newspaperman and holder of the Walter Hines Page Fellowship in Journalism for 1929. Under this Fellowship, which was established some years ago by the English Speaking Union of the United States with the object of promoting fuller understanding of America in Great Britain through the medium of the press, British newspapermen are attached for periods amounting in all to one year to the staffs of leading papers in this country. During the three weeks which he will spend as a guest of the Sun-Telegraph Mr. Perry will write his impressions of America and Pittsburgh from day to day.

By ALFRED P. PERRY.

A FIRE-RED serpent, snorting flame and smoke, leaps toward us down an ironclad slope. Its hot breath scorches our faces and penetrates our clothes. In two seconds it must reach us and burn our legs to cinders. Instinctively we shrink back against the buttress behind and glance sideways, prepared to leap to safety. Almost it is upon us; but suddenly a row of black levers swing upward before us. The glowing monster hurls itself against them, falls back, then slithers swiftly sideways out of sight along an ever-moving path of iron rollers.

Alfred Perry.

We are in the new pipe shop of the Jones & Laughlin steel works at Aliquippa, where red hot bars of metal are being bored into seamless pipes for the great oil wells of the West. The deafening clatter of iron upon iron mingles with the shriek of sirens and the clank of great cranes overhead, into a din which makes it useless to talk except by shouting into a companion's ear.

MEN ABSORBED IN TASK

The men at work take no notice of us as we pass. Each is absorbed in his task, tending machines which do the work of hundreds or inspecting the great tubes which a few minutes before were lumps of glowing steel.

In the bright sunlight outside, great piles of red ore and gray limestone stand out sharply against the tree-clad hills on which nestle the cheerful-looking houses of the little town. A few hundred yards to the right gleams the broad Ohio, on whose green back a long string of barges, stacked with slim oil pipes, shining wire and steel beams, creeps behind a quaint little steamer which looks as if it had sailed straight out of some romance of the old South. Barges, pipes and all have come out of those uninteresting piles of earth and stone.

PLANT WORKS MIRACLES

In the narrow strip between them and the river sprawls the black magician who has wrought this miracle. He is the father of the mechanical age. Without his help we would still travel by horse and coach, for there would be no railroads or automobiles; we would still need weeks and months to cross the ocean in wooden sailing ships; and most housewives would still tend an open fire, for there would be no gas or electric cookers to turn off and on at pleasure.

The blast furnaces where these piles of red ore and limestone are transformed to molten metal seem like great witches' cauldrons. From their bases pour streams of liquid fire, shedding a weird, unearthly radiance as they flow down their foot-deep channels and leap in glowing cataracts to the great iron cups waiting down below to carry them to the converters.

LIKE GIANT ROCKET

Steel making is not generally considered a picturesque business, but a Bessemer converter in action is surely one of the most beautiful of sights. It is like a giant star rocket bursting without a pause, a fountain of fire whose spray is molten steel. If it were to be set up in a public place it would draw admiring crowds to watch it every night, but since it is a part of an industrial process few people think of it as anything besides.

Of the technical equipment and methods of the works which we were privileged to inspect, we are, of course, incompetent to judge. But it was obvious even to the inexpert eye that in them the more heart-breaking type of human labor was reduced to a minimum by the use of mechanical help. We did not see a single man lifting heavy weights or pushing trucks. And the provision of powerful fans at the mouths of furnaces is a striking example of wise and humane thought for the comfort of the workers.

Indeed, we were told that when Mr. J. H. Thomas, now for the second time a cabinet minister of Britain, visited the works a few years ago he was so delighted with these fans that he could scarcely be persuaded to inspect the rest of the plant. For, like the United States Secretary of Labor, Mr. Thomas had worked in a steel mill in his youth, and there, as he put it in the British workman's words, "we could fan ourselves with our boots for all the bosses cared!"

KONJOLA PROVES DEADLY ENEMY TO NEURITIS!

Street Railway Employee Freed of Stomach Trouble, Too—Pays Fine Tribute to New Medicine.

Here is abundant cheer and hope for all who suffer from the pangs of neuritis and who may fear that there is no relief for them from the agonies of this disease. Konjola, the new and different medicine, is daily winning victory after victory over this dreaded ailment. Yet there is no mystery, no secret, no magic about the amazing success of this superremedy for it is a scientifically blended compound of 32 ingredients, of which 22 are the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Daily crowds of Pittsburgh people are calling on the Konjola Men in this city. One is at the Dow Drug Store, formerly McCulloch's, Penn avenue and Sixth street, and the other is at the Dow Drug Store, formerly McCulloch's, Diamond and Smithfield streets, this city. They are meeting all who wish to learn what Konjola means to them in their search for health, and are explaining the merits of Konjola. Their mission is one of helpfulness, not primarily to sell Konjola. Daily they hear of the amazing results obtained through Konjola. Just the other day Mr. John J. McGuire, an employe of the Street Railway Company for the last thirty-two years, and who lives at 137 Hazelwood avenue, Pittsburgh, made this amazing statement:

MR. JOHN J. McGUIRE

"Amazing were the results I obtained through Konjola and I want everyone to know what it did for me because I firmly believe this is the medicine every sufferer needs.

"For a long time I was in agony from neuritis and stomach trouble. No matter what medicines or treatments I tried I failed to find one that reached my case. The neuritis settled in my shoulders and arms, bringing so much pain and torture that I often thought I would go mad. Many times I could hardly raise my arms above my head. My limbs became affected and it was agony to take a step. Besides this I found it impossible to eat a meal without suffering afterward. Food soured and caused gas bloating. Last, but not least, my kidneys became disordered and certainly added to my distress.

"I was discouraged and without much hope of ever seeing another well day again. I was skeptical when Konjola was recommended for I thought that it would be just like all the other medicines I had tried. But my friends insisted that I give it a trial and so I finally consented to do so. That was the wisest decision I could have made. Konjola did all that is claimed for it. Daily the neuritis pains became less severe and then, like magic, they disappeared completely. My kidneys were strengthened and my digestion was restored. I eat, sleep and live a life of health and happiness like any other normal man. I can hardly believe I am the same person and I owe all this new and glorious health to Konjola—the medicine without a peer."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It works quickly, yet thoroughly. Konjola is all pure, powerful medicine, every drop and every drop works.

There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, formerly McCulloch's, Penn avenue and Sixth street, and one at the Dow Drug Store, Diamond and Smithfield streets, Pittsburgh. There is also a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, 5939 Penn avenue, East Liberty, where they all are explaining the merits of this master medicine.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Date Set for Maccoun Wedding

AND today I have more fall weddings, and late summer ones, for that matter, to tell you about. What's more, they are marriages of exceptional interest in Pittsburgh society circles.

Some time ago I mentioned that Martha Hughes Maccoun, daughter of the Andrew Ellicott Maccouns, would name a fall date for her marriage to I. Manning Parsons, of Roland Park, son of the I. Manning Parsons, of Baltimore.

Now I know the date—Saturday, September 14. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Transfiguration, Blue Ridge Summit.

Mrs. Henry Lewis Pritchard will be matron of honor, and Mary Maccoun, who'll come out this winter, maid of honor. Of course, you know both are Martha's sisters.

Two members of Pittsburgh's younger sets will be bridesmaids, Jane Allderdice, daughter of the Taylor Allderdices, who made her bow last winter, and Virginia Frew Wright, daughter of the Thruston Wrights, who will be a debutante of the fall. Others who will be bridesmaids are Mrs. John Hanson Croker, another sister of the bride; Eleanor Ringgold, Mary Gould Richardson, Louise Earle, Ellen F. Bordley, all of Baltimore, where the Maccouns spend their winters, and Elizabeth Betts, of New York.

Bryant Parsons will be his brother's best man, and Randolph T. Strobel, Samuel H. Shriver, Charles Moore, John H. Croker, J. William Hill, Jr., S. Butler Grimes, all of Baltimore; Edwin Norris and Richard Stockton, of Princeton, will be ushers.

And after the wedding there'll be a reception at the summer home of Martha's father and mother at Blue Ridge Summit.

THE most interesting event of the final week of August, I venture to prophesy, will be the marriage of Frances Larimer Miller daughter of the Harvey Millers, of Detroit, and Harris Goddard Haviland, of Pittsburgh, son of the Walter W. Havilands, of Philadelphia.

The wedding will take place on Wednesday evening, August 28, in St. John's Church, Beaumaris, Canada, the summer home of the William McKennan Reeds, of Fifth avenue. The Reeds are Frances' uncle and aunt, did you know? At 8 o'clock the ceremony will be performed, to be followed by a reception at Beaumaris Yacht Club.

Frances, who came out in Detroit last winter, will have her sister, Helen Virginia Miller, as maid of honor, and Ann Harvey Miller, her little sister, as flower girl. And Paul Robbins Haviland will be his brother's best man.

Among those who'll be at the wedding will be Clarissa Reed, Juliet Hillman, Eleanor Lognenecker, Wilson Book, James B. Reed, and John M. Fisher, all of Pittsburgh.

TO complete the poetic number of three, I happen to know of still another wedding planned for the coming weeks. Rebekah Law Brown, daughter of the William Kennedy Browns, of Sewickley, has decided upon September 14 as her wedding date. Her engagement to William Woodbridge Upham, son of the Nathanial Janeway Uphams, of Duluth, Minn., and St. Petersburg, Fla., was announced last April, don't you remember?

The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock in the Brown summer home at Carnot, Pa. Rebekah attended Hollins College, Virginia, and her fiance is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They will make their home, I hear, in St. Petersburg, Fla.

JUST when nearly everyone is thinking about coming back to Pittsburgh to attend the fall social events, a few prominent folks have sailed for Europe. The Lewis A. Parks, Mrs. J. Frederick Byers and her daughter Nancy, sailed Wednesday on the French line flagship, the Isle de France, bound for Plymouth and Havre.

Returning from Europe are D. L. Clark and his daughters, Olive, Margaret and Ruth Clark, of Dunmoyle street.

Home from a motor trip through New York state are the Frank L. Sages, their daughter, Helen, and their son, the Rev. Carleton Sage.

And the Daniel E. Nevins, of Sewickley, are returning from Parry Sound, Canada, where they were the guests of Mrs. Nevin's father, John R. Chislett.

Other folks who've returned are George Frederick Gundelfinger, his sisters, Miss Bertha Gundelfinger, Mrs. Norma Gundelfinger Vincent and her son, George Gundelfinger Vincent. They've been at their cottage at Stoney Lake, Canada, for the summer.

THE wedding of Miss Audrey Stewart Jenks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Standly Jenks, of Morewood Heights, and Dr. William Ethelbert McConnell, son of Dr. Thomas Ethelbert McConnell, of Parnassus, took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the First Baptist Church. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. T. E. Miller, was witnessed only by members of the two families.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of tea rose chiffon and lace made over a foundation of point d'esprit and crepe de chine. The bodice and girdle were caught with a sapphire pin and a graceful bow of sapphire velvet fell from the left side. A horse hair braid hat of a tea rose shade caught at the back with sapphire velvet completed the costume, a corsage of orchids and tea roses ornamenting it. Dinner and a reception at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association followed the ceremony, the bridal couple leaving later for New York. They will sail on the Vulcania tonight for a two months' tour of Italy, during which they will be presented to the Pope. They will make their home in Pittsburgh.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEF VOLLKOMMER, of Fairmount avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothea Louise Vollkommer, to George K. Kaiser, which took place at home on Monday. After October 1 Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser will be at home in Edgewood.

THE marriage of Miss Anna Catherine Dolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Dolan, of Columbo street, East End, and P. Evans Landback, son of Mrs. Fannie Landback, of Philadelphia, took place Monday evening in Calvary Episcopal Church, the Rev. Dr. Thaddeus Cheatham officiating. After an eastern trip, Mr. and Landback will make their home in Detroit.

Long Skirts for Evening and Short Skirts for Sport Wear Decreed by Paris Fashions

Duchesse de Maille appeared at polo in the short skirted costume shown at right. For her formal evenings she has adopted the long graceful style of skirt.

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Skirts are no longer shorter! Although this may sound cryptic, we assure you that its meaning is perfectly clear.

Despite arguments and counter-arguments from the opposing camps, not only all evening dresses, but afternoon and walking clothes are very definitely growing down. Knee caps are to go into seclusion for a while. They need the rest, as they have been on parade in the fashion pageant for many seasons now.

KNOWING that we have, for some time, predicted the return of the longer skirt, personal couturiers have permitted us glimpses of their, as yet, unrevealed creations. And most of the skirts had taken on several inches, while some of them were emphatically long.

It is necessary for the mode to swing the pendulum in order to keep ever new and fresh. Incidentally, we were told, many of the women who raised the biggest outcry against the short skirt are now protesting against its length!

THOSE who would remain faithful to the short skirt will, no doubt, be seen much in sports clothes. Although the young and charming Duchesse de Mille likes long, graceful skirts for evening wear, she chooses short-skirted, comfortable outfits for many of her daily activities.

We show her here, sketched in the costume she wore at the Polo de Bagatelle. The coat of black crepe has a circular bolero with a pleated flounce and the raglan three-quarter sleeves are also finished with a flounce. A beige crepe dress and a wide-brimmed beige hat, trimmed with velvet, completed this very smart toilette.

BLACK LACE suggests luxury and leisure, and the dress illustrated here should certainly endow its wearer with both of these delightful and characteristic conditions of this wonderful era.

This dress was worn by a pale, beautiful blonde at afternoon tea at the Ritz recently. It is of black chiffon and Chantilly lace. The waistline is at its normal moorings, and the clinging skirt is long, very long. A removable cape, tied at one side, caught at the shoulder by spray of natural peas—these were pink and pale mauve. The wide brimmed hat is of fine black straw.

Musical Club's New Year Book Issued

"THE world is a great book of which they who never stir from home read only a page." With this line the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club prefaces its outline for a year's study of "Some New Countries of the World" in the new year book just issued. All idea of study will, of course, be absent from the president's day program on October 7, with which the season opens. Then, alternating as is its custom, with musical numbers on each day's programs, will come papers by the members on the League of Nations, the Versailles, Locarno and Lausanne treaties. Armenia, Albania, Ukrania, Hungary, Latvia, Finland, New Austria, Czecho-Slavakia, Estonia, Lithuania, Irish Free State, Turkish Republic, Greater Roumania, Soviet Russia, Greece Hellenic Republic, New Vatican State, German New States, Commander Byrd's expedition, current topics and the duties of United States ambassadors abroad all will be given time and attention, the study also including biographies of prominent men in many of the countries. The fall musicale is dated for November 18, a Christmas party is set for December 16; the spring musicale, March 17; the April 21 and May 19 meetings will be open to guests and the year will close with the annual outing on June 1.

MRS. E. ROBERT WIESE was entertained by the Ladies' Community Organization of Ingomar in the home of Mrs. O. H. Weckesser on Wednesday, and was presented with a pin on behalf of the organization, a farewell gift, as she leaves soon to make her home in Schenectady, Mrs. Wiese has been a prominent and valuable member of the organization. She catalogued the public library which it sponsors, and has been librarian ever since it was established.

MISS ELIZABETH HEUBER has been named chairman for the outing which the Syria Ladies' Social Club will hold Friday in Rose Grove, North Park. Dancing from 8 until 11 o'clock will be one of the features. The committee under Miss Heuber includes Mrs. D. O. McCracken, Mrs. E. B. W. Pfischner, Mrs. S. H. Burns, Mrs. F. N. Groves, Mrs. Henry R. Hammer, Mrs. W. M. B. Blanchard, Mrs. W. I. Crocker, Mrs. John L. Baker, Mrs. Charles W. Smith, Mrs. Paul J. Marks, Mrs. Henry J. Brackman, Mrs. Charles Brautigan, Mrs. John W. Kagarise, Miss Helen Blakey, Miss Edith Mendel and Mrs. W. M. Miller.

ALLAH COURT, Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America, is planning a dance and card party to be given at Palm Garden on Friday evening, September 13. Miss Gertrude K. Zehfuss, high priestess, has appointed Mrs. Lorena B. Wood as general chairman and as vice chairmen Mrs. Anna I. Porter and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bruck.

MISS GERTRUDE KELLY, registrar for the Pittsburgh Girl's Club, is taking reservations for camp accommodations and the chartered bus for the Labor Day week-end party which the club will have at its camp, Sandy Lake, Stoneboro.

* * *

THE corn roast which Allojo Chapter, No. 244, O. E. S., will hold Thursday in West View Park is under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Elizabeth Mawhinney, with the assistance of Mrs. Anna McLean. Cards and bingo will follow supper.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Food in Cans an Aid to Healthful Diet

DR. COPELAND

HOW many of us give thought to foods eaten by travelers? When I speak of travelers, I have in mind those persons who for long periods are away from home and the fresh food supply of the home table. Among such are seamen of all classes, prospectors, engineers, railroad men and explorers. All such men make up a group whose food supply is necessarily limited.

Of course, the large ocean liners are so equipped with refrigeration that fresh foodstuffs may be carried and served on the entire trip. Travelers of this type are well supplied with every necessity. But the prospectors and engineers who go to out-of-the-way places for surveying, the opening of a mine, or the building of some huge dam or other engineering feat, are the particular ones in whom I am interested. Perhaps their needs are overlooked all too frequently.

In olden times, indeed until only a few years ago, these men were dependent entirely on dried or salt food. In consequence their dietary was naturally most limited. Fresh fruits and vegetables were unheard of, because invention had not yet found a way to supply better food. Today, expeditions starting out are well supplied with every variety of fruit, vegetable, jams, jellies and other delicacies. The meals which Commander Byrd in Little America is supplying to the men of his expedition, are almost equal to those served at home.

Besides supplying millions of families with fresh foods, the canning industry has been the means of saving a great surplus of foodstuffs that otherwise would be an utter waste. In addition, canning makes certain foods available the entire year instead of merely a week or two, or during its particular season.

From every part of the world now come the delicacies of that section. In glass or tin, they are shipped to every country. As so prepared, none of the mineral content is lost and the vitamins are practically the same as in the foods in their fresh form. In some few cases there may be such concentration that the vitamins are actually increased.

Do not hestitate to use canned foods if fresh are not available. They add much to health and vitality.

Answers to Health Queries

G. C. D. Q.—What do you advise for styes?

A.—Have your eyes examined to see if you need glasses.

E. H. Q.—What can be done for neuralgia and headaches due to the defective teeth which ache despite the fact that there are no cavities?

A.—Have the teeth X-rayed—they may be abscessed at the root. The neuralgia and headaches will clear up when the source of infection has been removed. Application of heat should give increased comfort in the meantime.

Thank You. Q.—What causes a continual tired feeling? My tongue is heavily coated.

A.—Constipation is probably the cause of your trouble. This may be corrected by proper dieting.

P. J. N. Q.—What will relieve nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear causing continuous noise in that organ?

A.—Treatment in the nasal passages and the use of a good, cleansing spray should be helpful in clearing up the underlying cause.

Thank You. Q.—What will increase the growth of the eyelashes without harming the eyes?

A.—Application of 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment used at night before going to bed will help to increase the growth and make them appear darker.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, August 24

ALTHOUGH there is presage of the welcome removal of a long thwarting obstacle to cherished aims, yet, according to some stellar signs, there may be some inimical situations to be confronted. Employment and new ventures have their hazards and generally there may be treachery or fraudulent complications. The latter may react on purely personal affairs, which are not happily aspected. Alert to this and with diligence and discretion there may be worthwhile benefits. Do not add to difficulties by sarcastic or vindictive speech.

Those whose birthday it is may make much progress following the breaking up of old obstacles if they will be on guard against treachery or fraud and put a guard on their own sharp tongues.

A child born on this day may have many stable qualities and have a bright mind.

Be thou the first true merit to befriend; his praise is lost who stays till all commend.—Pope.

Sand Castles -:- By Madge Geyer

ALMOST the last day of their vacation—and what's going to happen? They've had the most glorious time, down here by the sea, with the golden beach inviting them every second of the day, and the waves singing a soft accompaniment to their murmurings.

He's wondering if he may dare ask to see her when they return home, and she's hoping almost against hope that he will ask her. And idly they build a sand castle and unconsciously people it with the dreams which the moment brings.

Oh, well, Dan Cupid will take care of it all! He'll see her back in town, and then the sand castles will be replaced by the castle of dreams on which Love is founded and then—well, they'll know that it was the grandest, most glorious vacation they ever had, for it brought them each other.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

The Family Trembles in Secret Fear

LILLIAN and Harry Underwood rarely blunder, but in their zeal for Mother Graham's ease of mind, they sadly overplayed their hands. At Lillian's warning, utterance of her husband's name, and his quick switch of sentences, my mother-in-law drew herself up stiffly.

"I am not a child," she said, "to be fooled for my ease and comfort. Why didn't you finish your sentence as you started it?" She faced Mr. Underwood belligerently, and that luckless gentleman quailed perceptibly.

"Why!" he stammered, but she cut him short ruthlessly.

"You meant," she said slowly, while her face whitened, "that it was a lucky thing Mary was awake and frightened the burglar away by her screams, or he would have killed her. Now why? What is behind all this? If she hadn't awakened, he could have burglarized these rooms upstairs and gotten away without anybody being the wiser. Why should he want to kill Mary? That is what you meant, isn't it? The man who tried to get in that room was planning to kill the child. But why? What is she mixed up in? You must tell me at once. I am her grandmother, and her mother is dead."

In a breath I accused and acquitted myself of heartless, even brutal cynicism, as I involuntarily added to my mother-in-law's last words the mental comment, "And a good thing, too." But my memories of Elizabeth Harrison and her queer, warped, scarcely sane treatment of her children, bolstered my common sense against maudlin sentiment.

But Mr. Underwood was ready for any emergency now. It was no part of his plan that my aged and infirm mother-in-law should become cognizant of the real danger overhanging Mary, a danger which the rest of us, though in the secret of Prince George's identity, were only beginning dimly to sense. With ornate courtesy, he crossed to my mother-in-law's side and taking her hands in his, bent toward her.

"Dear Lady," he said, "your brain is altogether too nimble for mine. I did mean that if Mary had not awakened she might have been killed, and changed my sentence because I did not wish to alarm you. But there is no use trying to keep things from you, so I will explain my meaning."

He drew forward a chair and put her into it, his movements all invested with an elaborate formality.

"You probably know as well as I," he began, "that if a burglar can get away without killing, he prefers to do so. But he takes no chances on being caught. When Mary screamed, this man at the window had an easy getaway, and made it without further ado. But if he once had entered the room, he in all probability would have killed her if she had waked while he was in her room, just as he would have killed anyone else who could have recognized him later. And let me promise you, Madame Graham, that never again will I try to pull the well-known sheep's fleece over your keen eyes. You're too clever for me."

His voice expressed deferential admiration, and my mother-in-law smiled, her suspicions lost in her gratified vanity.

"I generally can see through a knot hole as well as anybody of my age," she said complacently.

"There's where you're mistaken," Mr. Underwood said, and my mother-in-law threw up her head, startled.

"You shouldn't limit the word 'anybody.'" he told her, smiling. "That last phrase was entirely superfluous."

"Thank you," she said, softening again, then she swayed against me, but stood erect again in an instant.

"You will see that the police are notified," she said, "so that we may be guarded against a repetition of this."

"Of course," he promised her. "And now, don't you think you ought to go back to bed? I promise you that I will stay on the job till daylight, and that no harm shall come to anyone beneath this roof."

There was more than a mendaciously comforting promise in his voice, and I was suddenly alert, conscious that something menacing to Dicky's lovely young niece was near us. But my fear was far less than it would have been had not Harry Underwood's voice sounded in my ears, and his stalwart figure with its suggestion of magnificent concealed strength filled my vision.

"Thank you," Mother Graham said leaning heavily on my arm. "Margaret, will you help me back to my room?"

"We'll wait for you here. Don't hurry," Lillian said, and I knew that they did not wish to interview Mary until I should be present.

Household Hints

If you want a jelly to set quickly, add just enough hot water to melt it and then cold water to make up the quantity required.

Half the usual quantity of sugar used in preparing rhubarb will be sufficient if a pinch of bicarbonate of soda is added to the fruit a short time before serving.

To blacken tan leather, rub first with 10 per cent of tannic acid, allow to dry, and then apply a 10 per cent solution of iron sulphate. This method is quite harmless.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Title Not Used on a Check

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I work in an office, where recently we received a bill from a certain firm. At the bottom of the bill was typewritten the following: "Please make bill payable to Mr. A. R. Smith." When I wrote out the check I made it payable to Mr. A. R. Smith and then gave it to the general manager. She corrected me on the way I had written the check, saying that it was improper and very bad taste to add "Mr." before the man's name. Of course, I rewrote the check, but I still feel that I was right. I think that every man of importance should receive his title of respect.

ANXIOUS.

YOU certainly obeyed instructions, but I can't understand why Mr. A. R. Smith made such a request. A title, as your general manager explained, is not used when we write in the name on a check. In this case the title would not be a "title of respect"—the check is simply a business paper made out in a business way.

A Widow's Signature

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

How should a widow sign her name? Should she sign Mary Brown or Mrs. George Brown, when she signs her checks, or on any other occasion that demands a wife's signature. READER.

A WIDOW signs her name as she signed it when her husband was living, and she uses the same forms. For instance, her visiting card still reads: Mrs. George Allen Brown. And her checks are still signed Mary Smith Brown or Mary Brown, as she prefers. And her business letters and letters to those who need to be told her formal name are still signed:

Very truly yours,
MARY SMITH BROWN.
(Mrs. George Allen Brown).

Court Frees Mother For Sake of Children

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 23.—Mary Marcus, of Sharon, who has been in jail for the past several days awaiting trial on a liquor charge, has been released on her own recognizance to care for her five young children. The youngsters have been held in the detention home at Warren, O., since Mrs. Marcus was arrested.

MOOSE TO SEEK BUILDING FUND

DETROIT, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Thousands of delegates to the forty-first convention of the Supreme Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose, accompanied by 35 bands, paraded through the Detroit business district yesterday. The procession was one of the concluding features of the convention program.

Delegates approved plans for a campaign for $1,500,000 to finance the erection of a House of God, a boy's trade school and village at Mooseheart, Ill. The campaign will be carried on as a sale of bricks. Officials announced that 200,000 subscriptions have been made already by lodges and individuals.

A drill squad from Windsor, Ont., won the outdoor drill and the indoor ritualistic championships. It was the first time that a Canadian lodge has taken both titles.

Child Falls 20 Feet, Escapes Injury

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug 23.—George, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koenig of Market street, Brownsville, slipped from his mother's arms while she was holding him near a window and fell 20 feet to the street. He suffered minor bruises.

Former Governor Named Shouse Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Robert A. Cooper, of South Carolina, has been named assistant to Chairman Jouett Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee. Mr. Cooper, who has been practicing law in Washington since his resignation from the Federal Farm Loan Board in 1927 after serving five years as a member, was elected governor of South Carolina in 1918 and served two terms.

EASTMAN GIVES ROME CLINIC

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—George Eastman last night signed a contract with representatives of the Italian government in which he agreed to build and equip a dental dispensary in Rome at a cost of $1,000,000.

The dispensary will be similar to the Rochester dental dispensary and the Eastman dental clinic, of London, both of which were created by Mr. Eastman's gift.

The contract was signed on behalf of the Italian government by Giacomo de Martino, Italian ambassador, and Prof. Amedeo Perna. After the Italian representatives had attached their signatures, Ambassador de Martino advised Premier Mussolini by cable.

Mr. Eastman's gift is made directly to the Italian government, which agrees to furnish the site, "to maintain the building and equipment, and to furnish the funds to operate it in a first-class manner perpetually or so long as it is necessary to have such an institution in Rome."

"My object in making this contribution is to establish in Rome a demonstration center which will be competent to care for and, as far as possible, rectify the teeth of all the indigent children of the city of Rome up to the age of 15 years," the contract reads.

Rain Spoils Fair, But Aids Hay Feverites

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Although heavy rains yesterday spoiled the "big day" at the annual Waynesburg Fair and ruined a holiday for hundreds of Greene countians, hay fever victims here welcomed the deluge as it washed pollen from weed patches and cleared the dust-ridden air to bring relief to the sneezing sufferers.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are overstimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

getting too big for us." Tony remembered the look he had seen in Rico's eyes. Lately they had been talking about it. Rico was getting too big for them. Scabby, the informer, said: "Tony, mark what I say. It's Rico or Sam. One or the other."

"I'll stay ten minutes," said Rico.

Vettori sat down by the window and stared into Halsted street.

"Two-fifty," said Otero.

"I'll match you for it," said Tony.

"No," said Otero.

Joe Massara opened the door and came in.

"Well," said Vettori, "you call this eight o'clock?"

Joe got out of a big ulster. He was in evening clothes. His black hair was sleek and parted in the middle. He was vain of his resemblance to the late Mr. Rudolph Valentino.

"Sorry," said Joe, "the bridge was up. Well, what's the dirt?"

"Draw up a chair," said Vettori, "all of you."

They grouped themselves around the table under the green-shaded lamp. Joe put his hands on the table so they could see his well-manicured nails and the diamond ring the dancer, Olga Stassoff, had given him.

"Now," said Vettori, "I'll do the talking. I know what I got to say and you birds keep quiet till I'm through. . . ."

"How long will it take?" asked Joe, smiling.

"Shut up and listen," said Rico.

"All right, all right," said Vettori, patting them both, "no bad blood. Now: ever hear of the Casa Alvarado?"

"Sure," said Joe, "it's an up and up place. One of Francis Wood's joints. I nearly got an engagement there once."

Rico spread out his hands. "See? They know him. He won't do."

"No, they never seen me. It was all done through an agent."

"All right," said Vettori, "that's the place."

Joe looked startled. Rico smiled and taking off his hat began to comb his hair with a little ivory pocket comb.

"It'd be tough," said Joe, "what's in it?"

"Plenty," said Vettori. "They only bank once or twice a week. They're careless, get that; because they've never been tapped. It's easy."

Joe took out a gold cigaret case which he handled with ostentation.

"Well? I'm listening."

Vettori refused a cigaret and pulled out a stogie. Downstairs a jazz band began to play and a saxophone sent vibrations along the floor.

"Nine o'clock," said Otero.

Vettori lit his togie.

"They got a safe," he said, "that a baby could crack. Too easy to talk about. But that's on the side. What we're after is the cashier. The place is lousy with jack. I got the lowdown from Scabby. Well, what do you say, Joe?"

"Yeah," Rico cut in, "take it or leave it. We ain't begging you."

Vettori's face hardened but he said nothing.

"If you say it's good," said Joe, "it's good with me."

"All right, all right," said Vettori. "Now, you Tony; we want a big car. Get that. A big, fast car. Get one when I tell you. Steve's got the plates all ready. Yeah?"

"I'm on, Sam."

Tony pulled out a cigarette and lit it with a flourish, but his hands shook a little.

"Rico and Otero," said Vettori, looking at each in turn, "will handle the rods. Hear?"

Rico said nothing. But Otero smiled, showing his stained teeth, and said.

"That's us, eh, Rico?"

"Well," Vettori went on, "I guess we got that over. Now, Joe, I want you on the inside. Dress yourself up like you are, see, and fix it so you'll get there at midnight. All the whistles'll be tooting and everybody'll be drunk and won't know nothing. See? Now you get there at midnight and go to the cigar counter for change. At twelve-five the fun'll begin. We'll set our watches by telephone, because I don't want you here that night. All right. Rico and Otero come in quick, maybe Tony, too, if you can get a good safe place to park. That's up to Rico. He's bossing the job."

Rico looked at Joe.

"Now, they'll stick you up if everything's O. K. If not, give them the high sign and they'll beat it. We ain't taking no chances, because one night don't make much difference, only New Year's Eve's a good night, see? All right. You play like you don't know them, got it? But while they're working, you got your eyes open, see? And if something happens, you got a rod, but don't use it. We got to watch that."

Vettori shifted his stogie and shook his finger sideways at Rico.

"That's your trouble, Rico. The Big Boy can't fix murder. He can fix anything but murder. Get that. You're too quick with the lead. If that guy over at the pool room'd died we wouldn't none of us be sitting here right now. . ."

Otero broke in vehemently, surprising them.

"But he had to! He had to! Rico does what is right."

"All right," said Vettori, "but take it easy. Now, Joe, you got your hands up, but you watch. If nothing happens nobody knows the difference. But if something does happen you pull the rod and help the boys get out. All right. Here's the dope. Get what's in the cash register first. Get that because that's easy. If things go right, tackle the safe; it'll probably be open. Another thing; no frisking in the lobby. That's too dangerous and takes too long. Let the yaps keep their money. All right."

Vettori took a map from his pocket and spread it out on the table. The men crowded round him.

"You go straight in," said Vettori, marking the route with a pencil, "on the right is the check-room; watch the girls behind the counter, Joe. On the left is the cigar-counter and the cashier's desk. At the end of the lobby is a big door; the real joint's beyond that. If things go right, nobody in the place'll known it's been stuck up, except maybe some yaps in the lobby. Get the idea? With all them horns tooting and all that damn noise, see? All right. On the right of the lobby is a door and that goes into the manager's office. The box is in there. The manager's a sap and there ain't an ounce of fight in him. See? Scabby give me the lowdown."

Vettori rolled up his map, put it in his pocket, then looked at his watch.

"Well," he said, "got it all?"

Joe turned his diamond ring round on his finger and looked at the table.

"What's the word, Joe?" said Rico.

"It's a tough one, Rico. What's the guarantee?"

"Guarantee, hell!" cried Rico. "Why, a blind guy could do your stand."

"Well, I ain't doing no time for fifty bucks," said Joe.

Vettori laughed.

"I'll give you a couple hundred now," he said.

Joe nodded.

"All right. I'm in. Never mind the couple hundred."

They all got to their feet. Below them the jazzband was still playing and the saxophone was still sending vibrations along the floor.

"What'll you have, boys," said Vettori, "want some drinks sent up?"

"Not me," said Tony, "I'm going over and see my woman."

Otero clapped his hands.

"He's got a woman."

Rico hit Otero on the back.

"The Greek's got a woman too," said Rico.

Otero with hands cupped made a series of curves in the air. Joe was patronizing; Olga Stassoff, the dancer, was his woman.

"A beauty is she, Otero?"

"Si, senor."

"Well," said Vettori, "want any drinks sent up?"

"Sure," said Joe, "send me up a snort. I guess Rico'll take milk."

Rico didn't drink.

"All right about Rico," said Vettori in a good humor, "he's a smart boy."

Tony went out followed by Vettori.

"I think I go see my woman," said Otero.

Joe laughed. Rico said:

"Goodbye, Otero. Give Seal Skin my regards."

When Otero had gone, Joe said:

"Has old Seal Skin got The Greek hooked yet?"

"Well," said Rico, "he spends a lot of jack on her."

Joe never could figure Rico out. Women didn't seem to interest him.

Rico went over to the window and stood looking out at the electric sign on a level with his eyes.

PETTING PATTY — The Most Important Thing — By Machamer

EASY — By Beatrice BURTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Unlike her bold and modern flapper sisters, Jeanne and Alice, Ann Marie Macy refuses to compromise her high ideals by petting. Ann Marie has more serious ideas. She saves the money she earns in her father's bookstore to study art. When John Lawler, catch-of-the-town, invites her to the Christmas dance, her happiness is short lived as Alice selfishly requests Ann Marie to stay home while she attends the party in her place. Alice and Jeanne further infuriate Ann Marie by pilfering her Christmas bottle of rare perfume. When Florence Lawler brings her visiting cousin, Neal Forsythe, and his friend, Jim Goodwin, to the Macy store, Ann Marie secretly falls in love with the fickle Neal. It is the more serious Goodwin, however, who is enamored of Ann Marie. He leaves the dance to visit her in the bookstore.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

"HOW am I going to get home?" Ann Marie repeated his question. "Why, I'm going to walk home, of course."

"Alone?"

"Why, of course!" Ann Marie laughed. "It's only 10 now, and in another half hour I'll shut up shop. . .There's not a thing to be afraid of in this town. I know everybody in it and always have."

Jim Goodwin slipped out of his overcoat and laid it down upon the table of new fiction.

"This town isn't so far away from New York," he said, his dark eyes watching her solemnly from under thick straight eyebrows. "And a lot of riff-raff must drift through it all the time. It can't be such a very safe place late at night—for a girl like you."

He took a cigaret from a heavy silver case, struck a match to it and settled himself comfortably in the chair behind Mr. Macy's desk.

"Anyway, I've come to drive you home," he added, "when you're ready to go."

He smiled at her in the friendliest kind of way as if he had known her always.

"But I haven't spoken 10 words to him—and never set eyes on him until this afternoon," Ann Marie said to herself, staring at him in blank astonishment.

"What made you come here?" she asked him suddenly in her direct quick way. "Wasn't the party any fun?"

"Very good party," he answered, "and everybody seemed to be having fun. But after I heard that you were here at the shop—why, I just made up my mind to come down and spend the rest of the evening with you, if you'd let me."

"Nice of you to think of me," murmured Ann Marie absently.

But why couldn't it have been the other man, Neal Forsythe, who had thought of her here all alone and come to see that she got home safely?

"Did Florence find a girl for Mr. Forsythe?" she asked as she got up and began to put the shop in order for the night.

Jim Goodwin shook his head. "No. But Neal can always look out for himself. He was having a great time when I came away."

Ann Marie had a sudden vision of him surrounded by all the prettiest girls at the club, like the leading man in some musical comedy.

She sighed.

"Tired, Miss Macy?"

She shook her head and picked up her hat and coat.

"If you're not, why couldn't we go out and pick up a bite somewhere?" the man asked, holding the coat for her. "Or perhaps you'd like to get dressed up and go up to the club for a dance or two. We'd have time."

"Oh, I'd love that!" Ann Marie's face shone with sudden eagerness . . . To see Neal Forsythe once more that night!—To dance with him perhaps, and to feel his arms around her! It would be heavenly—

"Let's just fly home, and it won't take me 10 minutes to slip into my dancing dress!" she went on, radiant with excitement.

Outside at the curb, Jim Goodwin's car was standing. With a shock of surprise Ann Marie saw that it was a huge blue closed one with brass trimmings . . . Somehow she had not thought of Jim Goodwin as a man wealthy enough to own a great shining car like this one . . . He had seemed so modest and quiet and unassuming.

"Why, he has money! He must have loads of money!" she thought as he tucked a soft thick fur robe around her knees. "I wonder how Alice ever let him escape tonight!"

And then instantly she was ashamed of herself for harboring a thought like that about her own sister . . . For, even if Alice's daily prayer was a prayer for a rich husband, Ann Marie was sure she never would marry a man just for his money.

"No girl would be gold-diggery enough to do that," thought Ann Marie, safe in her own decency. She knew nothing about gold-diggers, or the things that they would do.

The front of the house was in darkness.

But there was a light in the kitchen, and all the rooms were filled with the Christmas-y smell of sage-and-onion stuffing that Mrs. Leasure was making for tomorrow's turkey.

And as she worked she sang hymns to herself in a tuneless voice:

"Holy ni-i-ight, silent ni-i-i-ight,
"All is calm — all is bri-i-i-ight—"

The house seemed very peaceful and home-like as the two young people stepped into it. Ann Marie lit the yellow lamp in the front parlor, poked at the dying fire in the grate, and left Jim Goodwin sitting in front of it while she ran upstairs to dress.

When she came down again she found him standing in the middle of the room, looking around him at the lace curtains, the old-fashioned furniture, the holly in the old silver vases on the mantel-piece as if he found it all very attractive and interesting.

"I didn't know there were any houses like this left in the world," he said. "It makes me think of my grandmother's house as it used to be when I was a kid. . .I like it."

He turned and looked at her gravely, and Ann Marie's eyes smiled back at him, full of warmth and friendliness . . .It was easy to be friendly and natural with him although she scarcely knew him.

"That's because I'm not in love with him," she told herself.

Even now she was beginning to feel shy and embarrassed at the thought of seeing Neal Forsythe again. . . How would he like her, she wondered, when he saw her as she was now, starry-eyed and red-lipped from her bath slender and radiant in the yellow satin dress?. . .Would he single her out among all the other pretty girls at the party? Suppose he didn't—

Suppose he went away tomorrow, and she never saw him again—

"Why, it would spoil my whole life!" she said to herself as she went out to the big closed car with Jim Goodwin and let him tuck her up in the fur rug once more. . .

So this was how the thing happened to you, was it?—This was the way love came to you! Without warning of any kind?—A man stepped through a doorway, looked at you, and everything in the world was changed for you in an instant . . . You had to have him if you ever were going to be happy and nobody else could take his place—That was love.

"That's all there is to it," Ann Marie made up her mind, thinking things over as the car skimmed over the wide white road that led up to the Country Club, between the lights at the gate, and up the drive.

Ann Marie's only evening cape was a shabby black-plush thing made from one of her winter coats by Mrs. Leasure's hands.

Ann Marie was ashamed of it, and she was glad that everybody was dancing when she and Jim Goodwin walked into the clubhouse that night.

"I'll wait for you here," he told her in his grave, courteous way when she left him at the bottom of the stairs that led to the women's dressing room on the second floor.

There usually was a maid on duty in the dressing room—Mrs. MacBane, a capable middle-aged Scotch woman who had worked at the club for years.

But the room was empty that night when Ann Marie arrived. She was taking off her cape when the door opened and a girl in a maid's black uniform came hurrying in.

"Want your coat checked?" she asked, and at the sound of her voice Ann Marie turned quickly and stared at her in astonishment.

"Why, Leota Ingram! How do you happen to be here?" she asked. "Is Mrs. MacBane sick?"

She couldn't imagine anyone hiring Leota Ingram to take Mrs. MacBane's place even for one evening . . . For Leota was one of the girls to whom nice people didn't speak when they passed her on the streets of the town.

Leota had gone through school in Howdy Macy's class, and once his father had thrashed him for taking Leota to the circus. Even as a girl in her teens Leota had not been "nice," so people said.

But whether she was "nice" or not, Leota was pretty as a picture. Her hair was red-gold and her eyes were gray and enormous. She had dimples and the sort of figure that Florence Lawler never would have if she starved herself for a year.

"Yeh, Mrs. Mac Bane's sick with the flu," she said to Ann Marie, "and they been tryin' to get somebody to take her place all day long. . .Finally they called me up. They needn't think I don't know that they wouldn't have asked me to work up here if they could-a got anybody else!—I know what this town thinks of me, an' some day I'm gonna let this town know what I think of it!—Everybody in it can go can a radish as far as I'm concerned! I sh'd worry about any of 'em!"

She hung Ann Marie's cape on a rack and gave her a check for it. Then, without another word, she hurried out of the dressing room.

Ann Marie powdered her nose before the long looking-glass and was just turning away from it when she saw that there was a run in one of her stockings.

"Oh, my cow!" she said aloud, and looked for the needles and silk thread that Mrs. MacBane always kept in a box on the dressing table.

But there was no box there now.

Ann Marie opened the door. "Leota!" she called softly, leaning out into the hall, "Leota Ingram!"

But there was no answer . . .Ann Marie looked down at the run. It had gone another inch on its way to her ankle.

At the end of the hall was a door that opened upon the back stairs. Ann Marie started towards it.

"Leota's probably gone down to the kitchen for some food," she decided, and pushed open the door.

"Leota!" she called, and then stopped in sick and sudden horror. . .For at the top of the steps, with her back to the wall, stood Leota. And with her, his arms around her and his mouth on hers, stood Neal Forsythe!—— The only man in the world, and here he was, making love to the cheapest, most common girl in town! Making love to Leota Ingram.

SCREEN STAR'S GUEST PLAYS PIANO; NEIGHBORS OBJECT AND POLICEMAN COMES

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.

EVEN if you've heard it before, try and stop me. George Bancroft has mentioned the matter several times, but the other day he voiced the same words to a feller emoter, to-wit: "We're raising my daughter right," quoth Georgie. "Yes, we're keeping it from her what a great man her father is." At which cue the orchestra plays "Hearts and Flowers."

Blanche Sweet is living in a studio apartment. Down the road a-piece reside a flock of dyspeptics. They lay awake nights listening tensely for noises. Hearing any, they leap up and down for sheer joy and gallop forth to sic a policeman on the noise trail. Really charming peepul and a credit to the Darwinian theory.

George Bancroft.

'Tother eve, Blanche had some folks ter 'er house. A man in the party played the piano. Beautifully. So he played.

The dyspeptics heard. Oh, delight of delights.

About 10 minutes later a policeman knocked on Blanche's door. A most apologetic policeman. He acquainted her with his errand. He said he'd been sitting on the steps for a lil' while listening to the pianist. But the neighbors were in a state of asylum. Would the musician forget his ivory ability?

And, to be sure, Blanche now marvels why the world makes such a fuss against Russia. Or mebbe that's my idea.

"Ordeal" Players Out on Pacific

KAY JOHNSON, Conrad Nagel, Direktor Charlie Brabin and others in "The Ordeal" troupe hit forth in a boat bound for Catalina in a few days. Um, they will anchor about 30 miles from the isthmus in ye bouncing Pacific and proceed to do a bit of neptunic emoting. In all probability they will live aboard the boat and save transportation time to and from the isthmus.

Conrad Nagel.

Miss Johnson proceeded to get a permanent wave and a manicure ere departing on the jaunt. Considering the hot weather, she deserves to be a flick heroine.

There are several foreign directors in ye village who have survived the era of prejudice and celluloid vocalizing. These megaphoners continue to thrive. They, however, hail from a country whose immigration quota to the U. S. A. is filled for 10 years. By special arrangement with Washington authorities, however, they are permitted to remain in Unk Sam's territory. But—Unk Sam collects for the privilege. Collects 5 per cent every week from their salary. When the immigration quota permits, these men intend taking out citizenship papers. In the meantime, they pay their 5 per cent.

MRS. FINIS FOX, who, with her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Carewe, is sampling foreign climes, postal-cards: "Back in Paris again. Been to England, France, Spain, Italy and Switzerland. This is a grand place if you don't wear out." Must be elegant to wear out for fun.

Recently, at the Hollywood Bowl—the summer home of music—one number included in the program was Alexander Tansman's Second Concerto, for piano and orchestra. It was written two years ago and dedicated to Charlie Chaplin. It received its Pacific Coast premiere in San Francisco last winter, and "many hearers see in it the humor, pathos and whimsy that characterize Hollywood's famous musician." Chaplin was present at the bowl when the number was played. After the concert he joined Mr. Tansman in the green room adjoining the stage. Charlie is reported as enjoying the occasion hugely.

There's a chap in the village named John Touhey. Touhey is a friend of Eddie Guerin, reputed to be a W. K. Chicago bandit and one of the few men who ever escaped from the French penal colony, Devil's Island. Touhey went to school with Guerin in Chicago and has been a friend through his vicissitudes. Because of the first-hand knowledge he procured about Devil's Island from Guerin, he was engaged for a small part and as technical adviser to Director Wes Ruggles for "Condemned." Curious how the unknowns in this town really give the big shots the kesker say for their jobs.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

THAT it was Socrates (disregarding an insult) who first employed the pansy expression: "I consider the source!"

That the Graf Zep motors depreciate at the rate of $130 an hr.

That the Charleston was originated by Harrigan and Hart who wrote a song in 1882 called "Charleston Blues" which explained the routine.

That there is 10 pc tin in all silk garments (salts of tin solution).

That throughout Ohio white crosses mark the exact spots where careless motorists felled pedestrians and on one Main Street there are seven of them which raise the fuzz on your cheeks and arms.

That Grant's Tomb was never finished and that they intended featuring a group of prancing steeds on the dome, but that the money ran out. And that it is monitored by the Union League Club, the trustees meeting once annually.

That the statue of Liberty weighs 235 tons.

That Gladys Feldman, who hasn't been a Ziegfeld beauty for years, still has a Reuben's sandwich named after her, and that she has been out-smarting Wall street which made her richer than her husband.

That Harvard now leads other universities in contributing dramatic critics to New York. The Hahah-Hahvarders being Brown (Post). Atkinson (Times), Littell (World) and Selder (Greffic).

TURNS TO COMEDY

THAT William Anthony McGuire started as a moralist, using the theater to preach and his first play "The Divorce Question" (a most serious sermon was chuckled at, so he turned to comedy.

That Arch Selwyn, one of the better play impresarios, is certain that only 20 of the 87 theaters in New York will thrive this season, which will "signal the end of the bootlegging type of producer."

That silent movies are packing 'em in at a $2.50 top, too.

That "Sailors Snug Harbor" is snubbed by most sailors. This accounts for the amazing money in the fund which keeps mounting; and that the foundation owns most of Washington Square and lower Fifth avenue and other valuable local property.

That on January 1, 1928, there were 30,990,304 telephones in use in the world and that 18,522,767 (or 60 per cent) were in the U. S.

That a dentist in the Pulitzer Building last week actually threw out all the magazines that piled up for two years.

That Shakespeare was an anti-prohibitionist, see Falstaff's quote in Henry IV, Part II, Act IV, Scene III, i. e., "If I had a thousand sons, the first human principle I would teach them should be, to forswear thin potations and to addict themselves to sack."

That on November 14, 1797, Coleridge began "The Ancient Mariner" without ever having been at sea.

HALF-BLIND REFEREE

THAT there is a half-blind basketball referee in Buffalo, N. Y., and his name is Joe Justice.

That a show which ran a year in New York and had three road companies didn't enjoy a cent profit. It was "Hit the Deck."

That one of the few coined words is "chortle," invented in 1855 by Lewis Carrol, who joined "snort" and "chuckle."

That John Maxwell, the female impersonator, whose act is really a novelty and stops "Almanacs" cold every performance, tried out last season at one of those Earl Carroll Theater "auditions" and was kidded off.

That the doctor episode in that show was suggested by Dr. Leo Michel and was based on one of his own experiences.

That Maj. Edward Bowes and Mrs. Bowes (Margaret Illington) dwell in the Capitol Theater, which he supervises.

That R. H. Burnside threw the smash-hit ditty, "You're the Cream in My Coffee" out of "Three Cheers" because "it had no class."

That Douglas Fairbanks is muscle-bound and cannot lift his arms over his shoulders.

NOTHING ELSE IS SO IMPORTANT

Well Known Carpenter Tells of His Own Gain

When a man who has been really sick recovers his health, nothing else in life seems so important or of so great value to himself and his family. Here is the case of Mr. Edward Gaskele, a well known carpenter of Pittsburgh. When one of his buddies commented on how well he was looking, Mr. Gaskele said: "Yes, I am as well as ever I was in my life, but only six months ago I was a perfect wreck and I looked it. I really was not able to work with any satisfaction, but today I feel capable of any task. Last winter I caught cold after cold. Working in cold and damp new buildings was not the best for a man in my condition, but I took simple remedies and appeared to get over these colds, outwardly, at least. However, about this time my stomach began to get troublesome. I had little attacks of indigestion. These soon grew worse, until I could retain only the simplest things on my stomach. I lost strength. My bowels became disordered. Then I began to go downhill at an alarming rate. I got so nervous I could not sleep, and I had to quit work. We are not rich people, and I had a hard time getting along.

"One day a druggist told me he thought World's Tonic might help me. I did not think much of such medicines, but he told me of another case in town of the same general description where World's Tonic had been of real benefit. I bought a bottle, and from that day to this I have seen a steady improvement. I got over my dizziness, my bowels became normal, and my stomach caused me no more trouble. Of course I was careful, because a man who suffered as I did with my stomach takes no chances, but now I just forget that I have any such organ and am well again. When I think of all I went through, and how quickly and inexpensively I got well, I cannot say too much for this wonderful medicine."

World's Tonic has hundreds of similar cases to its credit, for the stomach, kidneys and bowels, and all the diseases that follow their disorder, it is highly recommended by many. You can prove its value by purchasing a bottle from Dow's, formerly McCulloch's; also May's, Mayflower, or any other first class druggist. (A-27).

LONGER SKIRTS, PITTSBURGHER FORECASTS

Alexander MacLachlan, Head Of McCreery Co., Returns From European Markets

By FLORENCE Y. WILSON,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Women may look for numerous radical change in the coming seasons, both for indoor and outdoor wear, according to Alexander MacLachlan, president of the McCreery Company, Pittsburgh, one of a chain of 21 of the largest stores in as many cities of the United States.

MacLachlan, with his wife, daughter and three grandchildren, are here today, having just returned from a business and pleasure tour of European offices of the Mercantile Stores Corporation, and of the most noted style-makers of London, Paris, Berlin and Brussels.

He says he looks for the biggest department store business the United States has ever known during the coming 12 months.

KNIT BLOUSE RETURNING

Perhaps one of the most startling "return styles" of the coming seasons, according to Mr. MacLachlan, will be the reappearance of the knit blouse, which hasn't been the vogue for some time. He looks for "quite a craze" in this line. It will be greatly of the sweater type, but a bit more tailored.

Here are a few other style hints which this veteran middle western department store head brought back with him:

Hats will continue small—up straight in front, or down sharply at sides and back.

LONGER SKIRTS

Knees are to be strictly out—not shown—for skirts are to be from four to five inches longer.

Curves (meaning greater plumpness) are more and more "in trend."

All suits and gowns are to have more "dressmaker touches." The strictly mode trend is very much away from the rigid tailored effect.

There will be more of laces and chiffons than for quite some time.

Tweed is very, very fashionable, especially in ensembles, and of course, the English product has top place.

Flat pumps, with high heels that are much studded with rainbow-hued stones for evening wear, are all the rage. There are few buckles on shoes.

Evening bags of tiny beads of fantastic pattern are now and will be all the go.

HAIR STILL BOBBED

Few bare legs are seen abroad, and the flair here for that sort of thing is dying out. Stocking favorites are nude and gray.

Hair is still bobbed abroad, and will stay that way.

There will be furs for everything.

And, oh, yes, many foreign shops are showing the dickiest of "cocktail napkins." Of course, as was remarked, that shouldn't interest the United States. You set the glasses on them.

Tire Executive Dies in Hospital

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 23.—Mahlon O. Robenstine, 42, manager of the planning department of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, died in the new Memorial Hospital, the first to die in that institution. A blood transfusion was attempted, but death resulted from complications. He leaves a wife. A year ago their only child was killed here by an automobile. The body will be taken to Akron, Ohio. Mr. Robenstine came here from Akron in 1921 with the Kelly-Springfield plant.

Primary Teachers To Hold Confabs

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Conferences for primary school teachers of Greene County prior to the opeing of the school term will be held August 24 at Rogersville, and on August 31 at Carmichaels, it was announced today. Kent Kelly, county superintendent of schools, will be in charge.

ARMSTRONG RETURNS, SILENT ON MAYORALTY

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

NOW and then the old bitterness between those two social poles, the men who sell contraband liquor and the men who make raids against such commerce, still crops out, but a trusted spy declares that in the main the feeling between the salesmen and the badgemen, if not cordial, is not so acute as it used to be.

There are still stories telling how a mob threatens the raiders, or how the tires of the raiders' cars have been punctured deliberately, but these instances are rare in the light of the number of raids conducted where there is hardly any unpleasantness.

A RAID to the case-hardened editor of a newspaper is pretty much of an old story and unless there is something spectacular or unusual a raid gets but little attention. Anything becoming common soon loses its value, as news. Hence when a groggery is pounced upon, the reporter dispatches the item with a few brief sentences, sometimes including three or four raids in the one story, a paragraph, say, to each place thus stricken or saved, according to the viewpoint.

But there must be a part of the public that would like to know just what happens when a squad of prohibition men enter a place of illicit business and to take care of that part of the public the following is set forth, and in this account it will be shown how the boys get along together.

THREE or four guests may be on the drinking side of the bar, asking the bartender how the wife and kiddies are getting along, when in walks a group of men with badges. Quite politely, the agents advise the customers to take themselves hither, which advice is always followed. Once in a while a precipitate customer will leave before he has finished his beer, and if the agents are in a good humor, they'll say: "You may as well finish your drink before you go."

Credentials are shown the bartender, who upon being satisfied the men represent John Law, walks from behind the bar and watches while the agents begin their survey. The investigation nearly always leads to the cellar, following which one of the boys will turn on the spigot and let the beer flow into the trough, until there is no beer.

THE bartender may go to the lunch counter and begin cutting bread for sandwiches. He may make 15 or 20 sandwiches and after the agents have done their work he will offer them the sandwiches. If the agents are not really busy that day they'll sit down and consume the sandwiches. If the beer isn't all run out, the bartender may casually wonder if there'd be any harm in taking what may be his last glass for a while. The agents usually nod assent and the bartender with a smile will hoist his glass and say "Good luck." The agents wave a sandwich back at him and wish him the returns of the day.

Now, of course, all agents are not so pleasant and all bartenders are not so hospitable, but gradually both sides are coming to believe that there is little sense in making the issue a personal one.

SO NOW when you read in the papers the following: "Dry agents raided a saloon at 1244 Pimlico street, seized one barrel of beer, a quart of whisky and a gallon of moonshine, and arrested Steve Jonkers, the bartender," you may assume that if a good time was not had by all, that at least Steve and the agents didn't stand around making faces at one another.

ACCIDENTS IN TRAFFIC HERE INJURE 6

Police Seek Driver of Car Checked by Rail on Edge Of Boulevard of Allies Cliff

Seven persons were injured in automobile accidents last night.

George Bagnall, 55, of 1305 Biltmore avenue, narrowly escaped death when his automobile crashed into an iron fence along the Boulevard of the Allies near Miltenberger street. The fence held and saved the machine from a 300-foot drop onto the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks above Second avenue. The accident occurred after Bagnall's automobile was sideswiped by another machine. Police arrested George Schmidt, 26, of 1351 Spring Garden avenue, as the owner of the machine which struck Bagnall's car. Officers said he informed them that he was not driving at the time of the accident. He furnished the name of the driver and a search was started for him, according to the officers.

TRUCK DRIVER HURT

W. C. O'Neil, 20, of 1501 Bailey avenue, McKeesport, son of the late J. Denny O'Neil, was released on his own recognizance in connection with an accident in Mt. Washington in which Harry Hamilton, 29, a truck driver, of 219 Carrington street, was injured. O'Neil took Hamilton to Mercy Hospital, where it was said that the victim was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull.

Witnesses absolved O'Neil of blame, police said. They informed the officers that Hamilton stepped from behind the truck just as O'Neil was approaching. Hamilton was knocked to the pavement.

When an automobile owned by Abe Panish, of 1303 North Lang avenue, crashed into a parked truck at Apple and Lincoln avenues, Lillian Panish, his 20-months-old daughter, was knocked against the windshield and suffered lacerations.

BOY ON BICYCLE HURT

Bruised on the head when a bicycle he was riding struck an automobile at Highland and Penn avenues, William Scott, 13, of 342 Highland avenue, was taken to the office of a nearby physician and later to his home.

A victim of a hit-and-run motorist, F. L. Natzel, 30, of 610 Thompson street, was taken to Belvedere General Hospital, where it was said that he was suffering from lacerations of the face and head. The accident occurred at Shetland and Larimer avenues.

Mrs. Anna Henricks, 32, of 2737 Mulberry way, suffered bruises when a machine driven, police said, by W. K. Neuhart, of 239 Gross street, struck her at Penn avenue and Graham street.

Stepping from a curb at Carson and South Twelfth streets, J. A. Doerfler, 60, of 1920 Harcums way, was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by W. E. Steir, of 166 Termon avenue. He was treated for head and body bruises at South Side Hospital.

AIR SIGNS FEW IN PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

Drive Under Way to Cut Perils to Fliers Seeking Knowledge of Route

By MAX HENRICI.

Careful inquiry revealed today that the number of towns in the Pittsburgh district with signs for the guidance of aviators is comparatively small. Yet the need of such markers is now being emphasized almost daily by the authorities chiefly concerned with the promotion of aviation. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh stressed the importance of it in one of his rare newspaper interviews published a short while ago.

As the Sun-Telegraph has shown with specific instances, reported during the last few days, it is potentially dangerous for fliers to pass over unmarked territory. With no signs to indicate where they are, and nothing to point out where the nearest landing field may be found, aviators compelled to alight are liable to come down in perilous places.

DRIVE UNDER WAY

That this hazard may be completely eliminated in Western Pennsylvania, and the whole territory made as safe for flying as it is possible to make it, the Sun-Telegraph, in co-operation with the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, is undertaking, through a campaign of education, to get avery community marked.

The entire job can be done quickly, thoroughly and inexpensively. All that is necessary is to arouse public interest. Civic and trade bodies can be useful in this work.

That the erection of signs for aviators is valuable service is shown by the fact that some of the large commercial corporations are doing it or encouraging others to do it.

PENNSY MARKS STATIONS

In the Pittsburgh district the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is leading the way in marking towns for fliers. Signs have been put up on the freight stations at Johnstown, Derry, Latrobe, Black Lick, Uniontown and Burgettstown, giving the name of the town and indicating with an arrow the direction and stating the distance to the nearest airport. The letters are 10 feet high on each side of the sloping roof.

Here and there a bank, a hotel or a store is putting a town marker on its roof. The Penn-Lincoln has had "Wilkinsburg" painted on its roof in letters eight feet high, easily visible from a height of 2,000 feet, as was proved by photographs taken from that altitude. An aviator from Bettis Field was consulted before the sign was painted.

Over in Ohio the Standard Oil Company has arranged to put up fabric signs for the guidance of aviators on the roofs of their plants in 272 towns.

MANY LACK SIGNS

But for every community in the Pittsburgh district that is marked there are a dozen or more that lack signs. Yet there is probably not a district in the country that has greater need of them. The mountains of Western Pennsylvania present hazards to aviators, as trage-

KLINE GROUP CLAIMING SUPPORT

Last of 'Big Four' Retains Reticence on 3-Way Fight; Martin Continues Attacks

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, returning today from Detroit, did not contribute a single word to relieve the Pittsburgh political tension.

"What have you to say on the mayoralty?" he was asked.

"I have just arrived home and I have a lot of county work to do," he replied. "You know we've advertised for bids for contracts totaling $1,000,000.

"Then you have nothing to say about the political situation?"

"I'm still a county man. And that goes for the rest of the day."

Armstrong is the last of the "big four" to remain silent. W. L. Mellon has declared neutrality, unless something unexpected happens; Senator M. G. Leslie has declared for Councilman James F. Malone and Senator James J. Coyne is working for the re-election of Mayor Charles H. Kline.

CLAIMED FOR KLINE

The county commissioner has not yet expressed his opinion. Perhaps because many of his closest political associates are in the mayor's camp, he is claimed by the Kline forces. The Malone forces have not given up hope of getting Armstrong's aid, or at least persuading him to maintain neutrality.

Latest political developments are:

1—"The people are choosing a mayor, not a debater," declared Malone, declining the invitation of Judge Richard W. Martin to meet him in debate. Mayor Kline also declined the invitation.

2—Judge Martin, speaking at the noon meeting in his headquarters, accused Malone of changing his mind about the proper conduct of the police department the day before Martin announced his candidacy and demanded that Malone explain why he sat silent for three years in Council while Mayor Charles H. Kline built up the administration Malone now is assailing.

3—The Kline slate candidates is expected to be announced by Monday. It will be selected by a committee named at the mass meeting Tuesday night composed of 22 ward chairmen and other Republican leaders.

4—The first large mass meeting in the interests of the Martin campaign will be held August 29 in North Side Carnegie Hall.

SHERIFF PLACE OPEN

There are reports that former County Commissioner Robert S. Cain will be slated for sheriff by the Kline forces, although Clyde S. Edeburn is being advanced for that place by North Side leaders.

The Leslie-Mackrell-Malone combination did not slate a candidate for sheriff. Squire A. T. Lorch, of Allison Park, was scheduled for that indorsement first. Later it shifted to Squire A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie. Protests by leaders of miners' unions led to the elimination of the latter at the eleventh hour, it was said.

Declining Martin's debate invitation, Malone wrote: "No useful purpose would be served by the rather theatrical display of our comparative oratory."

He said his ideas of the management of the police department already have been stated. These ideas he repeated in his letter. Summarized, they are:

1. Daily aggressive war on law violators, co-operating with county, state and Federal authorities.
2. Promotion upon efficiency only.
3. Honest administration of the civil service requirements.
4. Establishment of a police train-

DENIES POLITICS CLOSED FILLER

J. F. Bailey, chief of the bureau of weights and measures, has denied that politics prompted the closing of gasoline pumps at the filling station of Kalman Kramer, 2619 Bigelow boulevard.

Kramer said Inspectors A. L. Nolan and William Cooney shut down his pumps and when asked for the reason cast significant glances at a Malone-for-Mayor sign above the gas station. Kramer said he would erect another sign.

Bailey yesterday produced a report from the inspectors stating that Kramer's pumps had no regulators and dials and that the hose leaked. Many complains have been made against the station and Kramer will not be permitted to operate until his equipment can pass the city tests, Bailey said.

Bailey declared the inspectors are examining all the gas stations on the boulevard and he produced a report showing that a neighbor of Kramer had two of his pumps shut down recently.

Charges of politics today were made by friends of Vincent Cavanaugh, a city detective, who was reported reduced to a precinct detective and assigned to the Mt. Washington district.

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh denied Cavanaugh was demoted. He explained the detective was assigned to Olympia Park to break up a gang of boys that annoy girl swimmers and break into lockers. He stated the civil service law prevented a demotion, since the detective has never served as a patrolman.

Three weeks ago Cavanaugh was relieved of his duties in the detective bureau and assigned to a sergeant's desk.

Park Car While Petting, Advice To Drivers

The front porch, parlor and untraveled lanes are the best places to stage "petting parties," C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, pointed out today when he issued a warning against petting drivers. Numerous complaints have been received, Roth said, regarding the man who tries to make love while driving his machine.

4 HELD IN DRUG SALE INQUIRY

George Bonner, 29, and Sam Culmer, 49, of 1225 Clark street, and James Pope, 43, of 1516 Clark street, Negroes, were held for court by the United States commissioner on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act by alleged unlawful possession and sale of narcotics. Edward Penn, 31, alias "Stack-a-Dollar," another defendant, was discharged. Eleanor Hill, 23, was held for a further hearing.

The five were arrested Wednesday by government narcotic agents and city detectives.

Man Jailed for Row At Wedding Party

Louis Smiar, 25, of 1910 Larkins way, was sentenced to serve 10 days in the county jail by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday. Smiar and Frank Jablonski, 27, of 4519 Chatsworth street, it is said acted in a disorderly manner at a wedding held in Falcon's Hall, South Eighteenth and Sarah streets, Wednesday. A fight started resulting in Jablonski being treated at the South Side Hospital for a lacerated left eye.

Jablonski forfeited $30 by not appearing at the hearing.

Banker Tells Lions Of Savings Methods

"Thrift and Savings" was the subject of a talk delivered by E. B. Coll, vice president of the Farmers Deposit National Bank, at the weekly meeting of the Mt. Lebanon Lions Club, held in the Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church last night.

2 ROAD ISSUES APPROVED

Bond issues for $50,000 and $35,000 approved by the voters of West View last June, have been given a final O. K. by Secretary of Internal Affairs James F. Woodward.

Under the former issue, Center, Lehigh and Bronx avenues will be graded and paved and two bridges, those on Martsolf and Ridgewood avenues, will be resurfaced. The other issue was for funding floating indebtedness, incurred in borough improvements.

Council will meet next Tuesday to award contracts for two of the new improvements under the issue, Center avenue and Lehigh avenue. The Bronx avenue improvement will be taken up as soon as the borough engineers complete plans for that project.

TEACHERS OPEN MEET MONDAY

More than 2,500 teachers from Allegheny County are expected to attend the seventy-ninth session of the Allegheny County Teachers' Institute, which opens in Memorial Hall, Oakland, Monday. Sessions will continue until Friday.

Charles E. Dickey, county superintendent of schools, will preside at all sessions. The afternoon session Monday will be preceded by devotional services at which the Rev. G. W. Terbush, pastor of the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church, will preside.

Under provisions of the new school code, teachers will be paid $4 daily for attendance at the institute. Absentees will forfeit a like amount unless satisfactory reason for failure to attend is given.

Cash Prizes for Estimates Of Zep Flight's Time

Zeppelin Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh:

Here is my entry in the Hearst-Zeppelin "Round-the-World Flight Contest:

The Zeppelin will make the trip around the world in ..... hours ..... minutes flying time.

The Zeppelin will travel from Tokio to Los Angeles, Cal., in ..... hours ..... minutes.

The Zeppelin will travel from Los Angeles to Lakehurst, N. J., in ..... hours ..... minutes.

My slogan for the trip is.....

Signed .....

Address .....

For the nearest correct answer as to the number of hours and minutes in actual flying time the Graf Zeppelin will require to fly around the earth, $100 in cash will be awarded. Second prize will be $25, third $15, fourth $10, and 50 prizes of $1 each.

For the nearest correct estimate of elapsed flying time from Tokio to Los Angeles, first prize will be $25, second $10, third $5, and the next 25 will be $1 each. This phase of the contest closes at midnight tonight.

Prizes for estimates of the time from Los Angeles to Lakehurst will be $25, $10, $5 and $1 each for the next 25.

Estimates must be accompanied by the contestants' suggested slogan for the Hearst-Zeppelin 'Round-the-World Flight. In case of tie, the best slogan will determine the winner. The contest remains subject to the rules and regulations published in the Sun-Telegraph heretofore.

New Sun-Telegraph Game Opens to Pittsburgh Sages

Anagrambles Fascinating Pastime for Young And Old Alike.

HERE is good news for all those who like to keep their wits sharp by playing a fascinating mental game with a kick. The Sun-Telegraph gives them their opportunity today, as it starts a series of Anagrambles, the new game which has puzzled and delighted all who have tried it.

So get into the Anagramble swim today.

To unscramble the Anagramble is the most fascinating indoor or outdoor sport that has hit the country in years. Thousands are doing it now, and once you start you just can't stop.

EASY TO LEARN

It is easy to learn. You are given, for instance, a word "rope," and the problem is to unscramble the word with the letter "s." The rules for the game do not allow you to make it plural like ropes or a past tense like "roped."

You must change the complete meaning of the word by inserting the letter "s" wherever you can and by rearranging the word "rope" to suit your desires. Thus, to make an Anagramble of "rope" with "s" the word becomes "pores."

Here are a few more Anagrambles just to show you how easy the rules are.

Unscramble the word "cram" with the letter "e." The Anagramble is "cream." Unscramble the word "task" with the letter "e." The Anagramble is "takes." Unscramble the word "rest" with the letter "e." The Anagramble is "steer."

NOW TRY YOUR HAND

Now try your hand at the Anagrambles which the Sun-Telegraph presents today. They are necessarily simple ones to begin with, but watch out for harder ones as the unscrambling goes on day after day in the Sun-Telegraph.

You'll soon get the swing of it and probably be making up new Anagrambles yourself. When you get a particularly good one, send it with the answer to the Anagramble Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and it will be published with due credit.

The answers to today's Anagrambles will be printed in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. In tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph, too, there will be published more of the delightful, brain-testing Anagramble series and every day thereafter.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

(1) TONGS ..... (1) .....
(Unscramble it with R)

(2) CHEST ..... (2) .....
(Unscramble it with A)

(3) FORTS ..... (3) .....
(Unscramble it with E)

(4) SPORT ..... (4) .....
(Unscramble it with U)

(5) TEETH ..... (5) .....

Gil Roy Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 23.

There is one thing that's in the paper every morning, just as regular as heat prostrations everywhere but here, and that is, "Russia masses troops on China front."

If they have massed as many on that front as they have on the front page, why, they have done what I would call some mass production in massing.

Col. Lindbergh is learning Anne to fly so they can go up and break the endurance record. That would just suit them to go up there and be away from everybody for a couple of months.

Gold Dust has merged with the United Cigar Stores. Their slogan will be, "Reach for a cigar and then wash out your mouth with Gold Dust."

ARREST MAN FOR ATTEMPT TO COLLECT OWN INSURANCE

WRITES 'DEATH' LETTER FROM JAIL CELL

Duquesne Resident Accused Of Forging False Claim For $1,500 Life Policy

Harry A. Hart, 36, of Duquesne, reported himself "dead" in a letter to an insurance company, in an attempt to collect $1,500 on an insurance policy, according to testimony at a hearing before the United States commissioner. The defendant is said to have admitted writing the letter while serving a sentence in the Lisbon, O., jail for forging a check.

Hart was arrested on a complaint filed by Postoffice Inspector J. P. Nolan, which was based on a certified copy of a complaint filed in the Federal District Court at Cleveland, O., where Hart is wanted to answer a charge of using the mails to defraud. The commissioner placed his bond at $500 pending a court order for his removal to Cleveland.

It was testified that Hart mailed the letter to the Police and Firemen's Insurance Association, of Indianapolis, Ind., forging the name of William S. Raible, an agent for the company. The letter notified the insurance company that Hart had been fatally injured, and directed the company to send the insurance money to Hart's wife, in care of Harry A. Hart, Sr., at the Lisbon (O.) jail.

AID OFFERED VETS OF '98 AT PICNIC

Application for Pensions, Hospitalization Are to Be Received at Special Booth

Arrangements have been made for the handling of applications for pensions, hospitalization, and membership in the organization of the Spanish-American war veterans at the Sun-Telegraph Soldiers' Picnic on August 31.

The Kennywood Park management has granted Camp Alfred E. Hunt No. 1, of the United Spanish War Veterans, a booth in charge of a special stenographer who will be able to give all necessary information to applicants and inquirers.

Camp Hunt is the first camp of Spanish War veterans organized in the United States. Maj. William H. Davis, former postmaster of Pittsburgh and commander of the Second Battalion of the Eighteenth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers, was its principal organizer.

LARGEST IN STATE

The camp is now the largest of its kind in the state, having more than 400 members, who meet regularly in Memorial Hall. The booth at Kennywood will contain relics of the war, including a flag captured by Sergt. James Langdon from Aguinaldo's headquarters and presented by him to Bud Dajo Lair, of the Military of the Serpent No. 2 of the Province of Pennsylvania. Mementos of the battleship Maine will be among other interesting exhibits.

Under an act of Congress dated May 1, 1926, any persons who served 90 days or more in the military service of the United States during the war with Spain, the Philippine Insurrection or the China relief expedition and who has an honorable discharge from the service or, having served less than 90 days, was discharged for disability incurred in service on duty and who is now suffering from the effects of such service, is eligible for a pension.

All Spanish war veterans are now entitled to pension and hospital treatment, as well as admission to various soldiers' and sailors' homes. Among other camps that will be represented at this free reunion under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Kennywood Park are: Merrill Allen Camp No. 15, Col. Frank I. Rutledge Camp No. 75, Capt. J. C. Greeg Camp No. 93, Maj. James L. Srodes Camp No. 74, Gen. Willis J. Hulings Camp No. 77, Col. W. J. Glenn Camp No. 78, Maj. William H. Davis Camp No. 98, Jesse L. Babcock Camp No. 113, Valley Camp No. 127, Guthrie Camp No. 134, Kiski Valley Camp No. 128, Gen. John J. Pershing Camp No. 129 and Corp. James E. Campbell Camp No. 115.

UNIFORMS URGED

A large number of other organizations from out of town will likewise be represented at the reunion. The veterans are urged to wear their uniforms, even if they are tight fitting.

DEBATE ROW CONTINUES

Speaking today, Judge Martin said that Mayor Kline had not answered his invitation to a debate.

"I assume he declines it," he said.

Councilman Malone, he went on, a few days ago accepted the invitation of the Sun-Telegraph to a debate.

"Now he gives a different answer. He thinks it will be a theatrical exhibition," said Martin. "What made him change his mind so quickly? Was it the fear that he could not explain why, as president of Council, he sat silent for more than three years while the Mayor was building up what he calls a racketeer control of government?"

Judge Martin stated that one of the spokesmen at the Malone meeting Wednesday suggested that he remain on the bench. That spokesman disagrees with Malone, declared Martin.

"Two years ago the President of Council spent days and nights in a strenuous effort to keep me off the bench," he said. "Evidently he has changed his mind about that matter also. He was equally anxious to defeat Judge Gray and to prevent Judge Patterson's election."

In an address through Station KQV, the Rev. A. V. B. Hightower, Negro leader, demanded representation for the city's 76,000 Negroes in the city government. He branded the Kline administration as "unconcerned over vicious conditions of spoilation and vice," and urged members of his race to support Judge Martin.

Former Policeman Shot in Struggle

When he attempted to disarm an unidentified Negro who threatened the manager of John Simon's restaurant at 1232 Wylie avenue, early today, Glenwood Bond, 20, a Negro, former policeman, was shot through the left lung. At Passavant Hospital it was said his condition was critical.

The Negro, who escaped, was charged with having refused to pay for a meal, and when the manager insisted on payment, he drew a revolver and threatened him. Bond was in the restaurant when the man entered.

MOVING OF OLD HOMESTEAD STOPPED

Johnson Residence, Dormont, Arouses Objections of Neighbors; Council Acts

Work on the moving of the "Old Johnson Homestead," a landmark in Dormont, has been ordered stopped and a hearing will be held in the municipal building this evening after which the building committee of the borough council will decide whether the moving shall be continued.

The meeting is being held to consider a complaint of Voelkel avenue residents who object to the building being moved to that street.

The building, which is owned by Mrs. John Johnson, is a two-story frame structure, and one of the first homes to be erected in that part of the South Hills.

ON NEW SITE

It originally stood facing on Broadway avenue and Potomac avenue, but was moved from that spot two weeks ago. The house now stands several feet above its new foundation on blocks, rollers and tracks. The work was stopped by Borough Manager E. O. Garrett, pending the committee's decision.

The moving was decided by the owner to allow a business building to be constructed on the original site.

NEIGHBORS OBJECT

Voelkel avenue property owners object to having a frame building on their street. All of the buildings now there are of brick.

4 Killed, 2 Injured As Train Hits Auto

PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Four persons were killed and two injured possibly fatally in an automobile-locomotive crash at a grade crossing near Mountain View. The dead are Mrs. J. M. Traps Pollen

W. S. BROTZMAN

Weatherman Brotzman studies the "pollen trap," a vaseline-coat device atop the Oliver Building which attracts the ragweed pollen that causes hay fever. The pollen is examined, the better for physicians to treat that bothersome ailment.

WESTERN WINDS AGGRAVATE HAY FEVER

Weather Bureau Conducting Test of Pollen in Air; Survey to Last 3 Months

Western winds bring Pittsburgh its largest share of ragweed pollen that causes hay fever.

This was established today in the first report received by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman since the local Weather Bureau joined in a nation-wide study for information to be used in combating the annual shower of toxic particles. Vaseline-coated slides, one by two and three-quarter inches, are being exposed daily atop the Oliver Building for 24-hour periods each.

POLLEN TRAPPED

A small amount of the ragweed pollen in the air is trapped for microscopic examination and analysis. By counting the number of pollen particles falling on a unit area, the average number of pollen grains per cubic yard of air for the period of exposure of each slide is determined.

The first report covers August 10 to 16, inclusive, and shows the greater number of pollen particles were trapped on days a western wind was blowing.

AUGUST 14 WORST

The result follows: August 10, three particles, wind blowing seven miles per hour from southwest; August 11, two particles, six and one-half-mile southwest wind; August 12, two particles, six-mile north wind; August 13, nine particles, five and six-tenths-mile west wind; August 14, 34 particles, 11-mile west wind; August 15, 29 particles, 10-mile west wind, and August 16, two particles, four and six-tenths-mile north wind.

The study will continue through October. Examination and analysis is being made by O. C. Durham, Indianapolis botanist, who is directing the study through selected weather bureaus.

DANCE MEETING ENDS TONIGHT

Installation of newly-elected officers and the annual banquet tonight closes the Dancing Masters of America convention held this week at the William Penn Hotel.

Three classes in dancing were being held during the day for the more than 500 teachers in attendance. No business session will be conducted.

The officers were elected at a poll conducted throughout yesterday. They are: Thomas Sheehy, of Chicago, president; Ernest Ryan, Los Angeles, first vice president; Albert V. Tuttle, Baltimore, second vice president; Victor Christensen, Portland, Ore., third vice president, and Mrs. Anna H. Keenan, Philadelphia, fourth vice president. One director, Fenton Bett, of Dayton, was elected for five years, and Walter U. Soby, Hartford, Conn., was re-elected secretary and treasurer, with opposition.

New York City won the next convention with Los Angeles offering strongest competition.

Homewood-Brushton Corn Roast Planned

A corn roast and outing will be held Labor Day at the Crescent Pines, Saltsburg road, by members of the Homewood-Brushton Boosters' Club. Trucks will leave Hamilton and Braddock avenues every hour on the hour from 10 a. m. until 7 p. m. J. Scott Morgan is general chairman of the affair.

CORK LEGS AID LAME BIRDS

Canaries with only one leg may now be fitted up with cork ones if their owners take them to Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, 7028 Race street, Homewood.

Mrs. Ross, a bird fancier of the first water, has performed many and sundry operations on the yellow singers. Her surgical masterpieces have included amputation of seven legs, replacing the missing ones with cork models, setting 75 legs and 27 wings and curing 500 birds of liver trouble and catarrh.

Mrs. Ross tells a story of a canary that had its abdomen torn open, two ribs, both feet and a hip broken when a window slammed shut on it. The bird's owner brought it to Mrs. Ross who stitched up the abdomen and removed the broken ribs. She claims the bird is much improved and sings as well as before.

GREENSBURG TO OPEN AIRPORT

The new Greensburg airport of the Main Aeronautics Company will be opened and dedicated with a celebration on September 20 and 21, company officials announced yesterday. Congressman Adam M. Wyant, of Greensburg, is expected to make the dedicatory address and there will be maneuvers of 27 Army and Navy planes.

One hundred men are now at work on the new field, which will be one of the biggest in the state. One hangar will be ready for occupancy within a few days. The field is on Dry Ridge on the Mt. Pleasant road and contains 712 acres. It is equipped for night flying and has improved runways.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 23.—Prominent figures in the aviation world will feature the program at the dedication of the American Legion Airport here on September 7.

William P. McCracken, Jr., retiring assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce in charge of aeronautics, and Earl B. Wadsworth, superintendent of the division of air mail service, both of Washington, are to be speakers. The dedicatory address will be made by Congressman Samuel A. Kendall, of Meyersdale.

Ceremonies will begin at 9 a. m. with the arrival of airplanes and close in the evening with a banquet at the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Assurances of the presence of at least 40 planes have been received by the committee.

Hospital Directors Laud Drive Leaders

Congratulations on the progress of the Belvedere General Hospital's drive for $50,000 to enlarge its building in Paulson avenue, were voted Dr. G. Alvin, hospital director, and Dr. John S. Mackrell, campaign treasurer, at the hospital directors' monthly meeting. The report posted yesterday on the "thermometer" indicator at Grant street and Sixth avenue showed that $10,000 already has been contributed to the campaign.

Run Down by Train, Homestead Man Dies

John Doniss, 45, of 907 West Homestead avenue, Homestead, died yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital of injuries suffered an hour before when struck by a train in the Thompson yard of the Pennsylvania Railroad, according to a morgue report.

Child Hurts Hip, Falls from See-Saw

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 23.—Anna Peterus, 9, of Colonial No. 4, sustained severe injuries to the hip when she fell from a see-saw near her home. She is in the Brownsville hospital.

Prisoner Accused Of Possessing Drug

Earl Bebout, of the North Side, serving a 10-month sentence in the county jail for violating a three-year parole granted in the Federal Court, was held for court today by the United States commissioner to answer a charge of having unlawful possession of 150 grains of morphine on December 13, 1928. Government Narcotic Agent William T. Duffy testified to the alleged unlawful possession and the subsequent jail sentence for the parole violation.

Air Mail Pick-Up Device to Be Shown

Postoffice officials and air mail contractors will attend a demonstration of the Adams automatic air mail pick-up device at Youngstown, O., August 30, Clifford Ball, air mail contractor, said today. The device is designed to pick up and lower mail bags by mail planes while they are in motion.

Her Rival was Promoted!

Once in a blue moon a business office is lucky enough to get a girl like Ruth. There weren't five her equal in all Chicago. She was simply a marvel of efficiency. And good looking as well. Yet when there was a promotion, her less capable rival got it—and with it a raise of $15 per week. Why?

Don't fool yourself

A person with halitosis (unpleasant breath) never gets very far—either socially or in business. Don't fool yourself that you never have it. Bad breath cannot be detected by the victim. Surveys show every third person to be affected—and unaware of it.

Do the intelligent thing. Use full strength Listerine 3 times a day. It instantly ends halitosis.

Destroys odors—kills germs

Unpleasant breath, while sometimes due to stomach derangements is often the result of a germ condition in the mouth. Listerine, though entirely safe, is an active germicide which immediately kills germs. Even such resistant germs as the Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) are killed by it in 15 seconds.

Use Listerine often that you may never offend. Our free Book of Etiquette is yours for the asking. Address Dept. H. 13, Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

WELL KNOWN COOKS DECLARE

COOKS and housewives in hustling Chicago have no time to squander on needless kitchen drudgery. Yet their sauces and dressings must be perfect. They use Hellmann's Mayonnaise only because it is as fine and true in flavor as their own homemade.

When Hellmann's Mayonnaise is made, the best eggs, oil, vinegar and spices are used—and nothing else. It is blended after a secret, old French recipe, and tireless, hour-long beating gives it velvety smoothness of texture.

Each jar is rushed fresh to your grocer from the nearest of six shining kitchens scattered across the country. Order a jar of Hellmann's from your grocer today. The popular family size is ½ pint—25¢. Other sizes, 3½ ounce, pint, and quart jars.

ARNOLD DECIDES TO VOTE ON INTER-BOROUGH MERGER

NEW ALUMINUM TOWN WOULD HAVE 35,000

New Third-Class City Would Be Industrial Center; Plan New Kensington as Name

The way was clear today for people of Arnold, Parnassus and New Kensington to act upon political consolidation of those boroughs into one "Aluminum City"—a union which already has been brought about, physically, by industrial expansion.

Arnold borough council last night resolved to submit the question of consolidation to a vote at the general elections in November. Similar action has been taken by Parnassus and New Kensington councils.

35,000 POPULATION

If the consolidation is approved at the polls, it will mean the creation of a third-class city, to be known as New Kensington, with a population in excess of 35,000 and an industrial background of aluminum, glass and coal.

The action of the Arnold council removed the last barrier to a popular vote on the consolidation, which its supporters regard as an economic step in keeping with physical conditions.

The boroughs are adjoining, and only natives can tell where one ends and another begins. The thoroughfares run from Arnold through New Kensington and Parnassus with only slight difference in paving.

POSTOFFICES MERGED

The Postoffice Department on April 16 consolidated the postoffices of the three boroughs into the New Kensington postoffice.

It is approximately three miles from the outer limits of Arnold to the outer limits of Parnassus, and the territory covered by the boroughs averages about a mile in width from the Allegheny River.

Contained in this narrow strip of land are three separate municipalities, each with a burgess, council, tax collector, police department, fire department and school board.

"CENTRALIZATION NEEDED"

It was overcrowded conditions in the schools that enlisted the support of many citizens for the consolidation, which would centralize tax collections and expenditures, it is maintained.

When Arnold Council acted, it did so upon the third petition for such action presented to it within two years. The petition bore 384 signatures. The previous petitions were defeated by the vigorous opposition of Burgess Harry Koessler. The council last night presented a solid front to Koessler.

Arnold is the youngest of the three boroughs. It was incorporated in 1896. The main industry is a plant of the American Window Glass Company. The population is about 12,000.

INDUSTRIAL CENTER

Parnassus is the oldest of the three boroughs. It was founded in 1769, growing up around Fort Crawford, an outpost on the stage route from Pittsburgh to the east. It was incorporated in 1872.

New Kensington, largest of the three, was laid out in 1890 and incorporated two years later. It is the busiest industrial center in the Allegheny Valley.

The Aluminum Company of America's plant is the chief industry. In the town there are also plants of the American Sheet and Tinplate Company, Union Spring and Manufacturing Company, the National Lead and Oil Company and the General Electric Company.

The town has three primary schools, a high school and a modern hospital. It supports 24 churches and has a Y. M. C. A. building.

PARIS THRILLS STIR SCOUTS

Eagle Scout Clark B. Johnston, of Crafton, who has received many honors as an ideal Scout, is reporting details of the International jamboree at Birkenhead, England, and subsequent experiences for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. His cabled news reports are being published exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

By CLARK B. JOHNSTON,
Eagle Scout
Correspondent, Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—One more day in Paris and the Bulldog Patrol starts on its way home. Every one of us is regretful that the time is growing so short. It has been a wonderful trip for all of us.

Already we have had three glorious days in the French capital, every minute spent in sightseeing—and so much to see! On Thursday we went to Versailles, there to gaze spellbound upon its wonderful palaces and gardens. Not the least interesting was the bus ride there and back, past the famed Notre Dame cathedral, the Arc de Triomphe, Les Invalides and other points.

It was on Wednesday, however, that we saw our wonderful view of Paris, mounting the Eiffel tower. What a marvelous mingling of the ancient and modern!

Celebrated my birthday along with the others by seeing "Blackbirds," with refreshments afterwards at a sidewalk cafe.

Boy Scouts who are interested—and all of the thousands in Western Pennsylvania are interested—in this biggest event in the history of Scoutdom will find exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph news written for them by one of their own Scouts. Scout Johnston will feature the news which he as a Scout knows will be of special interest to Scouts here. Watch the Sun-Telegraph for his articles.

AGENT RESCUED FROM GANG

Seven men who last night attempted to steal liquor purchased as evidence by a prohibition agent by attacking him in Fifth avenue, near Wylie avenue, were routed when a fellow agent went to his rescue.

The agent, James Lewis, a "buyer," who tips the scales at 115 pounds, was on his way to prohibition headquarters in the Plaza Building, when the men leaped on him and attempted to steal the evidence, it was reported. Lewis, backing into a narrow alley, fought them off until Ray Thomas, another agent, observing the fracas from a nearby restaurant, arrived. Thomas joined in the fight and floored one of the assailants with his fist. The man regained his feet quickly and, with his companions, fled.

The attackers succeeded in stealing only one bottle of the liquor, it was said.

A two-story frame building at 307 Falls way, East Pittsburgh, known as the Eagles Club, was raided by prohibition agents yesterday. Several gallons of wine and moonshine and 343 pints of beer were seized, the agents reported. No one was in the place.

A 300-gallon still was seized and 4,800 gallons of mash and 4,000 pounds of corn sugar were destroyed in a raid on the basement of a dwelling in Ihmsen avenue, Johnstown, the agents said. The owners of the plant are being sought.

Shriners to Meet In Canada in 1930

Candidate Listed In Rival Party Loses Vote

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—John Ricca, Republican candidate for alderman in Brooklyn, has lost one vote before the race begins.

A search into records showed that Ricca is a Democrat, although for the past 13 years he has been a regular Republican and voted under that standard.

In seeking a court order to return him to the Republican ranks, Ricca claimed that he marked his ballot wrong last year and suddenly found himself a Democrat.

The court order was refused and Ricca is out a vote.

Arrests Third Man In Venetia Robbery

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Continuing efforts to clear up a series of robberies in the Finleyville-Venetia district, Detective R. L. Elwood, of Monongahela, has made a third arrest, Harold Dean, aged 20, being charged with having robbed the store of H. C. Caseber at Venetia. Fred Murdy, 30, and Robert Hatfield, 19, of Venetia, are also held.

GREENE KILLING INVOLVES 7

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Two more arrests were made yesterday in connection with the murder on August 15 of Bert Wells, Maidsville, W. Va., miner, at Mt. Morris, Pa., in the home of Mrs. Margaret Schetzel. Mrs. Schetzel and Tony Rudz, 36, of Scotts Run, W. Va., both of whom are alleged to have witnessed the murder of Wells, were arrested at the home of Mrs. Annie Smith, in Hampshire, Md.

Seven persons are now being held here as a result of the slaying. They are John Friel, Maidsville youth, alleged "trigger man;" Charles Corwin, of Morgantown; Fred Curtis, of Mt. Morris; Susanna Keller, of Maidsville; Miss Agnes Smith, of Mt. Morris, and Mrs. Schetzel and Rudz. All, with the exception of Friel, are being held as material witnesses, although a coroner's jury recommended that Corwin and Curtis be held for murder. A formal charge of murder has also been entered against Friel.

Wheat Essential for Nourishment of Body

Wheat plays an important part in diet both in this country and abroad. It contains the valuable vitamins.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City. United States Senator from New York.

WE could not go far without the cereals. They are essential to the feeding and nourishment of the body. The bulk of the world's food comes from the cereals.

Half the human race makes use of rice every day. It is the food in greatest demand. The popular idea is that in the Orient no wheat is consumed, and that the Chinese never eat it. The other day I read a statement credited to the National Geographical Society. It makes interesting reading and I quote it:

"The popular idea that every Chinese has a bowl of rice in hand three or more times a day is false. Millions of Chinese have never seen a grain of rice, much less eaten rice."

I am sure this will surprise you. But let me continue the quotation:

"About 130,000,000 Chinese, it is estimated, live chiefly on wheat. That is, there are more Chinese who lean on wheat as the staff of life than there are Americans who eat bread. The United States Department of Commerce estimates that the annual wheat production of China lies somewhere between 200,000,000 and 600,000,000 bushels. During 1928 the United States shipped to China nearly 2,000,000 barrels of flour."

The cereals supply carbohydrates and proteins. They carry these elements in a protected form so that they avoid decay and destruction. They are among the most economic of foods. The labor of one man for the equivalent of one day will produce food enough to provide one person for a year.

Not only do we find the carbohydrates and proteins, but also the vitamins, particularly A, B and C, are stored in the wheat. The various minerals, as well as roughage are carried by it.

In the form of the breakfast cereals, the American people consume enormous quantities of the grains. With sugar and good cream, or with honey or maple syrup, they make wonderful dishes.

During the fruit season, berries may be added to the cereals to form a delicious dish.

We could not get on without the grains.

ON Sunday you'll want an especially tasty dinner.

A Rink-Comditty, a jovial appetizer, is a hearty way to begin. This recipe is as rare as its name.

Saute a small onion in two tablespoons of butter. Add a can of tomato soup, one-half pound of American cheese, two tablespoons butter and a little salt and pepper. Cook until cheese is melted, add a well-beaten egg and serve on crackers and toast.

STUFFED FLANK STEAK is a kingly dish, and the males of the family will be sure to pay homage to it. Use one flank steak, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sage, two tablespoons onion, grated; one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one cupful soft bread crumbs, one-fourth cupful melted butter.

Mix the crumbs, salt, pepper, sage and onion with the melted butter. Place this dressing in the center of the steak, roll and tie up in shape. Dredge with flour, place a few strips of bacon over the top and place in a moderately hot oven. Baste several times. Serve with brown gravy to which a few mushrooms have been added.

YOU do know how to prepare the baked potatoes, the tomatoes and slaw, don't you? But have you tried this method of preparing blueberry pie?

Use one quart blackberries, one cupful sugar, one and one-half tablespoonsful cornstarch or one and one-half tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca and two tablespoons cold water.

Line a pie-plate with uncooked pastry, fill with the washed raw berries; mix the cornstarch or the quick-cooking tapioca with the sugar, and sprinkle the mixture over the fruit. Add the cold water, and cover with the top crust, sealing the edges firmly. Bake for about 40 minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees.

LEMON PUDDING

DOES a lemon cream pudding sound good to you? I've just had more than my share of it—and considering the speed with which I can accumulate poundage, it was a very rash thing for me to commit myself to more than one helping! —and I do honestly think it is one of the best puddings I've ever tasted.

In this pudding, the eggs engagingly separate and form a custard in the bottom of the dish, and almost a sponge on top. Just try it!

You'll need the juice and grated rind of two medium sized lemons, one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of flour, three eggs, one cup of milk, and a pinch of salt. If the eggs are small, I'd use four.

MIX the sugar with the strained lemon juice, then blend in the tablespoon of flour. Add the beaten egg yolks, then the milk, then the egg whites, beaten stiff. Lastly add the pinch of salt, and mix all the ingredients thoroughly.

Pour into a buttered baking dish, set the dish in a pan of warm water —only warm water, remember, not boiling—and bake in a very slow oven for about an hour.

Be careful that your oven is not too hot; have it about 300 degrees F. The pudding must not be overcooked, either. If there is anything that tastes more like a piece of unyielding rubber than an overcooked pudding, I don't know what it is! And this lemon cream pudding of ours is a decided delicacy.

Serve the pudding hot, if you like, though I liked it best cold. It is particularly appetizing served in dainty sherbet glasses, and the recipe I have given you will make six generous servings. They'll have to be generous, too, for I feel positive you'll like it just as much as I did!

FOOD FOR CHILDREN

WHEN a baby is about a year old, he can begin to hold his cup and spoon; to be sure, he will clutch the spoon with a deadly grip, without the slightest regard to the usual prescribed manner of holding a spoon, and the cup will be entirely surrounded by two tiny hands, only until such time as it slips from those little hands.

I earnestly prescribe unbreakable table-ware for the one-year-old.

Encourage the little one to help himself—even at one year, he isn't a bit too young to learn. If the child is healthy, his appetite will be good, though an occasional meal refused need not occasion any alarm.

I KNOW perfectly well that where one child will eat everything that is offered him, consume a fine, dietetically correct breakfast, dinner and supper, and then assure you that he is perishing of hunger in between meals, another child will have a distinctly temperamental appetite. I have two little nephews, one 3, the other 5; the 3-year-old simply cannot get enough to eat.

He ought to look like the world's fattest child, considering the amount of food he consumes, though, fortunately, he just looks like a rosy, plump young cherub!

But the 5-year-old boy has a most fastidious appetite. Certain foods just don't seem to agree with him, and I do not believe in forcing a thoroughly disliked food on any child. I can't think that it does a bit of good, and certainly the struggle that it entails is as nerve-racking to the mother as it is to the child!

MARK you, I don't for a moment counsel giving into the whims of a child—that only helps to sow the seeds of disobedience and rebellion. But there are so many foods that a child will like, that it does seem a useless as well as a distressing task to force a disliked food on him.

Children imitate grown-ups in their habits of eating. Be careful!

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

not to make your child finicky by letting him know that you do not like this or that food, or that it does not agree with you—and remember that words are not the only way by which dislike may be shown. A child understands a look quite as well as a word!

APPLE PANCAKES—Mix and sift 3 cups flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and 2½ tablespoons sugar. Beat 2 egg yokes until light and add 2¼ cups milk and stir into the flour. Add 2 tablespoons melted butter and 1 finely chopped tart apple. Fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on a hot griddle.

SANDWICH LOAF—Remove the crusts from a pullman loaf. Cut in fine slices lengthwise. Put slices together with cream cheese beaten smooth with cream and salad dressing. Season each layer differently, if desired. Cover top and sides with beaten cream cheese and garnish with shreds of green pepper. Arrange on serving platter and slice at the table.

STUFFED PEPPER SALAD—Four halves canned pears, 4 tablespoons cream cheese, 4 tablespoons nut meats, 1 tablespoon candied cherries. Chop the cherries and nuts, mix with the cheese, shape into balls and place one ball at the hollowed out core of each half pear. Lay the pears on well curled lettuce and serve with French dressing.

Large green sweet peppers have steadily grown into favor as a fresh vegetable. Lively in color and piquant of flavor, they serve many purposes. Being especially delicious stuffed, they afford an ideal method of using leftover meat.

ROAST DUCK—Duck should not be old. Time for roasting is 12 to 15 minutes to the pound. Since ducks are fat, it is better to set them on a rack in the roasting pan. As soon as the fat in the pan forms it should be drained off. Use hot water for basting. Do not dredge with flour, as it will brown well enough without it. Bacon slices over the top will improve the flavor. The stuffing should be sage and onion forcement in fruit forcement, especially prunes and apples. Stewed celery and mashed potatoes, well seasoned, make a good stuffing.

CHEESE SANDWICHES—Cream 1 cup of sharp cheese, and add 1 beaten egg, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon salt and a little paprika, and beat until creamy and smooth. Cut the bread in rounds about ⅛ inch thick. Spread with the cheese and place 1 slice of bacon on each round of bread. Place in a hot oven and cook until bacon is crisp. Serve immediately with a green salad.

LIVER AND BACON—Cut 1½ pounds calf's or lamb's liver in ¼-inch slices. Wash in cold water, scald in boiling water for five minutes and dry. Cut ¼ pound bacon in thin slices, place in hot frying pan and turn constantly until crisp, but not too brown. Remove from pan and fry for 10 minutes at a lower heat, turning the liver frequently.

Place liver in center of platter and garnish with bacon. Put 1 tablespoon flour in the hot fat in pan and stir until brown. Add water to make a medium sauce, and season with salt and pepper. Pour this gravy over the liver and bacon.

WATERCRESS—There are some foods that look so attractive that they stimulate the appetite. Watercress is one of those foods. It looks fresh and inviting, as if it were absolutely unaffected by temperature.

This tiny green makes its presence felt in sandwich fillings and salads. It adds a piquant taste and a lovely bit of color. Whether you use it for sandwiches or salads, it must we washed in several waters, picked over and examined carefully for wilted leaves. If you intend to keep it for awhile, put it in a bowl, with an inch or two of water, until you're ready to use it.

Watercress and tomatoes are particular affinities ,and you know how pretty deep green and deep red look together. You can have sliced or whole skinned tomatoes on a bed of well-cleaned watercress.

JELLIED MEAT SALAD—A jellied meat salad is another substantial summer dish, and one that can come icily from the refrigerator to the table. To prepare it, soak two tablespoons of gelatine in a quarter cup of cold water, and dissolve it in two cups of well seasoned hot stock.

Coat small individual cold molds by pouring in two or three tablespoons of the cooling gelatine mixture. Turn and tip the mold to spread the jelly all over the bottom and sides of it; let stand until firm, and then repeat until the bottom and sides of the mold are well coated. Arrange thin strips of pimentoes, sliced rings of green pepper, and a half cup of cucumber slices to decorate the mold, pressing them into the aspic as it begins to jell. Now combine the follow: Two cups of cooked, cubed lamb or veal, a cup of dried celery, a teaspoon of minced onion, a half cup of fresh cooked green peas, salt and paprika to taste, a tablespoon of minced parsley, and a cup of mayonnaise. Pour into the mold and chill. Serve the jellied meat salad on a bed of crisp watercress.

ONION SOUP—Onion soup with cheese makes an excellent foundation for a summer dinner, and if followed by a fresh fruit or vegetable salad, little more is needed at this time of the year. For the soup, use one pound onions, three tablespoons shortening, four cups meat stock, or four cups water with stock flavoring (two boullon cubes or two teaspoons stock paste), one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, toast or French bread, grated Parmesan or Swiss cheese.

Peel and slice the onions. Cook in hot shortening until brown. Add stock and cook very slowly about one-half hour, or until onions are tender. Season with salt and pepper. Serve in deep soup bowls with a slice of toast of hard French bread, sprinkled with grated cheese on top. Serve extra cheese with the soup, if you like.

SODA WATER—Boil 4½ cups sugar with 2 cups fruit juice and 1¾ ounces tartaric acid five minutes. When nearly cold beat in 3 egg whites, beaten until frothy, and ⅛ ounce ginger extract. Seal in sterilized jar. When ready to use fill glasses half full of cold water, add 3 tablespoons of the syrup and strain 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Drink immediately.

FIFTEEN MINUTE CABBAGE—For quick cabbage, use five tablespoons shortening, six cups finely shredded cabbage, one-half cup milk or cream, one tablespoon sugar, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon paprika.

Melt shortening and fry cabbage in it slowly 10 to 15 minutes. Mix milk or cream, sugar, mustard and salt together and add to cabbage. Mix well and heat thoroughly.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE—Scald one cup milk, 6 tablespoons grated bitter chocolate and ½ cup confectioners' sugar to almost the boiling point. Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water and add to hot mixture. When cool and slightly thickened, flavor with 1 teaspoon powdered cinnamon and 1 tablespoon vanilla. Fold in 2½ cups cream, whipped. Turn into mold, cover tightly and pack in salt and ice until hardened.

* * *

JUNE PUREE—Press cooked or canned peas through a sieve. To one up of puree, add 1 cup thick cream sauce. Season with salt, pepper and a few drops onion juice. Add quarter cup new cooked green peas and quarter cup cooked carrots cut in long narrow strips Serve hot with a teaspoon of whipped cream in each cup.

SHRIMP SALAD—Dice 1 pint of cooked shrimp and sprinkle with 2 or 3 tablespoons French dressing. Drain and add ¾ cup minced celery and ¼ cup chopped stuffed olives. Mix with cooked or mayonnaise dressing. Place on a bed of crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with stuffed olives and celery curls.

DEVILED EGGS—Four hard cooked eggs; 2 teaspoons vinegar; ¼ teaspoon mustard; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; melted butter to moisten.

Cut har cooked eggs in half lengthwise, remove yolks and mash with remaining ingredients. Refill whites and garnish with paprika.

SARATOGA CHIPS—Peel potatoes. Slice very thin with potato slicer. Soak in cold water for 1½ hours. Dry with cloth to remove all moisture. Put into a frying basket and fry in deep fat to light brown. Drain on brown paper. Salt.

* * *

QUICK FROSTING—Mix together 1 cup of confectioner's sugar, four tablespoons of cocoa and moisten with a little cream to a nice spreading consistency. The cream should be added one teaspoon at a time as it is easy to get too much. Nut meats may be stuck in the icing.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A DISTINCTIVE MODEL FOR WOMEN OF MATURE FIGURE WITH SLENDER HIPS.

Flat crepe in a new shade of brown is here combined with tan crepe. Black crepe may be combined with white. Light weight woolens or moire is also suggested for this pleasing style. The fronts are made with a vestee set into the wedge-shaped opening. Tiny tucks lend fulness at the shoulders. A plaited skirt portion lengthens the front. The back is in one piece.

The pattern for this dress is cut in eight sizes: 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52 inches bust measure, with corresponding slender hip measurements. To make the dress for a 46-inch size will require 4⅞ yards of 39-inch material. For the vestee and tie of contrasting material as pictured in the large view, ⅝ yard 39 inches wide and cut crosswise will be required. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plait fulness extended is 2¼ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A Worthy Campaign.

And Where They Belong.

The New 10 Per Center.
Dog Racing Distances.
Hornsby Makes the Cubs.

PITTSBURGH'S HOCKEY SITUATION

THERE comes to hand a letter from a reader after my own heart. Read it and weep, or extend your congratulations, according to the manner in which it touches your heartstrings:

"Dear Sir: I suppose you receive a lot of letters with regard to the Pittsburgh Baseball Club from fans, telling why Manager Donie Bush is not getting the best results and how to correct conditions. I am a fan, but I am not going to say a word about the team or its manager, but I do want to protest vigorously about some of the patrons who park in the grandstand and do not know how to conduct themselves, spreading themselves out in lazy fashion and constantly jamming their feet through the seats in front of them and into the backs of the fans sitting there. I attend many games in a season and most of the time I am bothered by pests whose main ambition in life appears to be to shove my spine out of place.

"I contend that there is no greater nuisance than the seat hog who sits behind you and tries to steal your seat for a parking place for his feet. Why not institute a campaign to make them keep their feet to themselves? It is very annoying and embarrassing to have to divert your attention from the game to bawl them out for not having better manners and risk getting a sock on the jaw for asserting your rights."

I SAY that here is a man after my own heart because I, too, have been up against the same problem that he complains about. Indeed, not long ago, I was goaded to the point of having to eject a young man from a moving picture theater for trying to put his feet through the back of my chair, for doing which I was arrested for "disorderly conduct," but happily exonerated by the good and understanding Judge Brandon in Morals Court.

By all means, let us institute this campaign for keeping the feet where they belong, which is pounding a sidewalk if they can't behave themselves.

THE mysterious "Walter Cobb," the heavyweight who blew into Baltimore recently and startled the natives by handing Marty Gallagher a lacing and now is matched to box Johnny Grosso, of New York, there next Monday night, finally has been exposed as none other than Walter Rich, a Western boxer of note. He had some trouble with his manager and took it on the lamb for the East to make a new start.

JACK WELLS, the heavyweight, of Wellsburg, W. Va., who has passed into the hands of James (Red) Mason, is now one of those 10 per cent fighters we hear so much about. Abie Witz sold his equity in the big fellow to a syndicate headed by Mason. Red will cut him for 10 per cent of his earnings, Mickey McManus, of Wheeling, his original manager, will get another 10 per cent, and Jess Levy, who bought him, along with Witz, from McManus, is in for an additional 10 per cent. Jess put up the dough to buy out Witz and Mason will earn his bit by handling Wells.

ABIE took his profit on the deal and pulled out because he has a couple of other heavyweight prospects. One of them is a young farmer measuring 6 feet 4 inches and weighing about 260 pounds. The other fellow is little more than a light-heavyweight. In addition, Abie is managing Johnny Smackey, 133 pounds; Young Jacobs, 118; Johnny Turk, 126, and Joe Malone, 140, and will take over Joe Corelli, the welterweight, as well.

A fellow who has been coming right along lately, adding a knockout punch to his boxing repertoire, is Mike Ray's clever Negro welterweight, Jackie Murray, who has stopped Freddie Boylstein and Joe Schlund in his last two starts. He wants to meet Tiger Joe Randall and the other headliners.

SPEAKING of fellows for Max Schmeling to fight if he doesn't want any part of Philip Scott, the English Accordion (you know, he sort of folds up in the ring), why not let him try his hand with Victorio Campolo, the new Wild Bool of the Pampas. Campolo's correct first name, by the bye, is Victorio and not Vittorio, as it has been broadcast. He has had visiting cards printed to set the scribes and others straight and they read "Victorio Mario Campolo." He ought to be a dancing master with a calling card like that.

WHEN you mention tough football schedules for the impending season, how about Ohio State's? Sam Willaman, a former Bucheye star, succeeds Dr. Wilce at Columbus this fall and they've given him a nice make-or-break program to start out with. All he has to beat are Wittenberg, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, Pitt, Northwestern, Kenyon and Illinois.

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY, of Philadelphia, which has been making rapid strikes in football the last few seasons, will have two Pittsburgh district lads on its squad this fall. They are John Irwin, of Irwin, an end, and Frank McKosky, of Monessen, a guard.

Mike K[illegible], manager of the Minneapolis Club, of the American Association [illegible] regarded as one of the smartest men in baseball, once turned Babe Herman back to the Robins with the crack that he couldn't [illegible] anything right and was only in the way out there. Now the Babe is the leading hitter in the National League and doesn't require a mask and shin guards any longer in patrolling the outfield and is the star of the Brooklyn club. Just another bum guess gone wrong.

A LOT of the dog-racing fans who have attended the meet at the Bridgeville track opine that the races should be run over longer distances to obviate the many close finishes, which tend to cause considerable disagreement over the decisions of the judges in placing the animals. The track is a quarter-mile affair and the races range in distance from three-sixteenths to five-sixteenths of a mile, no

ENGLISH STAR VICTIM OF U. S. VET

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(A.P.)—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory startled the tennis world yesterday and swept England's Betty Nuthall into defeat by the decisive scores of 6-3, 6-3 in the quarter-final round of the national women's tennis championship.

An overwhelming favorite before the match, Bounding Betty, the 18-year-old sensation, whose booming drives caused all kinds of trouble for Helen Wills in the Wightman Cup series a week ago, found herself beaten at her own deep-driving game by this marvelous Norwegian veteran, a woman more than twice her age.

Dashing around the court with the agility of a schoolgirl, Mrs. Mallory generally had the upper hand in the long interchanges that held the gallery of nearly 4,000 enthralled from the moment it appeared that the seven-times champion might win.

STROKES STEADIER

Her strokes were steadier, off forehand and backhand; her shots better placed and more sharply angled, and a remarkable sense of anticipation born of more than 15 years' experience in international play enabled her to guess the direction of Betty's shots and be on hand to send them spinning back.

As a result of Mrs. Mallory's surprising victory, the anticipated return match between Miss Wills and her principal English challenger for world honors will not take place in this tournament.

Instead, Mrs. Mallory and Queen Helen will fight it out in one of the semi-finals today, while in the other America's second ranking star, Helen Jacobs, will come to grips with the sole surviving English contender, Mrs. Phoebe Watson.

Miss Wills crushed Mrs. Peggy Saunders Michell, another of England's Wightman Cup players, in two quick sets 6-0, 6-1. Helen Jacobs easily defeated Young Mary Greef of Kansas City, 6-3, 6-3, and the slender, dark-haired Mrs. Watson came from behind to beat out Edith Cross, of San Francisco, third in the National women's ranking, by scores of 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Greef, the 18-year-old player who eliminated Sarah Palfrey, showed signs of nervousness at the start of her match with Miss Jacobs, dropping the first four games. She improved thereafter, but never enough to threaten.

REGAINS CONTROL

Mrs. Watson's usual control was lacking in the first set of her match, but it put in an appearance in the second set, her stinging drives carrying her to even terms. In the final set, the English player broke through service in the seventh game and then reeled off two more for the match.

British players dominated the doubles play, in the quarter-final matches, Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Michell, English champions, downed the Massachusetts team of Mrs. Hazel Wightman and Mrs. Marjorie Morrill, 6-3, 6-3. Mrs. Phillips Covell and Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron renewed the threat of an all-British final by crushing Mrs. Charlotte Chapin and Midge Gladman, 6-0, 6-1, and the Anglo-American combination of Betty Nuthall and Helen Jacobs triumphed over the hard-fighting Palfrey sisters, Sarah and Mianne, 6-3, 8-6.

The only surviving team that is 100 per cent American, Mrs. Anna Harper and Edith Cross, the San Franciscoans, was forced to three sets by Margaret Blake and Mrs. Anna Hubbard, Boston 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

RACES AT BRIDGEVILLE

Pittsburgh auto race fans again will have a chance to see their favorite sport on Labor Day afternoon when a series of sprint races will be staged at the Bridgeville Board Speedway in connection with a thrill program known as a Congress of Daredevils. The races are being staged under the rules of the A. A. A. and is managed by B. Ward Beam, who put on two of the most successful auto events the city has ever had. Twelve events are scheduled on the afternoon's program. Many are claimed to be the greatest thrillers of the country, and several are of a humorous nature.

ARMOUR COPS WESTERN OPEN MEDAL

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Tommy Armour, dark-skinned little Scot from the Tam O'Shanter Club, of Orchard Lake, Mich., whipped out his magic irons and defeated the largest and most brilliant field in the history of the Western open golf championship for medalist honors yesterday.

Armour whizzed around the Ozaukee Country Club course in 65 strokes, five under par, to nail the medal. One stroke behind him was Norton Smith, the sensational young professional from Joplin, Mo., while Gene Sarazen, former National open champion, from Flushing, L. I., and Dick Nelson, a rank outsider, from Indianapolis, came next with 68's.

One hundred and seventy entrants, whose scores ranged from 80 to downwards, qualified for the second 18-hole round of the 72-hole scramble for the championship.

One of the surprising features of the day was the showing of George Sargeant, of Columbus, who held the National open championship in 1909. The veteran Ohioan turned in a card of 36-36-71, to laud among the low scorers.

Wild Bill Melhorn, who was a doubtful starter up until the last hour, and Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, another former National open champion, scored 71. Most of the other favorites turned in good scores, among whom were Densmore Schutte, Canton, O., 73; Al Espinosa, Chicago, 74; Emmett French, Youngstown, O., 75, and Abe Aspinosa, Chicago, present title holder, who got a 75.

The champion is conceded only a slight chance to retain his title.

GRIMES READY TO RETURN TOMORROW

Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Burleigh Grimes is over his little sick spell of yesterday and he said he would take a workout today to be ready to face the Giants tomorrow. Grimes was hurt on the Polo Grounds almost five weeks ago when a drive from Bill Terry's bat crashed against his pitching hand. In that space of time the Pirates have done plenty of skidding.

Grimes was winning on an average of almost two games a week. He might have at least six or seven more games had he not been a victim of the injury.

Add these games to the number that Traynor and Grantham could have turned and the total would not be far from the size of the gap that separate the Buccos from the Bears.

Jess Petty is pitching his best ball of the season. He has won three out of four starts on the trip and has not been charged with a defeat. Jess tamed his former Brooklyn pals, although he was given some help near the finish. He pitched a masterly game to blank the Braves, but the Quakers shelled him off the hill. He was too good for the men of McGraw yesterday.

Travis Jackson had a bad day in the opener with the Pirates, but he remains the favorite short fielder of the sport. Jackson's second error was the result of a quick toss to Cohen in an effort to start a double play which would have prevented a run. It was one of those "you do or you don't" affairs, and the winning player is not afraid of taking chances.

The Giants are six full games behind the Pirates and thoroughly eliminated from all flag reckoning. They carry on, too, in a manner that indicates all flag hopes have vanished. There is little of that dash that marks the play of the average McGraw club.

The Giants are an enigma club. Their roster is dotted with stars, yet they cannot seem to function properly.

However, it is altogether likely that the seat of the trouble will be found in the pitching division. Benton is having a so-so year, while Fitzsimmons, Genewich, Hubbell and others are not making any new slab records.

Willie Davies Signed for Pino Go

NEW BRIGHTON, Aug. 23.—The Junction City Amusement Company announced a star attraction here last night for its next fight show Thursday, September 5, when Willie Davies, of Charleroi, meets Genaro Pino, Cuban champ.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants enjoyed a day of rest here today, the second game of their four-game series at the Polo Grounds this afternoon being called off on account of rain.

The two teams will clash in a double-header tomorrow afternoon and will wind up their series on Sunday with a single contest.

GIVES SIX HITS

Petty held the men of McGraw to six hits yesterday as the Pirates broke their defeat streak with a 6-to-2 victory over the Giants. The Silver Fox was in a beautiful stride, and except for a questionable decision at third base in the sixth, might have had a shutout. He won anyhow, and after all, that is the big thing.

George Grantham was out of action yesterday, partly on account of his bad physical condition and partly because Dutch Henry, a left hander, was on the mound. Sparky Adams went to the short field and Dick Bartell moved to second where he continued to shine.

The Giants made four errors to help out the Buccos. In the first round Chick Fullis made a double misplay on Comorosky's hit, the two-ply mistake coming after Travis Jackson had unforked a wild throw on Bartell's single. The round produced two runs. The Pirates picked up another run in the third. In this inning Travis Jackson made a bad toss with runners on third and first with one out. The star was trying for a doubtful double play when he threw wide to Cohen.

POOR DECISION

Singles by Bartell and L. Waner and P. Waner's infield out added another to the Pittsburgh string in the fifth. Fullis started the sixth for the Giants with an infield hit. Roush singled to center and Fullis headed for third. The whole Pittsburgh team thought that L. Waner and Traynor snuffed out Fullis, but Umpire Rigler ruled otherwise to start a tumultuous scene. Lindstrom's singles and two sacrifice flies produced the only two runs made by the home boys.

With Joe Genewich working in the eighth, the Pirates collected a safety tally and one more in the ninth. P. Waner opened the eighth with a walk and he advanced on Traynor's out. Comorosky whistled a single to right and Adams singled to left, sending Sheely to third. Earl scored on Petty's out.

Tolson Heads East To Report to Cubs

SEATTLE, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Boarding an eastbound train here, Charles Tolson, heavy-hitting first baseman of the Los Angeles Coast League team, today was on his way to join the Chicago Cubs.

Tolson will replace Charley Grimm, regular first sacker of the National League leaders, whose hand was injured Wednesday.

In exchange for Tolson the Angels received Pitcher Berlyn Horne and a sum reported in the neighborhood of $25,000.

With Burleigh Grimes, the Pirates' star, forced out by injuries, Guy Bush, slender pitching ace of the Chicago Cubs, leads the National League moundsmen with a record of 17 victories and three defeats for the season to date, and he is expected to prove quite a puzzle to the slugging Athletics in the world series.

VAN RYN PUTS OUT AUSTIN AT NEWPORT

ENGLISH STAR BEATEN BY U. S. ACE

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—An all-American climax to the thirteenth annual Newport Casino invitation tennis tournament was assured yesterday when Johnny Van Ryn, member of the victorious American Davis Cup doubles team, out-steadied Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, of England, the last survivor on the foreign list, in an extra set quarter-finals match by scores of 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, another U. S. Davis Cup player, gained the other semi-final bracket in Van Ryn's half of the draw by downing Berkely Bell, Dallas, Tex., national intercollegiate titleholder, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-8, 6-2. The others to reach the second last round were Big Bill Tilden and his youthful protege, W. F. Coen, Jr., of Kansas City.

Tilden advanced by evening his score with Fritz Mercur, of Harrisburg, Pa., who defeated him last year at Rye, N. Y. His scores were 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

DIRICOU OUT

Coen opened the fourth day's play by gaining the only straight set victory in the quarter-finals singles round. He defeated Paul Dirucou, young French player, who came here with the Oxford-Cambridge team, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4.

The only unexpected ending of the day came in the doubles play when Philip Neer, of Portland, Ore., and Bruce Barnes, of Austin, Tex., were defeated by J. B. Fenno, of Boston, and E. W. Feibleman, of NewYork, 9-7, 6-4, 6-3, in their quarter finals match.

The Neer-Barnes team, conquerors of John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, the world champion doubles pair, was expected to survive until the final.

The other pairs to advance were Tilden and Frank Hunter, Lott and Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., and Mercur and J. Gilbert Hall, of New York.

WILLIAMS BEATEN

Tilden and Hunter won the right to clash with Lott and Doeg in the semi-finals by eliminating R. N. Williams II, of Philadelphia, and Dr. George King, of New York, by scores of 7-5, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2. Lott and Doeg defeated Guy Cooper and Paul Diricou, the Anglo-French team, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, and Mercur and Hall gained their second last doubles bracket by taking three straight sets from Frank X. Shields, of Orange, N. J., and Donald Strachan, of Philadelphia, 10-8, 6-2, 7-5.

BUCS REPORTED ON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A wholesale shift in major league baseball stars this winter is in store for the fans, according to rumors prevalent in local baseball circles.

Among the noted major league performers slated to play elsewhere next season are Dazzy Vance, of the Robins; Jim Bottomley and Frankie Frisch, of the Cardinals; Paul Waner, Earl Sheely, Sparky Adams, Carmen Hill and Fred Fussell, of the Pirates; Bob Meusel and Mark Koenig, of the Yankees; Hughey Critz and Pete Donohue, of the Reds; Bill Cissell, of the White Sox; Howard Ehmke, of the Athletics, and Goose Goslin, of the Senators.

The failure of many of the major league clubs to draw this season is believed responsible for the decision to reduce their payrolls by cutting off the high-salaried performers.

Judging from reports in various big league cities, this winter will be productive of numerous important transactions. With the majority of the owners reporting losses at the gate, there likely will be a big reduction in payrolls by many of the clubs.

POLO SERIES RESUMED

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—The Oakbrook-Dupage and Midwick polo teams clash today in a semi-final match for the honor of meeting the Fort Leavenworth four Sunday in the final of the United States 12-goal championship. Fort Leavenworth advanced to the finals yesterday by defeating the team representing Fort Benning, Ga., 13 to 5.

MISS CARSPECKEN WINS

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Miss Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, won two titles at the Western Maryland open tennis tournament held at Mountain Lake Park.

B. FONTAINE IS VICTOR

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 23.—Fontaine, Philadelphia, won the preliminary Grand American Handicap here yesterday with a brilliant score of 99 out of 100 from the 21 yard line. Scores of Pittsburgh shooters follow: J. E. Wassel, 20 yards, 92. W. Carskaden, 22 yards 84; F. Nearville, 18 yards, 96.

L. Ludwig, St. Benedict, Ia., was second with 98. W. S. Bowman, Danville, Ill., and E. L. Johnson, Chicago, tied for third with 97.

Mrs. Norman Pillot, Houston, Tex., took the women's preliminary with a score of 96. Eunice Haggard, Winchester, Ky., was second with 94.

Butler, Waynesburg Races Postponed

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 23.—Rain spoiled the track for racing at the second day of the Butler county fair, and the program was postponed to today. The entire program of eight events will be raced this afternoon beginning at 12 o'clock.

The program: 2:20 trot; 2:18 pace; 3-year-old trot; 3-year-old pace; 2:24 pace, two divisions; 2-year-old trot or pace.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Ten thousand people gathered on the Waynesburg Fair Grounds yesterday to be disappointed because of rain which began to fall soon after noon which resulted in the postponement of the races. The three races will be run this afternoon. They are the 2:24 pace, purse $800; the 2:24 trot, purse, $800, and the 2:18 pace, purse, $400.

CINCY 'ARMS' FOR CUBS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23.—(INS.)—Recalling the prediction of Manager Jack Hendricks, of the Cincinnati Reds, that there would be "something doing" when the Chicago Cubs come to Cincinnati, President C. J. McDiarmid, of the local club, today engaged 52 extra police for next Sunday's doubleheader.

The extra guards, including 32 members of the city force and 20 private policemen hired to augment the regular park complement, will hover about the players' dugouts.

Feeling between the Cubs and the Reds, never any too cordial in recent years, became particularly bitter as a result of the fistic encounters in which Outfielder Hack Wilson, of the Cubs, and Pitcher Ray Kolp and Pete Donahue, of Cincinnati, figured in the last series in Chicago between the two clubs.

Special trains will bring thousands of Cub rooters here. Louisville fans have reserved a block of 1,200 seats behind the Cub bench to cheer the team of Joe McCarthy, former Louisville manager.

So great is the demand for seats that the gates will be opened at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. There are 15,000 unreserved seats for early comers.

HELLER COPS MEDAL

GREENSBURG, Aug. 23.—Lawrence G. Heller today won the qualifying round in the Westmoreland County amateur golf tournament by turning in a card of 71, one over par. Over the sun-baked course of the Greensburg Country Club, Heller is one of the favorites to win the championship.

His total was three strokes better than that of S. A. Carson, Jr., and James F. Lutterell, club champion, who took 75. Other low scores were: W. F. Marks, Kiski, 76; James W. Crookston, former state amateur champion, 76, and Denny St. Clair, Western Pennsylvania junior title holder, 77.

National Public Net Play Near Finale

BUFFALO, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Play in the National public parks tennis championship reached the semi-final round in matches completed yesterday on the Delaware Park courts. The semi-finals will be played today followed by the finals tomorrow afternoon.

In the singles semi-final, George J. Jennings, Jr., the flashy Chicago player, who is defending his title, will oppose Robert B. Considine, of Washington, D. C., while Jack Delara, Los Angeles, meets Jack G. Castle, Buffalo veteran.

In quarter-final singles matches, Robert Considine, Washington, defeating Harold Dartel, Cleveland champion, by scores of 2-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3. Jack Castle, Buffalo, defeated Robert Hall, Louisville 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. Jack Delara, Los Angeles, eliminated Louis J. Kurkland, Baltimore, in straight sets 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

MRS. CURRY, MRS. BLAIR BATTLE FOR TITLE

MISS BEJACH DETHRONED IN SEMI-FINAL

BULLETIN.

Mrs. Margaret Curry and Miss Eva Blair were all even at the end of 18 holes of their 36-hole match for the women's city golf championship at the Schenley Park municipal course today.

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The battle to determine the new champion of the city among women golfers started this morning when Mrs. Margaret Curry and Mrs. Eva Blair set out on their 36-hole match play round, with John Jay Burke, former U. S. G. A. public links section executive committeeman, in tow as referee. They were well matched, if indications of their relative play in the preliminary contests may be taken as a criterion. Eighteen holes this morning, and another this afternoon will be a stiff enough test for each one of the finalists, and the one who does win will certainly be worthy of the honor.

Yesterday's semi-final round matches were full of upsets, the outstanding one being the dethroning of the defending champion, Miss E. Lucille Bejach, who is considered the No. 1 ranking golfer at the Schenley links.

POOR SPORTSMANSHIP

Miss Bejach fell before a powerful-playing opponent, Mrs. Curry, who won by a margin of 1 up, on the nineteenth hole. And while a great deal of honor is due Mrs. Curry, let it not be forgotten that poor etiquet of the game was observed by the gallery, persons in which appeared to take a delight in passing profane and unnecessary remarks during the time of action, walking in front of the line of play, et cetera.

To be sure Mrs. Curry won her honor without one iota of an alibi on the part of Miss Bejach—but members of that semi-final gallery and particularly the stray caddies therein—should be ruled forever from a golf course, or at least until they learn the real object of the game of golf.

In the other semi-final battle, Mrs. Blair had a fine match with Mrs. C. C. Briggs who fell, 4 and 2, despite the fact she put up a great battle.

SCORES 79

Mrs. Blair was out in 42 against a 44, and came home in a splendid 37, finishing out the round after the match was finished. There are few women golfers in Western Pennsylvania who can shoot a 79 on any course, public or private, and for that reason, take a glimpse at her card:

Out 456 544 545
In ..... 355 444 444—37-78

Yesterday's results follow:

First Sixteen
Mrs. Margaret Curry defeated Miss E. Lucille Bejach, 1 up, 19 holes; Mrs. Eva Blair defeated Mrs. C. C. Briggs, 4 and 2.

Second Sixteen
Miss Ella Mulcahy defeated Miss Thelma Gangloff, 4 and 2; Miss K. McLaughlin defeated Mrs. E. Davis, 4 and 3.

First Consolation
Mrs. Carrie Josephson defeated Mrs. Hazel Broido, 7 and 6; Mrs. O. L. Long defeated Mrs. Larry Jacobs, 4 and 3.

Second Consolation
Miss Mary Roach defeated Mrs. William Little, 5 and 4; Mrs. B. R. Lattimer defeated Mrs. E. L. Donald, by default.

Long Grass Eight
Final—Mrs. J. A. Powell defeated Mrs. G. Monroe, by default.

DEMARCO WINS ON FOUL

Tiger Joe Randall, slugging little Elizabeth Negro, hung a knockout wallop on the jaw of Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, at the end of the second round of their main bout at Cycler Park, McKeesport, last night, but lost to the Italian on a foul. It all came about when Randall socked DeMarco with a hard right just after the bell rang ending the second session.

Randall floored DeMarco with a short right to the jaw just before the second round ended. Cuddy took the count of one while resting on his knee and as the bell rang he arose, groggy, and started to stagger toward his corner. Randall, undoubtedly over-anxious to score a knockout, did not hear the bell; in fact, very few of the record-breaking crowd knew that the round had ended.

As DeMarco headed for his corner, Randall sprang toward him like a tiger and shot another right to the Italian's jaw and DeMarco went down with a crash and, to all appearances, out. The crowd broke loose in an uproar, some cheering a knockout victory for Randall, while others yelled "foul" at the top of their voices.

Havey J. Boyle, boxing commissioner, sitting at the ringside, lost little time in proclaiming DeMarco winner on a foul, the only fair decision that could have been made.

Until Randall landed the punch after the bell, he had a slight shade over DeMarco. During the first round, there was very little fighting, but all of the clean blows that were landed were felt by DeMarco.

DeMarco, weighing 148¾, appeared slow. Randall scaled 144.

In the semi-final bout of eight rounds, Battling Gizzy, the Donora windmill, won all the way from Frankie Nanci, of Swissvale. Gizzy scored a knockdown in the first round for no count and another in the second, Nanci taking the count of eight. Each weighed 131¾.

Jimmy Belmont, rugged Braddock welterweight, won easily from Steve Pollock, of the South Side, in the six-round second bout. Belmont weighed 147¼, while Pollock came in at 154.

Thad Yarocz, of Monaca, scored his fifth knockout as a professional in the opener, when he flattened Jimmy McDuff, of Cleveland, in the second round.

Deal Is Medalist In Washington Event

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Jim Deal won medal honors in the club championship tournament at the Washington County Golf and Country Club. He had a card of 81. Dick Selbert, of Wheeling, who won the championship last year, and Dr. C. B. Pipes were tied for second place honors as to medal play, they having a score of 82.

HORNER NET VICTOR

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 23.—Defeating Gerald Sellers, 16, in the final by taking three straight sets, Ewing Horner, No. 2 man on the tennis team of Washington & Jefferson College last spring, again won the championship of the Connellsville Tennis Association. The scores were 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

MISS ETHEL HERTLE

Miss Hertle won the Wrigley Marathon swim for women at Toronto last year and is defending her title in the second annual event today. Miss Norelius, former Olympic star, now a professional, is one of the favored newcomers to the ranks of money swimmers.

Held 12-11 Victor Over F. Thompson

JASPER PARK, Alberta, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Eddie Held, of New York, favored to win the Canadian amateur golf championship, eliminated Frank Thompson, of Toronto, 12, and 11, in the third round of match play yesterday.

Two other United States players advanced to the semi-final round today. D. Clarke Corkran, of Philadelphia, conquered Jack Cuthbert of Edmonton, Alta., 4 and 3, and Gardiner White of New York, eliminated Fred Hoblitzel of Toronto, 1 up.

The fourth semi-finalist is Fred Wood, of Vancouver, who eliminated Gordon MacWilliams, of Calgary, 7 and 6.

W. Va. Shoe Pitchers Gain New Laurels

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Morgantown horseshoe flingers have been unusually active in their own city and state during the past season and now are reaching out for new honors. The local flingers added a Pennsylvania victory when they defeated the horseshoe team from Monaca, Pa., on the Star City courts. Clarence Lemasters and Paul Strothers, local barn-yard golfers extraordinary, starred.

Herman Holds Place at Top Of Big Six

Associated Press.

With Al Simmons and Chuck Klein still sojourning in the cool of the dugout, the four remaining members of the Big Six played into the hands of pitchers yesterday with the result that no batting average was lifted, while most of them descended. Babe Herman held his own at .409 by getting two out of five at Brooklyn, but Rogers Hornsby lost a point through getting two out of six at Baker Bowl. Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx had to be content with one safety apiece, and each lost a bit of ground, Ruth falling to last place behind the idle Klein. The standing:

CHARLES HOLDS WIN OVER ROUTIS

Gaston Charles, the French lightweight, who meets Tony Herrera, the Mexican star, of Chicago, in the 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night, holds a 15-round decision over Andre Routis, the present featherweight champion, scored in Paris.

He also has boxed many of the other stars of the ring, including Benny Bass, Pete Nebo, Red Chapman, Tony Canzoneri, Billy Petrolle, Eddie Anderson, Ignacio Fernandez and Al Singer. He knocked out Chapman in four rounds and was himself stopped recently by Singer in two rounds. Singer boxes Kid Chocolate in New York next week.

Charles has been boxing eight years and started in as a featherweight.

STAR CARD AT CHICAGO

Four 10-round bouts featuring title contenders make up an all-star card at Paddy Harmon's Chicago Stadium tonight. Eddie Shea and Earl Mastro fight the main event for the right to meet Andre Routis in a title bout. Rene DeVos and Johnny Burns, middleweights, box the semi-final. Joey Medill and Henry Perlick are in the second number and My Sullivan and Roxy Allen open the show.

Garfield Johnson, former local Negro light-heavyweight, now is fighting out of Chicago under the management of Henny Andrews.

Jim Bronson is the new manager of Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane heavyweight.

Osk Till and Lou Scozza are paired for Buffalo tonight, with Bobby Tracey and Freddie Mueller in a supporting bout.

SHOW AT NEW CASTLE

Ernie Peters, Chicago Indian, and Phil Tobias, Jewish flyweight, of Brooklyn, meet in the 10-round windup in the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night. Jack Hernandez, of Cuba, and Ray Van Hook, of Detroit, box the semi-final, and Romeo Pacelli, of New Castle, and Frankie Porto, of McKeesport, are in the other six-round bout. In the two fours, Elmo the Mighty meets Tom Farrow and Eddie Flick, of Oil City, opposes Young Hardy, of Beaver Falls.

Maxie Rosenbloom boxes Tiger Payne at Coney Island tonight. Al Bryant and Joey Abrams are in the semi-final. At the Rockaway Beach Club, Midget Wolgast meets Young Denico in the main bout and Black Bill tangles with Tommy Abobo in another flyweight tangle. Artie DeLuca boxes Marty Silvers and Nat Pincus meets Tony Pellegrino at Canarsie, L. I., and Jackie Cohen is down with Leo Dazzo at the Long Beach Stadium. Benny Bass boxes Charley Goodman and Al Friedman engages Bud Gorman at Long Branch, N. J.

How Cubs, Athletics Can Clinch Pennants

NATIONAL LEAGUE
GAMES TO PLAY

CUBS—41—With Pittsburgh, 6; with New York, 4; with St. Louis, 7; with Brooklyn, 4; with Cincinnatti, 11; with Philadelphia, 6; with Boston, 4.

PIRATES—40—With Chicago, 6; with New York, 7; with St. Louis, 7; with Brooklyn, 6; with Cincinnatti, 5; with Philadelphia, 3; with Boston, 5.

THEIR lead still 10½ games as a result of beating the Phils yesterday while the Pirates defeated the Giants, the Cubs need 31 victories out of their remaining 41 games to clinch the pennant. The Pirates could not pass them even if they won all of their remaining 40 games. The standing at the finish would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
CHICAGO	108	46	.701
PITTSBURGH	107	47	.695

SHOULD the Cubs hit a slump and win only 20 out of their remaining 41 games, the Pirates would have to win 31 out of 40 to finish in the front. The standing would be.

	W.	L.	Pct.
PITTSBURGH	98	56	.636
CHICAGO	97	57	.630

AMERICAN LEAGUE
GAMES TO PLAY

ATHLETICS — 35 — With New York, 7; with Cleveland, 4; with St. Louis, 4; with Detroit, 3; with Washington, 4; with Chicago, 7; with Boston, 6.

YANKEES—39—With Philadelphia, 7; with Cleveland, 5; with St. Louis, 7; with Detroit, 5; with Washington, 8; with Chicago, 4; with Boston, 5.

ALTHOUGH defeated by the White Sox yesterday, the Athletics gained ground. The Yanks, by losing to the Browns, reduced the number of wins needed by the A's to clinch the flag. The A's, 12 games in front, need 26 out of 36 games to take the flag. The Yanks could not pass them if they won all of their 39. The standing at the finish would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
PHILADELPHIA	109	45	.708
NEW YORK	108	46	.701

SHOULD the A's win only 18 out of their remaining 35 games, the Yankees would have to win 33 out of 39 to finish in the front. The standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
NEW YORK	102	52	.662
PHILADELPHIA	101	53	.656

(EVERY GAME THE PIRATES AND YANKEES LOSE FROM NOW UNTIL THE END OF THE SEASON MEANS ONE LESS VICTORY THE CUBS AND ATHLETICS WILL NEED TO CLINCH THE PENNANTS IN THEIR RESPECTIVE LEAGUES.)

KAUFFMANN HONORED

A colorful affair marked the banquet tendered by his friends and admirers to Carl F. Kauffmann, National public links champion for the last three years, held at the Schenley Park Golf Club last night. City and county alike were represented among the officials who gathered to pay the idol of the local free links tribute. John Jay Burke acted as master of ceremonies.

James F. Malone, president of city council; Director of Public Safety Edward G. Lang, Concilmen Robert Garland, William English, Harry Little, P. J. McArdle, John Herron and Daniel Winters, together with former-Mayor Diehl and Joseph Mackrell were among the honored guests.

Burke announced that the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce plans on giving a testimonial banquet, with a suitable prize to go with it, to the champion, at a date to be announced later.

The Schenley family, Ken Witherow, Al McBride, Charley Onoretta, Will Super, Andy Petrolia, Tom Keefe, Eddie Kunold and Burke worked hard to put over the affair, and it was a delightful success. Frank Maggio's orchestra provided the music.

Two tourneys are carded for Western Pennsylvania today. The Sons of the American Revolution is playing at the New Castle Field Club and the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is playing at the Butler Country Club.

It is said that Horton Smith and Walter Hagen will play an exhibition match against Pete O'Hara of Westmoreland and Dave McKay, home pro, at the Pittsburgh Field Club on Thursday, September 5, at 2:30 o'clock.

Dunn Easily Wins Over Homer Ronan

NEW BRIGHTON, Aug. 23.—Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, won by a wide margin over Homer Ronan, of Newark, in 10 rounds here last night. Ronan weighed 126 and Dunn a half less.

Young Guido, of Sharon, won the decision from Nordi Smith, of Newark, in the semi-final each at 152 pounds. Johnny Brown, of Pittsburgh won from Bob Collura, of Pittsburgh, in six rounds. Bus Hardy, of Beaver Falls, and Paul Balint, of Pittsburgh, battled to a draw, and in the curtain raiser Johnny Morgan, of Beaver Falls, scored a technical knockout over Willis Boggs, of New Brighton, in the fourth round.

Buffalo Is Legion Tourney Finalist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—A wide-awake nine from Buffalo yesterday won the American Legion junior baseball title from 23 other eastern states and the District of Columbia and will meet a team from the western half of the country at Louisville, Ky., early in September for the national championship.

Timely hitting and good fielding gave the Buffalo team a 6-to-4 victory over Lisbon Falls, Maine. The Maine entry was the third to fall before Buffalo, which defeated Uniontown, Pa., and Atlanta, Ga., on its way to the final round.

CIVICS, VERONA TO BATTLE SUNDAY

By TOM BIRKS.

The Stowe Civics will meet the Verona Community nine, winners of the West Penn League, at Reliance Field, on Sunday, and a battle with the Community aggregation, including Harry Powley, the Verona ace, should draw a record crowd to the Esplen grounds.

Powley, who has been signed by the New York Giants, probably will twirl the game, unless he works the Class A elimination on Saturday. Then he will play the outfield against the City Leaguers, and maybe show the Rox fans a sample of his hitting ability. This evening Stowe will meet the St. John's nine in a City League engagement.

Pleasant Valley trimmed the N. S. Civics last evening, and should the Dunsky outfit knock off the Reliance Life nine this evening, then the second half championship is in the bag. Jacoby pitched nice ball, and Bond was the only batsmen of the Civics to solve Lou's twirling.

W. O. W.'s victory over the Coslett's in the Central League practically gave the Rox outfit the second half pennant of the loop. Seeing that the Wows have won both the first and second half battles in the Central, and Verona has won both halves of the West Penn, a three-game series between the clubs should prove interesting, especially seeing that these two clubs missed each other in the Class A semi-finals.

The East Pittsburgh Firemen football squad will hold a practice session Monday evening at 7 o'clock. All of last season's players, and others wishing a tryout, should report at the Borough Building. Practice will be held at the Quarry grounds.

Spence Is New National Champion

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—A new national swimming champion in the 100-meter free style was crowned last night when Walter Spence of the Penn Athletic Club, Philadelphia, won the event to assume the title vacated by Johnny Weissmuller, now a professional. He stroked the course in one minute, 21-5 seconds to win easily in the national A. A. U. men's outdoor championship which started today.

SETS NEW MARK

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. E. Roland Harriman, of New York, drove Highland Scott an exhibition mile in 1:59¼, a world record for women drivers of either trotter or pacer, a new record for the pacer, and a track record for Good Time Park Oval.

CHISOX PROVE JINX FOR MACKS

By Associated Press.

All the big winners in American League history have felt, at least once in their respective seasons of super-greatness, the sting of as many as three straight defeats. The Athletics of 1929 qualified under this rule of baseball fate yesterday—presuming that the A's not only will win, but will win by a margin great enough to place them in a class with the Red Sox of 1912 and the Yankees of 1923 and 1927.

Jake Stahl's 1912 Red Sox stampeded Washington by 14½ games at the finish, but had one run of three straight defeats against them. Huggins' 1923 champions had two strings of three reverses bunched on either side of a lone victory in early June to make up a slump of six defeats in seven engagements. The 1927 Yankees lost four straight just after mid-season, but otherwise never hesitated.

GROVE NOSED OUT

Connie Mack's first run of three straight losses for the current season was accomplished in Chicago yesterday when the White Sox nosed out Mose Grove in the ninth by 4 to 3. Grove ran into Ted Lyons at his best, and was fortunate not to meet a 3-to-0 reverse as the White Sox booted three runs into the Athletic bat bag in the eighth with three artistic errors.

The White Sox already have qualified as the jinx team, not only of Grove, but also of the Athletics themselves. The Chicago victory yesterday brought Blackburne's boys up to within one of a tie against the A's in 15 games, and left the coming champions faced by the necessity of taking at least three odd game in the remaining seven to win the season's series from the lowly Sox.

The Browns batted hard against the Messrs. Hoyt, Pipgras and Nekola as Sammy Gray stopped the Yanks with seven hits to win by 10 to 0. The Browns got 15 safeties. Braxton's pitching and Goslin's hitting enabled the Senators to down the Tigers by 6 to 1 at Detroit. Rain prevented action in Cleveland between the Indians and the Red Sox.

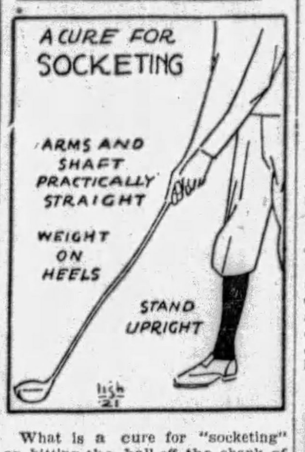
CUBS HIT HARD

After 10 days or more of good pitching, the Cubs were forced yesterday to go through an afternoon of hard slugging. The Bruins adapted themselves to the job in hand, pounded four Philadelphia pitchers for 21 hits, and won by 16 to 7. Fred Blake wilted under a five-run Philadelphia rally in the fourth, and Mike Cvengros expired in the seventh when Cy Williams hit a homer and two other Phillies walked.

Hack Wilson's thirty-second homer was a feature of the Chicago attack.

The Cubs made no advance as the Pirates defeated the Giants by 6 to 2 in the battle for second place. Johnny Morrison pitched well enough to win a 13-to-9 decision over Cincinnati in Brooklyn after Watson Clark had permitted the Reds to pile up a lead of 5 to 0 in three rounds.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT



What is a cure for "socketing" or hitting the ball off the shank of the club?

Answered By WILLIAM MEHLHORN.

San Antonio Open, Richmond, Va. Open, Montauk Beach Open, Westchester Open, 1928; Hawaiian Open, (Tied), El Paso Open, Texas Open, Hot Springs Open, 1929.

It has been my experience with golfers cursed with hitting the ball in the shank that they keep their weight too much on their toes instead of back on the heels. Stand a little more upright, then balance weight back on heels and raise the hands in the address to the ball so that the arms and shaft of the club are practically on a straight line. Be sure that the weight is balanced on the left heel at the finish of the swing.

Big Crowd Expected At Police Meet

All is in readiness for the eleventh annual Police Meet tomorrow at the Stadium, and all that is needed to make the event a record-breaker in every way is fair, clear weather.

Interest in the meet is keen, and with scores of the best athletes in the district entered, as well as a number of sterling boxers and wrestlers, together with participants in other features, the program is sure to please all who attend.

The meet will be preceded by a modified Marathon run, starting on the banks of Lake Elizabeth on the North Side and finishing at the Stadium.

Every event on the card is well filled. There are 12 teams in the open mile relay, which may mean the running of this event in two heats, with comparative time to count in determining the winner.

Sharon Golfers Beat Grove City

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Sharon Country Club golfers won their third straight match over a Mercer County rival club by defeating Grove City, 33½ to 14½ in a match at the local links. Sharon previously had defeated Greenville C. C. twice.

Thirty-two players took part in the day's play. John Murray and Dr. Montgomery were the only visiting men able to win three points while several Sharonites carried the first and second rounds and the match for three. Following the match a dinner was enjoyed at the clubhouse.

Sharon Free Links Champ Dethroned

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Buhl Farm public golf links will have a new champion this year. That was made certain when Henry Nabholtz, 1928 titleholder, fell, 4 and 3, before John O'Brien in the second round of the eight annual play. Nabholtz, out to defend his crown, had defeated H. E. Wingfield in the opening round of play, but could not equal the wonderful golf which O'Brien turned in to enter the semi-finals. O'Brien was the champion in 1926.

Greensburg Dog Show Is Planned

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Arrangements for the sixth annual dog show of the Westmoreland County Kennel Club, to be held at the Coliseum here on September 13 and 14, fast are nearing completion, and a record-breaking list of entries is anticipated.

R. S. Faust, secretary-treasury of the club, is receiving the entries, which are to close on Tuesday, September 3.

Jack Potter is chairman of the bench show committee and William Walker, of Pittsburgh, is to be one of the judges.

GUYS DEFEAT JEANNETTE, 11-7

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Baseball loosened up as the Governors downed the Jeannette Jays, 11-7, in five and a half innings here yesterday. The game was called, after Jeanette batted in the sixth inning, because of darkness.

The teams wallowed in mud starting the game and the condition was responsible for the poor showing of both clubs. The Governors hammered out seven hits for eight runs in the second inning, pounding Runge off the moud.

GRAYS BEAT GIANTS

The Homestead Grays defeated the Lincoln Giants, 5 to 2, in the opening game of their fourth All American Negro League series at Forbes Field last evening and moved within a single victory of tying the Baltimore Black Sox for second place in the pennant race. Wahl Captures Canoe Trophies

CLAYTON, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP.)—Adam Wahl, of New York, captured the American Canoe Association challenge cup, symbol of the International canoe sailing championship, as well as three other events for decked canoes yesterday, at the fiftieth annual regatta of the association.

In addition to the Challenge cup, Wahl won the Mermaid Crane and Paul Butler trophies.

D. J. Bergmann, of Chicago, vice commodore of the western division of the A. C. A., won the open cruising canoe championship and established a new record.

Murrin to Coach At Kingwood High

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Julian Murrin, prominent gridder of West Virginia University during his undergraduate days in that institution, will be in charge of sports at Kingwood High School this season. The Kingwood school is not a member of the Preston County Athletic Association and as a consequence will confine itself to independent scholastic football during the coming season. Fans expect Coach Murrin to turn out one of the best squads in the school's history this fall.

Pirate Reserve Seat Sale Opens Tomorrow

Reserve seats for all Pirate home games at Forbes Field from August 28 to September 7 inclusive will be placed on sale at the various agencies tomorrow morning, according to an announcement from Pirate headquarters this afternoon.

The advance sale will include seats for the doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs on August 28 and morning and afternoon games with the Reds on Monday, September 2 (Labor Day).

longer. Asked if it wouldn't be possible to race the dogs twice around the track, for a half-mile race, R. K. Leighton, manager of the plant, replied in the negative. "The dogs are not trained for any longer distances," he said, "and would be thrown entirely out of kilter if asked to go any further. As it is, one of them runs away every now and then and does such damage to itself that it has to be laid up for from several days to a week to recover." That's that.

IT IS hard to reconcile the thoughtful treatment of Grover Cleveland Alexander by the Cardinals with the deal handed Bill McKechnie, manager of the club, last year, when he was fired after winning the pennant. True, he was recalled when the club did a Brodie this season, but that merely constituted admission that a boner had been pulled and didn't make up for the ruthless humiliation of Wilkinsburg Bill in the first place.

SPEAKING of baseball, it begins to look very much as if Rogers Hornsby has earned his keep with the Chicago Cubs this year, after the tossing around he received from several other clubs. When the Cubs got him from the Braves for beaucop jack and players, it was with the announced intention of adding the punch that was needed last year to keep the club up there when the going became heated. Many were the critics who branded the Rajah a bad influence and predicted that he would prove the undoing rather than the making of the Bruins. The evidence is all against them. To the unsheathed optic, it would appear that Hornsby's presence in the lineup has meant the difference between a scandalous lead in the race at this time and third place last year.

Considerable criticism is being voiced of the conduct of the gallery that followed the match between Miss E. Lucille Bejach and Mrs. Margaret Curry in the semi-final round of the City Championship golf tournament at Schenley Park yesterday. It seems the onlookers didn't care who won so long as Miss Bejach, the defending champion, lost, which she did eventually, by 1 up, in 19 holes. A little closer observance of the ethics of the game by all concerned with this tournament each year would make it a better event.

PITTSBURGH is to be afflicted with its hockey club again next winter and Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion, will remain at the helm. No manager has been signed as yet, but some thought is being given to the matter, Attorney Jim Callahan advises. The local hockey fans have had some rough deals in the past with regard to having games taken away from home because of poor attendance, etc., and for a time it was thought it might be a good idea to dispose of the franchise to some other city where the interest would be keener and a larger rink available, but that's out, at least for the present.

IT IS the intention of the management at this writing to hold on pending the building of the Town Hall, which is expected to contain a hockey rink and accommodations for upwards of 10,000 to 12,000 fans at popular prices.

Varied Race Card For W. Va. State Fair

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 23.—With the recent completion of the condition books for the running races to be held in conjunction with forty-ninth annual West Virginia State Fair, which opens in Wheeling August 31 and continues until September 7, one of the most diversified cards of races in the history of the association was assured. Purses for the various events range from $400 to $700.

The sprint races will be run over the five, five and a half, six, six and a half furlong route and the longer races over the mile and 70 yards and one mile and one-sixteenth distance. The derby route race will be run in the sixth event on the Labor Day card.

Opening on Saturday, August 31, eight races will feature in the afternoon. The second race on this day's card is a claiming race for two-year-olds over the five furlong route. The West Virginia State Fair inaugural purse over the six and one-half furlong distance will be the feature race on the opening card. This event will be the fifth race of the day.

Ebensburg Races Still Draw Entries

EBENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 23.—Applications for stalls at the forthcoming six-day meeting of the Cambria County Fair, which opens September 2, are pouring in on President Blair C. Seeds.

Among the horsemen to apply today were: Frank C. Frisbie, W. Magrudor, Dick Westmoreland and M. Long.

The quartet will attend the five-day meeting at Cumberland, which opens Maryland's fall season on August 26, and then ship over here.

Cards to Play At Lewistown

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 23.—Next Thursday the St. Louis Cards will play the Viscose nine here, and the largest crowd ever to attend a local game is expected to be present. Fred Frankhouse, a former Juniata county boy, will pitch for the Cards. He played in the Perry-Juniata County League before getting into professional baseball.

GOLF RECORD BROKEN

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Miss Anna Thorn, captain of the Opequon Golf Club women's team, captured the 1929 mid-summer golf tourney on the course near here and in her victory set a new record of 48 for women for nine holes.

RUSSIAN TRADE AFFECTING EUROPE

Economic Conferences Make Grave Mistake When They Ignorse Soviet Influences

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Most of the periodic economic conferences in Europe, such as the current meeting at The Hague, have an atmosphere of unreality because they leave Russia out of consideration.

Bolshevist or capitalist, Russia exists, and its ultimate role in European and world affairs must be recognized. In failing to honor the Czarist debt, the present regime in Russia alienates foreign sentiment, and the strike of foreign capital against Russia enormously delays the economic development of the country. In time, Russian rulers will recognize this obvious fact, and doubtless seek to make terms with foreign capitalists. Accordingly, the long term future of interest rates partly depends on the extent to which Russia—and China too—come into the world capital markets.

RUSH DEVELOPMENT

Few business men have made an objective study of Russian conditions in recent years. One of them who has is Charles M. Muchnic, vice president of the American Locomotive Sales Corporation, who points out:

"Everything is being sacrificed (in Russia) for the rapid industrialization of the country, which entails great hardships and privations on the entire population. This might have been alleviated materially if Russia had been able to secure foreign financial assistance.

"Many economists of international repute have for years been predicting the doom of the Soviet government because, they claimed, it had created 'an economic vacuum' and that it could hardly pull itself up by its own bootstraps. But subsequent facts have not seemed to bear out their contention. The Russians publish a mass of statistics to prove that there is an increasing measure of progress from year to year. Whether their figures are correct or not, the evidence that I have myself seen on my 5,000-mile trip, bespeaks progress more eloquently than could any statistics."

Though Russian innovations constitute a significant experiment, the rest of the world seems more interested in imitating the fashions in managerial efficiency which have been in vogue in capitalistic United States.

LABOR'S FAILURES

Leo Wolman, leading labor economist and advisor to the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, one of the new style unions, berates trade unionists in the United States for lack of executive ability. In alluding to some of the disappointments in labor banks, Mr. Wolman candidly pointed out:

"The root of the matter is to be found in ancient and traditional habits of organized labor, which account for the long list of failures in co-operative undertakings that dot the history of American labor. Although the administrative requirements of a trade union, in all of its various activities, are many and fundamental, labor organizations have rarely shown keen preoccupation with the problems of sound and efficient administration. Many of the losses encountered in the daily routine of the business of a labor organization, are the result of nothing more than simple administrative incompetence. It is fair to say, I think, that the present weakened state of the American labor movement is more directly attributable to its own lack of resourcefulness and executive skill than to the tactics and power of its opposition."

Those are pearls of wisdom from an insider and from a devoted friend of organized labor!

WHERE STOCKS GO

The assumption that selected high grade stocks had been taken from the market to an increased extent by institutional buyers—the so-called investment trust—was further strengthened by the publication by the New York Stock Exchange of the ratio between brokers' loans and the aggregate price of all stocks.

During July the ratio of borrowing actually decreased, despite the advance in stock prices, indicating no increase in the floating supply of stocks carried by marginal speculators. The ratio declined from 9:15 per cent on July 1 to 8.87 per cent.

The precise meaning of these statistics will depend on longer experience, but E. H. H. Simmons, in response to my questioning, once remarked:

"One peculiarity of security distribution, as distinguished from the distributory methods of other forms of property, lies in the fact that they are not speedily consumed, and even after distribution of outright investors, can and do return to the floating supply held by dealers. Naturally, the proportionate amount of this floating supply at any given time is an important factor in the readiness with which securities can be distributed to investors, precisely as inventories of goods are an important factor in the processes of their distribution. If the securities' floating supply becomes overlarge, the security business tends to become congested and the creation of new securities is halted. On the other hand, the creation of new securities tends to become greater when the floating supply of securities is unusually small.

"These new statistics, some believe, may ultimately prove of value in throwing some light on this question of the proportionate amount of the floating supply of listed securities."

MARKET GOES ON WILD BULL RAMPAGE

30 Stocks Climb 3 to 17 Points—Westinghouse Up 15½ to High of 292½

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The stock market went forth on another wild "bull" rampage today in the face of a record-breaking increase in Federal Reserve brokers' loans.

Thirty, or more, stocks were whirled up 3 to 17 points to new high records, the list including several representative steel, oil, railroad and public utility shares. Trading was in fairly heavy volume, several blocks of 5,000 to 50,000 shares changing hands, particularly in the oil group.

Inasmuch as the sharpest gains were recorded by stocks of companies reporting unusually large current earnings, Wall street regarded the rally as an indication that large operators had disregarded at least temporarily the credit situation and based their campaign on the excellent character and prospects of business.

BEARS COVER

"Bear" operators, who have been selling stocks freely in the last few days on the theory that a large gain in brokers' loans would cause another sharp setback, were forced to cover with large losses, or witness steadily mounting paper losses staring them in the face.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent and it looked as though the rate would be maintained over the week-end, instead of dropping back to 6 as it has in the two previous sessions. There was no change in other monetary accommodations.

Revival of speculative activity and strength in the oil shares, based on the theory that the curtailment program is slowly bearing fruit, was one of the features of the session. Standard oils of New Jersey and New York and Texas Company, three of the recognized leaders of the group, all moved into new high ground.

WESTINGHOUSE SOARS

Westinghouse Electric was the spectacular individual feature, soaring 15½ points to a new high record at 292½. The first preferred ran up 17 points to a new high at 276. Air Reduction was pushed up 15 points to 199⅞, DuPont 14 to 220, U. S. Freight 7½ to 110, U. S. Steel common 8⅜ to 258¾, Warren Bros. 6⅜ to 187¾, International Telephone 6¾ to 137¾ and Bethlehem Steel 5⅝ to 138⅝, all new high records. Republic, Inland, and Crucible steels, Chicago Northwestern, Norfolk and Western, Woolworth, Southern California Edison and Borg Warner also sold at new peak prices.

Powerful buying came into the motor shares in the early afternoon, a block of 22,000 shares of General Motors changing hands at 75, up 2¼ points. Mack Truck rose about 4 points.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Lively upturns in wheat values took place early today, influenced by word that drought has caused a big reduction of seeding in Argentina. Liberal overnight export business in North American wheat was likewise noted. Opening 1⅛c to 2½c up, wheat afterward reacted somewhat, but again rose higher. Corn, oats and provisions developed strength also, with corn starting at ¼c decline to ½c advance, and subsequently scoring sharp general gains.

Strongly emphasizing an announcement that the seeded area of Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces, Argentina, had been curtailed 15 per cent on account of drought, and that rains there were urgently needed to prevent crop deterioration, was news today that a very large export business had been done in United States wheat, both hard winter and spring. Gulf of Mexico ports and Duluth also were said to have participated, with the total amount of wheat taken for Europe estimated at 1,500,000 bushels.

Much attention was given also to notices that members of the Federal Farm Board were to confer in Chicago Monday with the Farmers National Grain Corporation and take any practicable measures to remedy the acute marketing situation regarding newly harvested domestic spring wheat Northwest. Meanwhile decided upturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool today counted as a stimulus to buyers, the Liverpool market for wheat future deliveries closing at 2d to 2⅝d advance.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—More activity was going on in raw sugar today than appeared on the surface and the market had a firmer undertone with offerings light. Prices were quoted at 3.83c for spots duty paid, and it was generally believed that during the last two days about 200,000 bags of Cuban were sold to refiners and operators for September and October shipment, the former at 3.80c and the latter at 3.83c.

There was not much activity in raw futures and price movements were narrow and unimportant. The market opened 1 point higher to 1 point lower with September higher on covering in advance of first notice day next Tuesday, while the later positions were a little lower under liquidation and selling by Wall Street commission houses. Most of the business was in the form of exchanging from the September to later positions, with the buyers of near months selling the later positions at prevailing differences, and the market at midday was unchanged from initial figures.

Refined prices were unchanged at 5.50c, and second available at from 5.15@5.20c. Withdrawals on old contracts were again of liberal proportions, but new business was light and supplied through second hands.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Commercial Transactions.

Commercial transactions during the week ended August 17, as reflected by the volume of checks presented to the banks for payment, showed a decline from the previous week but were considerably greater than in the corresponding period of 1928, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Steel-plant activity showed some recession from the preceding week but was still substantially above the level of last year. The production of bituminous coal during the latest reported week was greater than in either the preceding week or the corresponding period a year ago. The output of crude petroleum showed the first decline from the preceding week reported in about three months, but was still above a year ago. The receipts of cotton into sight were twice as large as at this time last year. Receipts of cattle at primary markets showed a decline from a year ago, while hog receipts showed a gain. The distribution of commodities, through primary channels, as indicated by freight car loadings, was running substantially higher than at this time last year.

May Advance Coal Price.

Increase in price for domestic coal effective immediately, is predicted by C. B. Neel, secretary of Virginia Coal Operators' Association. Neel laid expected price to scarcity of open top cars in which to ship coal and low supply of domestic coal in hands of retailers. There was a definite car shortage in the St. Charles field and the Tennessee field last week. During the week, the Clinchfield Railroad was called on to deliver 2,000 Clinchfield empties to the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad at Elkhorn City. The Louisville and Nashville is calling for all empties available, and the Norfolk and Western has received an emergency delivery of 500 empties.

Canada Fears Corn Borer.

Fearing invasion of corn borer, the Winnipeg Board of Trade has wired protest to the Dominion government against further importation of United States corn to the local market. United States corn is brought in to Winnipeg by jobbers from Minneapolis before the Manitoba product is ready for market. Presumably it is grown in Minnesota, but there is no guarantee, members of the association say, that it has not been grown in infected fields. Even rigid inspection, it is claimed, would not remove the danger and Winnipeg interests are asking for complete prohibition.

Transcontinental Oil Output.

Net crude oil production of Transcontinental Oil Company in June was 737,377 barrels, daily average of 24,579, against 632,554 barrels, or 20,405 daily, in May. On July 1, when permitted production from Yates field was increased, the company was allowed 6,400 barrels daily additional net production. The company realized $726,472 gross from June production, averaging 98.5 cents a barrel, against average gross realization of 76 cents in May. On May 24 price increase to 94 cents a barrel was made effective.

Mexican Labor Code.

Proposal to amend Mexican constitution so as to permit Congress to adopt a federalized labor code has been ratified by 18 of the State Legislatures. As this makes the necessary two-thirds majority for the amendment, previously approved by the federal Congress in special session, that body can proceed with the matter. Discussion of the code will be begun in the regular session convening September 1. Both employers and labor unions have expressed dissatisfaction with the code.

American Power Net.

Gross earnings of American Commonwealths Power Corporation for 12 months ended July 31, 1929, were $20,606,619, new high record. These figures do not include appreciation in value of investment in common stocks of other public utilities companies, nor earnings from its investment in American Commonwealths Power System of Massachusetts. Balance available for reserves, federal taxes and surplus was $2,447,268.

Consolidated Instrument.

United States government Army Air Service has awarded a contract for 564 Type B-6 aircraft compasses, to Aircraft Control Corporation of Philadelphia, a division of Consolidated Instrument Company of America, Inc.

Montgomery Ward.

Montgomery Ward has opened a tire store in La Grange, a suburb of Chicago. The company recently opened a chain store in Ogden, Utah. It is expected to open another chain store in Utah, probably at Price.

ARKANSAS GAS CONTINUES GAINS

Local Market Displays Buoyant Tone in Line With Other Exchanges

Arkansas Natural Gas again assumed leadership on the Pittsburgh Exchange. The stock opened at 20, a new high and a gain of three-eighths over yesterday's close. Further active buying carried the issue into even higher ground. In the first 15 minutes of trading Arkansas reached 20½ and a total of 2,511 shares were bought. Further advances were shown later in the day.

The opening of the New York Stock Exchange was exceptionally strong and the local stocks followed suit. Trading in Pittsburgh was concentrated on a few issues in the early morning, but a buoyant tone was evident.

Devonian Oil was one of the most active issues. This stock made steady upward progress during the morning. D. L. Clark, Blaw Knox, United Engineering and Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt were among the issues which opened at prices unchanged from previous closing levels.

Reserve Discounts Drop While Brokers' Loans Skyrocket

WHILE brokers' loans were being increased by $133,000,000 in the week ended August 21, the amount of Federal Reserve credit outstanding in bills discounted and holdings of acceptances and government securities bought in the open market declined by $27,754,000. This was due mainly to a continued large decrease in the amount of bills discounted for the member banks. The total bills and securities held by the New York Reserve Bank fell by $40,000,000, but this was partly offset by increases elsewhere. Discounts for the whole reserve system were down by $41,610,000, reducing the total of discounts below $1,000,000,000 for the first time since June. In the New York Reserve Bank discounts were reduced by more than $51,000,000.

The fact that the Federal Reserve banks are not coming very generously to the support of the acceptance market is disclosed by today's report of the Federal Reserve board, which shows an increase of only about $14,000,000 in the item of bills bought in the open market. Even this increase is offset in part by a decrease of nearly $5,700,000 in the reserve bank holdings of government securities. Buying of bills by the New York Reserve Bank was moderate for the week, its holdings increasing by only $2,635,000 and nearly half of that was offset by sales of government securities. New York member banks continued to improve their position at the reserve by reducing their borrowings $47,000,000 to $144,000,000, a very heavy decrease from their heavy borrowings during the credit strain in July.

INDISPOSITION of some New York banks to disclose amount of their gold imports from London is indicated by the Federal Reserve Bank's report showing that $4,992,000 gold from England was landed here in the week ended on Wednesday. Receipt of only $2,500,000 of this amount had been announced by the banks which heretofore have usually made known their gold purchases as a matter of record and perhaps for publicity. Failure to report the purchase of nearly $2,500,000 in gold is attributed to London's sensitiveness to loss of gold at a moment when the reserves of the Bank of England have been reduced to £138,200,000, or £12,000,000 below the minimum set for that item by the Cunliffe committee. It is understood that the Bank of England is counteracting the effect on the London discount market of its heavy losses in gold by large buying of government securities.

The ratios of total reserves to net deposit and federal reserve note liabilities combined in the 12 district banks showed a general increase in the week and a further rise over the figures prevailing at this time a year ago. For the system the ratio moved up almost a point to 75.5, only one bank, Boston, reporting a ratio below that of a year ago. Chicago was highest with 82.6, while San Francisco, Kansas City and Cleveland were also above 80.

HEAVY buying orders again came into the market for United States Steel common at a time when offerings were scarce. After opening about a point higher at 251, the stock rose steadily to above 255, and then a block of 5,200 shares changed hands at 256, cleaning up all offerings. The next sale was a point higher, when 800 shares were taken. Bethlehem spurted almost to 138, for a rise of nearly 5 points, an unusually wide movement for this companion of the steel leader. Westinghouse Electrc recorded another spectacular leap of 15 points before easing off on realizing, and International Telephone continued to push into new high ground, while Montgomery Ward moved forward briskly and Allied Chemical added points with ease. Radio and Woolworth were in demand, the latter crossing 100 for the first time for the new stock. One of the large transactions recorded on the tape was the transfer of 50,000 shares of Standard Oil of New York at $45 a share, representing a valuation of $2,250,000. Some of the recently organized large trading companies buy and sell stocks in huge blocks.

New money coming in the market, reflected in the rise of the "others" division of brokers' loans, is being put out by large investment companies, it was reported today. Whether or not this cash has been made available through the sale of additional stock of these companies or through liquidation of a part of the securities in their portfolios, there is no doubt that it is having a decided effect on the money market.

No Merger

A. L. HUMPHREY

Mr. Humphrey, president of Westinghouse Air Brake, says definitely, emphatically: "There is absolutely no truth in the rumored merger of Air Brake, Baldwin Locomotive Works and American Steel Foundry.

Contract Is Let For Lighting Air Field

A $25,000 contract has been awarded by the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation to the Industrial Electric Company of Pittsburgh, for the lighting of the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport.

The contract covers field lighting to comply with the Department of Commerce, highest rating "A," which includes boundary lights, flood lights, ceiling lights indicating height of clouds, beacon lights, building flood lights and red obstacle lights.

Crouse Hinds beacon lights were specified and entire balance of the equipment specified was Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company's product.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—The curb market continued to flounder about in confusion today, failing notably to respond to the violent bullish activity on the "big board." Profit taking depressed several of the investment trust and utility shares, while strong buying went forward in some of the utilities and industrials.

Electric Bond and Share was a strong feature during the forenoon, rising about 6 points to a record price at 172, but this level brought out considerable realizing. Electric Investors was less active and moved in a narrow range. American Superpower and United Light and Power "A" were in fair demand, but United Gas Improvement turned weak, losing more than 5 points. Allied Power and American and Foreign Power were under pressure. Commonwealth and Southern and Niagara Hudson were still active but failed to break out of their narrow trading ranges.

Natural Gas stocks displayed moderate, but persistent strength. Arkansas Natural Gas and Cities Service again moving a shade higher to new peak prices.

Trans-America, although selling ex-rights, rose several points to new high ground in response to the 150 per cent stock dividend and announcement of formation of a company to take over its trading operations, leaving trans-America strictly a holding company.

Goldman Sachs was firm, but trading in Blue Ridge stocks quieted down considerably, and they were inclined to sag under further realizing. General Realty was a strong feature, rising to a new high close to 40.

Oils attracted some support, as bullish operations went forward in this group on the "big board." Gulf and Vacuum each rose more than 3 points, stimulated by merger rumors. In the mines, Newmont rose several points in response to reports of negotiations to merge South African properties in which it is interested, but it soon reacted.

Industrials were generally quiet. Anchor Post Fence continued to enter new high territory. Clark Lighter A, a low priced issue, rallied a couple of points and Eastman Kodak rights were in urgent demand. The new Allis Chalmers and F. G. Shattuck stocks were well bought. Crocker Wheeler slipped back 10 points in a small turnover and Shaeffer Pen was inclined to sag.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

BELDING SALES INCREASING

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Operations of Belding Heminway, makers of silk fabrics, for initial six months shows company is rapidly recovering its sales equilibrium and officials are optimistic over earnings prospect for the year. Should the company maintain the current business pace througout the remaining months it is authoritatively stated stockholders may look for a revival of dividends on the junior issue.

Net income for period ended June 30 was $191,295 after depreciation but before Federal taxes equivalent after preferred dividends of 50 cents a share on the 415,032 shares of common stock currently outstanding. This compares with $91,028 or 21 cents a share on the same capitalization for the same period in 1928, a year which marked the most disappointing twelve months in history, company's income account showing a deficit of $426,033. Since the first of the current year, however, the rejuvenated sales organization has met a favorable reception in new territory and company has materially extended business in fabrics and hosiery lines which more than offset losses sustained through the drastic slump in threads and embroidery silk.

The company's improved standing is sharply reflected in the balance sheet as of June 30, particularly in respect to the inventory account, this item being reduced since the first of the year from $6,967,909 to $4,978,805. The more than a million dollar improvement in this account is the more impressive when it is realized that the reduction represents the removal of virtually all obsolete goods from inventory.

Other items which enhance the company's present condition is the purchase of $178,000 of its 10-year 6% convertible notes due in 1936, which represents a total liquidation of this account of $2,706,000, or more than one-half the original issue of $5,410,000 and is the only major obligation in front of the common and preferred stocks. Cash and accounts receivable are in excess of amount required to retire balance of notes now outstanding.

Current assets as of June 30 were $7,850,403 and current liabilities were $254,815, leaving net working capital of $7,595,593, compared with $7,712,450 in current assets, $191,103 in current liabilities and $7,522,347 in working capital as of December 31, 1928.

TRUSTS INVEST IN BANKING STOCKS

Operations Affecting Bank Ownership May Receive Attention from Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP).—Since average banking profits, stimulated by persisting periods of high interest over the country, are known to be running at high levels, Federal officials are accepting without surprise reports of increasing investment trust activity in banking securities.

Though these operations are less widely advertised than those of similar nature which affect industrial and railroad securities, there is some ground for rating them of equal importance.

"Acquisition of national and other banking stocks by holding and investment corporations has been going on for some time," J. W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, remarked. "While the subject is just now getting some public attention, the markets for bank securities have been appreciably more active in recent months."

CONGRESS MAY ACT

One incidental result of the holding-investment activities in the bank stock field will probably be to give some extra stimulus to the consideration by the next congressional session of branch banking proposals. It seems rather likely, in view of official and financial sentiments, that the federal statutes on banking are due for some serious raking over them.

Theoretically, ownership of bank stocks, particularly national bank stocks, is hedged about with somewhat more responsibility than attaches to ownership of other securities. Federal law, and most state law, makes bank stockholders liable for losses of their institution to a limit of twice the face value of their stockholders. In practice, the comptroller will not allow a new bank to be formed unless the incorporating stockholders, after investigation, are found to have sufficient private means to meet the obligation, but once the bank is operating, no inquiry is officially made as to purchasers and sellers of its stock.

"It would simply be impossible to trace down the sales of all bank stocks to determine the ability of each new purchaser to meet the liability," Mr. Pole explained. "If troubles comes to the bank, the liability is enforced by government suit."

SHENANGO MILL OUTPUT HIGH

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 23.—Schedules at Shenango Valley plants were not changed during the past week, 90 per cent operation continuing. Steel men report that this summer has been one of the best in many years.

Sharon Steel Hoop Company plant continued with its full time capacity schedule.

Carnegie Steel Company has one blast furnace down, but the other departments worked on the same basis as during the past month. Farrell and Mercer works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company were unchanged in operations. American Steel and Wire plant worked at about 80 per cent.

So far no increase in operations has been noted at the Sharon Foundry plant, recently purchased by the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Corporation.

Petroleum Iron Works, Standard Tank Car and National Malleable and Steel Castings Company have not changed their schedules.

West Penn Company Electric Output

The West Penn Electric Company, which controls the electirc subsidiaries of the American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc., reports power output to regular consumers of 157,901,254 kilowatt hours for the month of July, 1929, an increase of 13.41% over July, 1928.

For the first seven months of 1929, power output to regular consumers totaled 1,103,030,437 kilowatt hours, which is greater by 10.03% than the output for the corresponding period of 1928.

Pointers on Investment Trusts

The Investment Trust is an organization by which the combined funds of many investors are utilized to purchase a wide variety of securities, thus providing safety of principal through diversification.

Many investment trusts have shown a liberal return and a steady appreciation of principal. It is important, however, to select companies operated by management of proven ability and integrity.

Let us mail you our pamphlet on points to consider in selecting investment trusts.

PENNSY STOCK ALLOTMENT EXPECTED

Possibility of Dividend Raise Seen as Earnings for Half Set New Records

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Continued good earnings with probability of a stock allotment in the fall and possibility of an increase in dividend rate are the present points of interest to Pennsylvania Railroad common stockholders. Well-informed financial circles feel certain of the stock allotment, although opinion is divided as to an increase in dividend rate at this time.

Amount and price of the stock allotment is a matter of conjecture, but many guess 10 per cent at par $50. Although the Pennsylvania does not have any maturity to meet until next spring a stock allotment may be made at an early date in order to give stockholders ample opportunity to arrange to pay for the additional shares.

In March, 1928, the Pennsylvania made a 12½ per cent stock allotment at par, $50. At that time the shares were selling around 70 and the allotment gave the stockholders rights which sold initially around 2¾. At $100 per share, a 10 per cent stock allotment at par, $50, would give stockholders rights worth initially $4.50. A 10 per cent allotment at $60 per share would give stockholders rights worth about $3.64.

MORE CAPITAL STOCK

The 12½ per cent stock allotment made by the Pennsylvania in 1928 resulted in issuance of $62,408,250 additional capital stock, bringing capital on December 31, 1928, to $561,673,950. This was exclusive of the $17,500,000 capital stock which was offered to employes at par. Estimating that outstanding capital stock will be increased this fall to $575,000,000 a 10 per cent stock allotment would result in issuance of $57,500,000 additional capital stock, and if new shares are sold at a premium of $10 the company would realize total premiums on stock issue of $11,500,000.

The employes who elected to pay for their stock in 10 monthly instalments will complete their payments this month and certificates will be delivered to them in September. The employes who elected to pay at the rate of $2 per share per month have also been given the privilege by the board of directors of anticipating future payments and receiving their stock certificates. In some quarters this action of allowing employes to pay up their stock is interpreted as a desire on the part of the directors of placing these employes in position to participate in the next stock allotment on the same terms as other stockholders.

PENNROAD RIGHTS

Last April stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad were also given the privilege of subscribing to shares of the newly formed Pennroad Corporation at $15 per share on basis of one share of Pennroad for each two shares of Pennsylvania Railroad held, and this privilege resulted in additional valuable rights to stockholders as Pennroad has since sold at $30 a share, just double subscription price, and is selling currently around 27.

The Pennsylvania has an issue of 10-year 7 per cent secured gold bonds maturing April 1, 1930, amounting to $50,000,000, and raising funds to pay off these bonds is the basis for the estimate of a 10 per cent stock allotment which would produce $57,500,000 or $69,000,000, depending upon whether shares are sold at $50 a share or $60 a share.

DIVIDEND RUMORS

There have been a number of rumors that the Pennsylvania's dividend rate will be increased to 10 per cent from the present 8 per cent basis, but many of these rumors have had their origin in brokerage circles. On August 31 the Pennsylvania will pay only its second dividend at the quarterly dividend rate of 2 per cent, the rate having been increased to an 8 per cent from a 7 per cent basis only last April. The next dividend is due November 30.

Reports of a further increase in the Pennsylvania's dividend rate have been based on the continued expansion in Pennsylvania earnings, the company having earned the full year's dividend of 8 per cent in the first six months of operations. Pennsylvania's earnings are continuing to make great strides and unless there should be a marked let-up in the final months of the year it is estimated that the company will earn over 16 per cent on the outstanding stock, or more than double the present 8 per cent dividend rate.

RECORD NET INCOME

Pennsylvania set a new high record for net operating income in the first half of 1929 at $65,318,909. This compares with $50,760,063 in the first half of 1928, increase $14,558,846, and with $51,125,413 in the first half of 1927, increase $14,193,496. Net operating income for June was $12,020,998, comparing with $10,203,032 in June, 1928, increase $1,817,966, and with $9,398,420 in June, 1927, increase $2,622,578. The statement for July, which will be issued next week, will make another good showing.

Pennsylvania's gross revenues in July gave no indication of the usual summer slowing down in business. Car loadings for the five weeks ended August 3 amounted to 848,153 cars, against 794,650 in the corresponding period of 1928, increase 53,503 cars, or nearly 7 per cent. For the week ended August 3, loadings were 174,583 cars, against 165,518 in the corresponding week of 1928, and for the week ended August 10 they amounted to 173,795 cars, against 161,689 in 1928, showing that early summer's business momentum is continuing through this month.

Transcontinental Oil Shows Gains

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE Trancontinental Oil Company is beginning to show some of its potential earnings as a result of changes in proration rulings and higher prices for its crude oil. Drilling operations in the past three years have proven that an enormous production is available, but the state of the oil market has been so unsatisfactory that the gains in profits have been of very modest proportions.

The Yates pool has the largest production of any pool in the United States. Its possible output has been estimated as high as 4,956,000 barrels a day. It has a proven area of 16,000 acres and the amount of recoverable oil has been estimated to be between 200,000,000 and 500,000,000 barrels. A few estimates have given even higher figures.

The Transcontinental Oil Company and the Mid-Kansas Oil Company jointly own nearly half of the output of this pool. As a result of inadequate transportation and the over-production of crude oil, Transcontinental has never taken more than a small fraction of its developed production of oil from the ground.

Production Increased

ON JULY 1 the allowable production of the Yates field was increased. This gave Transcontinental the right to withdraw 31,000 barrels of oil a day, an increase of 6,400 barrels over the previous allowance.

On May 20 the price of crude from the field was increased about 30 cents a barrel. This, together with the increase in the output, is giving the company an increase of about $15,000 a day in the gross revenue.

Production is now being taken from a depth of 1,200 feet. Geologists are of the opinion that deeper sands may exist. The structure is similar to that of the Big Lake field, where three sands have been found. The last is at a depth of 8,500 feet and a test well is showing a large production.

Profits Gain

A SHARP jump in profits was reported for the second quarter, but an even more pronounced gain is expected during the balance of the year. Net for the three months ended June 30, 1929, was $1,188,271 after depreciation, interest and taxes. This was equivalent to 25 cents a share on the 3,842,229 shares of common stock outstanding, after deducting preferred dividend requirements.

In comparison, profit for the first quarter was $527,551 or seven cents a share, while the corresponding period of 1928 showed a profit of $853,011 or 15 cents a share. In the full year of 1928 net income was $1,506,802 or 11 cents a share.

Drilling operations are being carried on in a number of other localities. The company's policy is to attempt to develop fields in which it controls the bulk of the acreage rather than to take checkerboard leases in pools in which the number of participating companies is large. It has developed the Nigger Creek field as well as several minor producing areas.

Preferred Stock Retired

THE issue of $15,750,000 of preferred stock is being retired. Holders were allowed until August 15 to decide whether they would accept $135 a share in cash for their stock or $90 in cash and five share of common. The price offered includes payment of dividends in arrears.

Proceeds for the completion of the plan were obtained by offering the holders of each two common shares rights to buy one additional share at $9. The rights expired on August 19.

It is expected that the completion of the plan will result in the issuance of about 2,650,000 shares of additional common stock, making the total outstanding issue about 6,492,229 shares.

In Memoriam 1-B

Mary Lyons died August 23, 1925.
To my only Pal—
The day is done, but not the thought,
Which fills me through and through,
Remembrance sweet within my breast,
That's only—for a Pal like you.
The wind may blow, or let it rain,
It matters not what weather,
Though thou art there, and I am here,
In heart we are together.
Sadly missed by her Pal,
CATHERINE MOONEY.

Notice to Taxpayers

Office of Treasurer of Allegheny County, Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In pursuance of the 21st section of an "Act relating to Allegheny County," approved the 1st day of May, 1861, and of the amendments to said section, approved the 30th day of March, A. D., 1866, I hereby give notice that the tax duplicates for the several wards of the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton, boroughs and townships, will be open, and I will be prepared to receive the county, road, poor, bond interest, etc., park and personal property taxes for the year 1929 on May 1st. Said taxes may be paid during the months of May, June and July only at 5% discount, during August at face, and on and after September 1st the tax plus an added 10% penalty must be paid to the County Delinquent Tax Collector.

Statements will be furnished promptly upon written request, if furnished name, location by ward in the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne or Clairton or boroughs or townships. If statement of Personal Property or Occupation Tax is desired, give street address also.

Use of the mail is advised for requesting statements and making payment of taxes. Payments may be made in cash at Treasurer's Office or through mail by Certified Check or Money Order, (payable to John Francies, County Treasurer), and mailed to Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pa., accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope for return of tax statement or receipt.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Positively NO discount will be allowed on taxes not actually received at the Treasurer's Office before the close of business on July 31st, 1929, nor will Taxes at face be received by the County Treasurer after the close of business on August 31st, 1929.

Delay in delivery, by mail or messenger, will not be considered an excuse for non-payment before expiration of discount of face period for payment.

JOHN FRANCIES, County Treasurer.

MENTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH WHEN ANSWERING ADVERTISEMENTS.

BUGS BAER Says

THE SLIPPERY ACE DECLARES WAR

WHILE the Zeppeliners are skidding over the dirigible landscape and using the horizon as a jumping rope, our boys have not been idle.

Bugs Bear lawn mowers.

Aviation has been booming left, right and center. In a few more seasons all neighbors will be borrowing airplanes instead of sugar bowls and lawn mowers.

Flying has made such profuse leaps that even the crooks are studying tailspins and groundloops.

A beautiful mansion in Beverly was knocked off recently by an escadrille of zooming mechanics equipped with tweezers and jimmies.

They got themselves a hangar full of diamonds and coin. The flying cops investigated and found that the yeggs had bought themselves airplanes. They couldn't wait for Congress to make an appropriation.

Robbing a joint from the air is exactly like war. First the boys sent over a scouting plane to take photographs of the terraced terrain.

These pictures were studied by the general staff of the underworld, which decided that it was a job for the Slippery Ace.

The Slippery Ace had won his wings. But another crook had picked the feathers out of them.

A pursuit plane left Beverly with the Slippery Ace at the throttle. He was escorting a combat plane and three bombers which flew over Beverly in echelon formation.

Unfortunately, until Airedales are crossed with the sky terrier strain, watchdogs will not bark at Zeppelins.

The modern vultures dropped off a spy in a parachute and he made contact with the ground mechanics.

They trimmed that mansion to a whisper. They stole everything but the garage. And they autographed that.

This new style of crookery is going to be difficult to handle. Nobody leaves a thumbprint on a cloud.

We will have to build bomb-proof cellars and put anti-aircraft guns on the mezzanine.

Looks as if the next trans-Atlantic flight will be a cop chasing a pickpocket.

It's not enough these days to have burglar alarms and high fences. Crooks are the first to take advantage of new inventions. Until we perfect a defense against the non-stop Slippery Ace, we advise all millionaires to live in bird cages.

Christianity and Capitalism

Oil and Water.

The Rev. Jerome Davis, who teaches "practical philanthropy" in the Yale Divinity School, says "Christianity must control capital, or capitalism will control and mold Christianity."

The reverend professor discovers to his horror that "property values in some instances are placed above human values in industry."

He would think so if he could see the inside of a mill employing young children.

But what can be done about it? A wise man among the ancients told the Tyrant that philosophers must be kings or kings philosophers. But it didn't happen.

Christianity will not control capitalism. That "take all thou hast and give to the poor" suggestion does not appeal to the modernist planning a merger.

Japan Watchful, Wise

She Goes On BUILDING.

Our wise Asiatic friends, the Japanese, have an admirable capacity for watching and waiting.

They watched and waited during the big war. AFTER they had taken what they needed in their immediate neighborhood.

They sent intelligent Japanese soldiers and sailors as "observers" to watch and learn in Europe. But THEY didn't get into the war.

Now Japan is watching and waiting while Great Britain and the United States make "peace gestures" and stop cruiser building. But Japan isn't stopping ANYTHING, and goes right ahead with a program of eight new cruisers of 10,000 tons each.

Japanese newspapers praise President Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald for not building and for their peaceful action.

BUT WISE JAPAN BUILDS.

It May Prove Annoying

We Should Control Noises.

There is a theory that automobile driving has taught us to use our ears to great advantage. Driving at night, we subconsciously keep aware of menacing cross traffic and catch warning sounds that govern our rhythm of movement. Several persons have given astounding demonstrations while driving blindfolded. No doubt our primitive ancestors developed an awareness, through woodcraft, which was gradually relinquished during less hazardous centuries. And now we are having our hearing restored. But it may prove quite an annoyance in the long run—unless we become so critical of noises that we learn how to control them. Or—to be optimistic—we may develop subconscious selectivity.

However, for the next few hundred years may we suggest that everybody turn their radios down a little lower? Thanks.

A Rum Runner Hanged

He Killed Coast Guards.

James Horace Alderman, rum runner, 50 years old, was hanged in Florida, recently, for killing two coast guards, three years ago.

It is the government's duty to protect coast guards and other public servants. It is also a duty of government to protect ordinary citizens, against murder, unintentional or otherwise, by prohibition officials.

Shooting a citizen, driving his car, because an official suspects that he may be carrying bootleg liquor, or shooting any other citizen, on suspicion, should be punished in exemplary fashion.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A WAITRESSETTE, or diminutive waitress, in a Los Angeles tea room, says she bought a beautiful beaded chiffon robe that cost $200, from a wealthy resident of the Ambassador hotel, for $25. She says that she is going to so many parties and dances, at the smart hotels, she just has to have a lot of good clothes. She had been to a party the night before but her beau's car was stolen so they went in her car, cost $1,800, all paid for. She drives to work in it, accompanied by a bull dog that watches the car while she "waites."

That's a great town for "waiting." And you don't have to wait long either.

Sometimes it's really surprising how fifty-fifty marriage is. Now the lady I have in mind is a little black-haired thing, and pretty. When she got on the train at Los Angeles she kissed a good looking boy friend goo-bye. Ooo, very affectionately! Whispered promises and everything.

Train got stalled on the way east and she talked with various passengers, telling them she was going back to Chicago against her husband's wishes. He wanted her to go to Honolulu and have a nice vacation. He was so generous and so anxious that she turned around and struck for home.

"He is working so hard," she explained, "that I suppose he wants me out of the way, but I am not so sure. I want to be a little more certain."

She didn't say anything about the whispering Romeo at the station. She had a certain appeal, and both men and women liked her on the trip, and she was funny and entertaining. When her hubby met her, she trotted him over and introduced him to all her passenger friends. Now there just happened to be one who was met by her own husband, who said to his wife: "Who is that woman?"

"Just a merry passenger whose husband wanted her to go to Honolulu and she wouldn't," said the wife.

"I know why," said the man. "I was phoning for my car and her husband came out of the next booth, where I heard him apologizing to some woman for his wife's return. He said he would try to get her to change her mind and go back but that really, she would have to forgive him, for after all the woman was his wife and he was doing the best he could under very TRYING circumstances.

No doubt the wife would fling a wicked rolling pin if she knew about it, but what about the boy friend with the whisper at the Los Angeles station?

True Unfortunately

Here Is Your Dry Vote Legislator.

A COMPOSITE PICTURE OF AMERICA'S LAW-MAKERS.

The sad thing about this cartoon, sent out by G. M. Adams, is the fact that it tells the truth.

Members of Congress vote to punish ordinary crime and they are sincere in their action.

They vote to punish smugglers depriving government of revenue. They are honest about that. They really want to punish smugglers. They would not be guilty of smuggling, UNLESS IT WERE SMUGGLING LIQUOR, of which several of them have been guilty.

In regard to what the general public considers and has always considered crime, Congress acts sincerely, and votes as it thinks.

But as regards prohibition, which would make it a crime to own, transport, manufacture or sell alcoholic stimulants, everything is different.

Congressmen will vote to punish a man who drinks, and as they vote they have a flask of whisky in their hip pocket.

They vote to make the country dry, while they themselves are DRIPPING WET.

One of the most famous prohibition advocates in the Senate, a well-known orator, used to get up and make an earnest speech in favor of prohibithion, whenever he was SOBER ENOUGH TO DO SO.

Any Senator will tell you his name.

This picture shows you one of the most important problems of this country. Can you enforce the laws put on the statute books by men who do not obey the law that they create?

Bible Passages

Jesus Explains Parables

(St. Matthew 13: 36-51.)

THEN Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his desciples came unto him saying, Declare unto us the parables of the tares of the field.

He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seeds is the Son of man;

The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one;

The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.

And therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world.

The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity;

And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

Again the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls:

Who when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

Again the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind.

Which, when it was full, they drew to shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away.

So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just,

And shall cast them into the furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea, Lord.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A FELLOW that was looking for work heard from the new employer that it was customary to give references from the place of latest employment.

"I ain't got any references that way, Mister," he says. "I worked for the state for 20 years."

"Well, can't you get references from the state official who was your boss?"

"No, I couldn't when I left. He was too busy."

"Oh, politics, I suppose."

"Yeah, I reckon it was politics. Anyhow, he was busy electrocuting three of his men, and he had five to dress in and mug and measure the next morning, so I didn't want to bother him."

THE FIRM'S KNOW-IT-ALL

By Herbert Kaufman

YOUR score in the postage stamp department is IRREPROACHABLE; your showing in lead pencils and rubber bands is PAR; everybody admits your star performance as a purchaser of office stationery and engine room supplies.

But when the sales record counts the number of thousand dollar chances you let slip, while avoiding ten cent risks, dividends moan at your misguided "efficiencies."

You're not a force, but an OBSTRUCTION. The mirror of conceit reflects a shrewd, far-sighted, conservative—the "safety valve" of the concern—the deliberate, judicial, cross-checking partner.

But close acquaintance detects the ASS PELT under your LION SKIN, and accurately estimtes you as a narrow-gauged, stubborn reactionary—an enervating CREEPER, retarding the growth of a healthy business—sustained by the strength and energy of abler but HANDICAPPED associates.

You have a voice in CONTROL, but you mistake the RIGHT to judge for the ability to FORM competent opinion.

WHEN foresight arches the future with RAINBOWS, you delight to darken the prospect with STORM CLOUDS.

Nothing is certain until it has been ACHIEVED. Each unfinished undertaking is entitled to the benefit of DOUBT, but you INVARIABLY doubt that it WILL be finished.

There's a percentage of RISK in all commerce. Roads would never be broken to ANYTHING or ANYWHERE, if there WEREN'T men to insist that there may be short cuts and better ways. You're not a member of that club.

Time and again, confidence has turned adverse odds and won through where precedent and prejudice were waving the white flag, the favorite banner of your timorous, dog-in-the-manger nature.

Because you are privileged to discourage and deflect subordinate originality, don't DELUDE yourself that your decisions PREVAIL because of greater CAPACITY.

A speck of dust may clog the works of a watch, mere stones derail the fastest express; miserable little ship-worms sink the proudest schooner; marine vermin contrive to destroy the mightiest dikes.

But even YOU would not dare to deduce therefrom that DUST and BOULDERS and CRAWFISH are superior to clock-makers, mechanics, shipwrights and engineers.

ANY idiot can defeat the EFFORTS of a GENIUS.

An inventor may file away for decades at a revolutionary device, but the same rasp, in the grasp of a FOOL, can mangle his model in a DOZEN strokes.

You chronically UNDERMINE what you do not UNDERSTAND. Projects beyond your squinting vision are always "impractical."

You consider a situation closed, because you are never OPEN to CONVICTION.

Dumb luck has elevated you to a position of importance—but only to demonstrate your IMPOTENCE.

The activities of this earth are so MANIFOLD, change is so CONSTANT, opportunities for improvement so OMNIPRESENT, that NO one can safely rely upon his INDIVIDUAL knowledge or observation and hope to SUCCEED.

Experience has never YET graduated a single pupil.

The school of life teaches fresh lessons every hour—join the class tomorrow morning with receptive ears and an unbiased mind.

Nobody requires education HALF so much as the NUMBSKULL who esteems himself BEYOND its daily need.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I HAVE a very bitter letter from Mrs. R.

Mrs. R. is married to a bully. From morn till night the Big Boy nags and blusters. He rages at her in private—sneers at her in public. He begrudges the simplest expenditures. Her clothes are shabby—her household equipment of the poorest. She has no amusements. She is terribly unhappy. She cries a great deal of the time.

"I can't see how any man can treat his wife that way," she wails.

Behind that outcry there's a pitiful picture of loneliness and humiliation. And yet—her reasoning is all wrong.

THERE ARE NO SPECIAL EXEMPTIONS FOR WIVES.

Wives must win freedom and consideration by exactly the same methods which other humans use.

THERE IS NO FREE FREEDOM.

THERE IS NO FREE RESPECT.

Nor can these things be acquired by going through ceremonies.

WE MUST EARN THEM. WE MUST, EACH ONE OF US, REGARDLESS OF TITLE, ESTABLISH OUR OWN RATING—WIN OUR OWN PLACE IN THE SUN.

We must win that place with our blood kin, our husbands and wives, our sisters and brothers, our children and parents, as well as with strangers and business associates.

The recognition and consideration which you get as a mother, a father, a wife or a husband, soon wears out. THE ONLY RECOGNITION AND CONSIDERATION WHICH LAST ARE THOSE WHICH YOU ACHIEVE AS A REGULAR HUMAN BEING.

Moreover, they're the only recognition and consideration to which you're entitled.

YOU HAVE NO RIGHT TO EXPECT LIBERTIES AND PRIVILEGES AND ATTENTIONS UNLESS YOU, YOURSELF, IN YOUR OWN NATURE, HAVE THE QUALITIES WHICH COMMAND LIBERTY, PRIVILEGE AND ATTENTION.

Nor is it enough to have these qualities. You must put them on the map.

You must struggle for strength in yourself—for good sense—and courage—and poise—

AND WHEN YOU HAVE ACHIEVED THEM, YOU MUST MAKE OTHER PEOPLE REALIZE AND RESPECT YOUR RECORD.

You needn't be noisy about it, or pesty. But you must be FIRM.

DON'T BLAME THE OTHER FELLOW IF HE STEPS ON YOU! BLAME YOURSELF FOR LETTING YOURSELF BE STEPPED ON!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Day's End

WHAT would you ask
When the day ends,
Leaving your task
As dusk descends?

Soft the stars' eyes,
Frogs' cries ring harsh,
Where white mists rise
Over the marsh.

What would you ask
When day has died?
Lift up your mask
Cast it aside.

Here, where the dim
Cypress boughs meet,
Laugh if your whim
Makes laughter sweet.

What would you ask
When day is through?
Lift up your mask
Now, and be true.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Thoughts while strolling: Those wooden cross dinguses on windows when they blast next door. A flood of honey and waffle parlors. Kansas City actors with Picadilly accents. Dr. John Erdmann, a Chillicothe, O., boy who made good in the city.

Park avenue's poetic butler who lands in big magazines. Paul Reinhart, the art dealer. Beauty parlor sign with "Chock Full o' Nuts" sign directly underneath. The picture of Valentino that remains draped in mourning in a butcher shop window. A Bombay Bicycle Club.

Churches with big electric signs—trying to compete with golf and jazz. Most churchgoers, however, still want muted music and quiet. Beaten-looking dodos who meekly follow wives out shopping. And carry the bundles. What's become of the fellows who used to have a row of hidden pins in their coat lapel?

How flattered most of us are by the bow of a cop. Grim gray faces in Mills Hotel windows. Harry Thaw's old studio, now occupied by a famous Hungarian painter. A natty Brummel—Russell Patterson. A book shop dealing only in detective fiction. Banana split and marshmallow sundae rowdies.

Swarthy Cuban dandies with glittering blondes. Wonder if there is a Mme. Obry? The Negro doctor with a liveried chauffeur. Crisp white mustached fellows in club lounges who never look up from financial pages. Every now and then you see a gray derby.

White flannel shirts piped in black. A Coney Island hot dog millionaire who backs a Broadway show once in a while. Aldermanic types who seem to have a roll-top desk under their vests. And always chew an unlighted cigar. Aviation school in a cellar—the high low, as it were. Hope Sutherland, a stage beauty.

So many girls in New York resemble Ann Pennington. Hole-in-the-wall gyp ticket agencies where you pay triple to peek around a post. There is a polite cop—No. 14,475. Substantial looking fellows who wear black ties and small pearl stick pins.

Fifth avenue is shortly to have one of the most magnificent jewelry shops in the world catercornered from another celebrated jewel establishment. It is the branch of a house famous in London, Paris and Nice, and reputed to have collected the largest gems in the world. The demand now is for Kohinoors in diamonds, emeralds, rubies, etc. The smartly-dressed lady confines herself largely to a single adornment—which must be a whopper. The $250,000 diamond is no longer the inspiration for a double-page spread in the Sunday papers. It is just a little trinket.

But a return to simplicity is noted among song entertainers. Finger-snapping and prancing mammy singers, vo-deo-do, skiddle-de-scow, and poo-poo-pu-doo crooners are out. The now popular theme songs in the talkies are stressing old-fashioned sentimentalities of the Gay Nineties. Gymnastics and moans are no longer a necessity in putting over a song. A conspicuous example of the new vogue was Rudy Vallee, who, without the slightest gesture, and singing much in the manner of the bashful boy at school, knocked the town cold for a time. All his songs were of the moon, spoon and June syrupiness.

Another turn of the cycle marks a simplicity in plays. The bedroom farces, the naked revues and exploitation of perversion themes fail to half fill the theaters. The hit dramas have a "Shore Acres" touch. Flip talking comics rate only a yawn. And what is true of songs and plays is true of books. The smutty novel cannot be sold in even cut-rate departments, and in the publishers' lists this fall are a half-hundred books reminiscent of "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and "Stringtown on the Pike." Perhaps we have all been worrying unnecessarily about the sagging morals of the old world, after all.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HAVE you ever noted the joy of a man who has purchased a home after having rented for years?

Life holds a different viewpoint.

He has something to work for—something to plan for—something to encourage him to make improvements in home and manner of living.

Despite your observations you may be hesitating about purchasing.

You think of the years it may be before you will actually own it.

The sacrifices you must make to meet installments, perhaps, and other expenses of tax and upkeep, are burdens you don't want to assume.

You don't want to be worried by debt.

Getting right down to brass tacks your hesitation is really that you do not wish to sacrifice any good time, for which ready money might be needed.

Perhaps you have not laid aside enough for a final payment.

You cannot make even this accumulation without cutting some of the things that you enjoy.

It may be personal, not family sacrifice and denial, that hinders you.

Aren't you selfish to let your own personal pleasure be a weighing consideration?

Don't you give too much thought to your own pleasure?
